Politics Stalls Tax Session Anew.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Republican politics was the rock on which foundered today the hope of immediate action by the special session of the general assembly to meet the emergencies of the local governments of Chicago and Cook county.

With Mayor Cermak declaring a moratorium on political expediency, it had been hoped by advocates of the governor's tax conference program that actual progress would be made today in the meeting of the special committees of the senate and assembly named for the purpose of expediting business, but before they had passed the stage of actual business dilatory tactics became evident.

The crux came with a motion by Senator Andrew S. Cuthbertson [Republican, Hinsdale Hill], who is believed to be used occasionally as the mouthpiece of the senate ring, to send a committee to Chicago next Monday to get the "last, final ultimate" word of the banks concerning the possibility of financing Chicago and its associated governments through its difficulties.

Harmony Goes Glimmering.

This was finally accepted by a 15 to 10 vote of the membership of the two committees after a debate which ended wide open the harmonious agreement.

After this the two houses "went into" recess. There was a perfunctory session of the committee of both houses in the afternoon in which a distinct harmony appeared, an understanding was reached that the motion taken would not be binding upon any one. Upon this basis the senate committee would take final action on the income tax, which is an integral part of the governor's program and considered merely routine business. On the house side the same spirit existed and it began to look as though both chambers would kick the quorum necessary for business tomorrow.

Session Gets New Name.

As a result of this do nothing day the special session acquires a new name in place of its previous designation of the "hen pheasant session." The new appellation is the "it's-no-difference session," based on the fact that regardless of the action of the interests of desperation both houses and all their members were silent upon their right to individual action when the roll is called.

Ironically the analysis of the situation here finds Mayor Cermak, under his leadership, the Cook County Democratic organization, had formed willingness to sacrifice for the emergency cause the Democratic machinery of Chicago and Cook county. But at the moment there came into the picture Charles V. Barrett, one of the nine Republican members of the board of review, and certain friends of Edward R. Litsinger, the second Republican on the board.

They Alter the Picture.

What transpired between dusk and daylight has not been disclosed, but it is believed that these forces persuaded Gov. Emmerson and the senate leaders who to let out of whack were the only Republicans in Chicago still holding title to the support of the voters.

The results of Mr. Barrett's activities became manifest at the meeting of the two committees when the Cuthbertson motion, calling for the appointment of a joint committee, five from each house, to call upon the Chicago bankers, was made.

"Unless we do that," Senator Ernest C. Kessinger [Rep., Aurora] commented, "let's put ourselves on record as favoring the abolition of the present assessing and reviewing system. We would be in much better position to talk to the bankers if we did that."

Senator Has an Idea.

The senate president pro tem, Senator J. Burr of Joliet, objected to the motion.

"We shouldn't let the bankers run this body exactly," he said. "My notion is that in order to reestablish the credit of Chicago we should abolish the assessing system but leave the board of review as it is now constituted. An assessor should be selected by the governor and the president of the board of Cook county commissioners and he would serve on an appointment until a successor was elected in November, 1932. The board of review should have curative powers for the interim."

"That won't work," objected Mayor

DRUGGAN TALKS FAST, BUT JUDGE HAS LAST WORD

All Terry Gets Is Delay of Sentence.

Terry Druggan, one time opulent beer baron whose literary attainments have been revealed in civil proceedings, played the part of a lawyer yesterday before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Druggan defended himself in his income tax dodging case, mingling such phrases as "double jeopardy" and "offer in compromise" with double negatives and mixed tenses.

Druggan and his former partner in the beer industry, Frankie Lake, appeared before Judge Wilkerson to be sentenced on pleas of guilty to income tax evasion, but the persuasive powers of Druggan and the assistance of Attorney Peter Sissman won a continuance until Monday.

Try to Show "Understanding."

Druggan and the lawyer sought to show that the pleas of guilty were entered with the understanding that Judge Wilkerson "would go light" in fixing punishment, somewhat in the manner of Al Capone's ill fated plea of guilty. They also tried to show that United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson had agreed to recommend a compromise of the civil liability.

The lengthy session ended with Judge Wilkerson indicating that he would dispose of the cases on Monday, imposing the maximum penalties if he saw fit. Both Druggan and Attorney Sissman admitted at the close that Mr. Johnson had never agreed to make any recommendation concerning either the criminal or the civil liability.

Pronounces Pleas Irrevocable.

The Druggan and Lake pleas of guilty were entered with the condition that felony counts against them could be withdrawn if similar counts were pressed in the income tax cases of Ralph Capone and State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien. These cases were affirmed by the higher courts and Judge Wilkerson yesterday pronounced the Druggan and Lake pleas "final and irrevocable."

"Before the entry of these pleas," said Attorney Sissman, "I had an understanding with the United States attorney that in consideration of them he would recommend the acceptance of a compromise offer of the money liability to the government."

Mr. Johnson's Position.

"The only position I have taken in this case," said Mr. Johnson, "was that if they [Druggan and Lake] could settle their troubles with the government that was a matter for the commissioner of internal revenue and that I would have no objection, but that these questions could never affect the criminal cases."

DRUGGAN—Your honor, when I signed that paper [referring to the plea of guilty by stipulation] I was told that the government would take $150,000 and I understand that you would let me show that I paid it.

THE COURT—Have you paid it?

DRUGGAN—I didn't pay it because there is some kind of a paper excuse. Col. Clifford told me in Washington that Mr. Johnson recommended it [acceptance of the offer in compromise] to the internal revenue and now they say take out the $150,000 [the offer in compromise] and leave the plea of guilty up to the court.

Col. Clifford Explained.

THE COURT—Who is Col. Clifford?

DRUGGAN—He is secretary of the treasury. [This brought a laugh from the spectators and District Attorney Johnson explained that Col. Clifford is a former assistant secretary of the treasury, now an income tax lawyer.]

THE COURT—They [the treasury department] could not sign a compromise that would affect the plea of guilty that has been entered.

DRUGGAN—Your honor, they told me they would not talk to me until I done this. I don't know how I got into this thing, Judge. I don't know how I got in here. They told me to pay the government and you would be right on me after I done it. Now, everybody don't know nothing about it.

THE COURT—Who told you I would be right on you?

DRUGGAN—The fellows in Washington told me if I got the O. K. and I had good intentions and didn't try to cheat the government that would make a difference with the court.

THE COURT—I think that every thing that transpired was in open court so far as I am concerned.

DRUGGAN—No, he [indicating Attorney Sissman] didn't—he told me he talked to these men there, that he made an agreement with the district

Farmers Take Largest Share of Reduction

The price of milk in quarts will be cut from 13 to 12 cents in Chicago and nearby suburbs, effective next Jan. 1. The price of pints will remain at 8 cents and the price of one-third quarts, sold mainly to restaurants, will continue at 8 cents. Prices on the various grades of cream will remain unchanged.

Announcement of the one cent reduction in quarts of milk came at midnight last night at the termination of a five day conference between heads of the principal Chicago dairy companies and representatives of the Pure Milk association, the cooperative organization of 19,000 farmers selling to the metropolitan market. The conferences were held at the Hotel La Salle.

The Milkmen's Statement.

A formal statement, issued on behalf of both parties, read as follows:

"The Pure Milk association at midnight announced a reduction of 21 cents per hundred pounds of basic milk, effective Jan. 1, 1932. The new cost to the distributors will be $2.01 per hundred pounds for milk testing 3.5 per cent in butter fat, f. o. b. county plants and platforms. The reduction in price was asked by the distributors to enable them to lower the price per quart on Jan. 1."

Representing the farmers at the meeting were William C. McQueen of Elgin, president of the Pure Milk association; Don C. Geyer, general manager, and members of the association's board of directors. Among the retail dairymen present were William H. Wanser, president of Sidney Wanser & Sons; Frank H. Kullman, president of the Bowman Dairy company, and Dr. Fred D. Walmsley, president of the Borden's Farm Products Company of Illinois.

Burden Falls on Farmers.

"By our agreement the farmers are accepting approximately 75 per cent of the reduction and the dealers 25 per cent," said Mr. Wanser. "Dealers distribute approximately 5,000,000 pounds of milk daily in the Chicago and suburban market which is about 1,400,000 quarts."

Accepting an unofficial estimate that two-thirds of the total milk is sold in quart bottles and thus becomes affected by the price cut, Chicago and suburban housewives are in a position to secure a saving of approximately $9,200 daily, or $3,358,000 yearly on their milk bill.

At $2.32 a hundred pounds the farmers have been getting about 4.95 cents out of every 12 cent quart. At $2.01 a hundred they will receive about 4.32 cents out of every 12 cent quart, leaving a balance of 7.68 cents for the dealer's gross share.

Average Is Reduced.

However, the farmers point out, they will not get 4.32 cents a quart on all milk they sell. Under rules of the Pure Milk association a member must pay dues of 2 cents on every 100 pounds sold and must abide by the association's rule as to the percentage of his milk bottled for city retail distribution. For all unbottled milk the farmer gets the market butter price of $2.32 a hundred. This, according to government estimates, brings his average return per hundred pounds to $1.85, instead of $2.01 a hundred.

An important factor in the negotiations, it is understood, was the wage scale maintained for the last four years by the Milk Wagon Drivers' union.

The unionized drivers are being paid a riding wage, starting at $35 and reaching as high as $75 in proportion to the number of customers. The scale, the farmers contend, gives the driver the equivalent of 4 cents out of each 12 cent quart. One farm official summed up the situation thus:

"We dairymen, with an average investment of $10,000 in our farms, are getting the same return on our capital as the wagon driver, who has no investment."

GLENCOE SCHOOLS FACE SHUTDOWN; CASH EXHAUSTED

Unless revenue is produced from some unexpected source within the next four weeks the three elementary schools of Glencoe, north shore suburb, will be compelled to close for lack of cash. The schools have an enrollment of 1,000 children.

The financial plight of the village, which has an assessed valuation of $17,000,000 and which numbers among its residents some of the wealthiest families of the metropolitan area, was revealed last night by Homer F. Horton, president of the Glencoe school district. The shut-down decision was reached at a school board meeting Tuesday night, Mr. Horton said.

"Our cash is exhausted and the banks have refused to buy our tax anticipation warrants," Mr. Horton explained. "The teachers, janitors and other employes have been paid up to Jan. 1. We don't propose asking them to work for nothing after that.

While the business depression has a bearing on Glencoe's troubles, a more important factor is the spread of a taxpayers' strike among the villagers, according to Mr. Horton. Of 1,100 property owners on the tax rolls, 340 have obtained injunctions restraining County Treasurer McDonough from collecting their taxes on the ground that the 1929 assessment is invalid, Mr. Horton said.

Glencoe's schools employ 44 teachers and six janitors and have a budget of $16,000 a month.

Rail Wage Cut Parley Goes On Behind Scenes

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Activity behind the scenes of the meeting of the railway union men in Chicago, seeking to arrive at a decision on the suggestion of the railroad managements that the million and a half rail workers voluntarily accept a 10 per cent wage cut, was reported from several sources last night.

Among the reports was one that Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, who is known among the union men as one rail executive friendly to their organizations, had been asked to address the 1,500 union representatives in their sessions now being held at the Palmer house.

Conference Is Reported.

Mr. Willard was reported to have been in conference with the national leaders of the railway unions last night. It was said the subject discussed was whether he might address the general chairmen in their meeting to present on behalf of the railroads a plea for the union men to consent to a reduction.

The Baltimore and Ohio president was chairman of a committee of nine railroad presidents which held a three day conference with the union heads in New York last month and is well posted on all points of the situation.

When he was interviewed last night Mr. Willard refused to affirm or deny the report that he had been asked to speak before the union men.

Willard Declines Comment.

"Well, might I ask whether you have been in conference with the union leaders tonight?" the reporter said.

"Yes, you can ask," Mr. Willard replied.

"Do you mean by that that you will not discuss it?"

"Yes. You have it right."

Mr. Willard was asked if he planned to leave this afternoon for Washington to attend an important meeting of railroad presidents at which the freight rate increases recently granted the roads by the interstate commerce commission are to be discussed.

"No; I will be in Chicago tomorrow," Mr. Willard replied. But he refused again to state whether he is staying in Chicago to address the union meeting or to hold conferences with the union leaders.

No Word from Union Chief.

Efforts to discuss the reports with David B. Robertson, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association, presiding officer of the union meeting, were met with a statement at his hotel, the Palmer house, that he had retired for the night.

There was some talk among the union men that the wisest course for

PROGRAM OF TAXES UNDER MELLON'S PROPOSED PLAN

Net incomes [individual] up to $4,000, now taxed 1½ per cent, would pay 2 per cent.

Second $4,000 net, now 3 per cent, jumped to 4 per cent.

Net incomes above $8,000, now 5 per cent, advanced to 6.

Surtaxes would start at 1 per cent for more than $10,000 net income, gradually increase to 37 per cent for between $100,000 and $200,000, and reach 40 per cent on incomes of more than $500,000.

The personal exemption would drop from $1,500 to $1,000 for single persons and from $3,500 to $2,500 for heads of families. Exemption for each dependent would be $400. The project is for income tax raises to be retroactive, covering income for 1931.

Corporation income tax would be increased from 12 to 13½ per cent and the $3,000 exemption eliminated.

One-sixth increase over present rates on tobaccos except cigars.

Increase of 1 cent in stamp tax on sales or transfers of capital stock.

Extension of the present tax on admissions through reduction of the present exemption to 10 cents.

Tax on manufacturers' sales of automobiles, trucks, and accessories at 5, 3, and 2½ per cent, respectively.

Stamp tax on conveyances of realty of 50 cents for each $500 of value in excess of $100.

Tax of 5 per cent on manufacturers' sales of radio and phonograph equipment and accessories.

Stamp tax of 2 cents on each check and draft.

Tax on telephone, telegraph, cable, and radio messages of 5 cents for charges of 34 to 50 cents and 10 cents for charges over 50 cents.

Secretary Mellon recommends a reportax on inheritances to bring in $15,000,000 for the last half of the 1932 fiscal year and an increase in postal rates to provide $150,000,000 a year.

Schools to Close Dec. 23 for Christmas Vacation

Superintendent of Schools William Bogan announced yesterday that schools will be closed Wednesday, Dec. 23, for the Christmas vacation. They will reopen Jan. 4. The schools are being closed a day early so the children may help their parents in making preparations for the celebration of Christmas, Supt. Bogan explained.

Mounting Costs

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—There are now approximately 750,000 persons on the federal government pay roll, up 150,000 this year. It is five times what it was 15 years ago.

The enforcement of prohibition is an item. The direct appropriation for the prohibition bureau with 2,700 employes is about 12 millions. But with the expansion of the coast machinery, coast guard, prison capacity and other facilities now required for dry law enforcement, the total annual cost of the Volstead act is estimated to touch 65 millions.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—President Hoover's proposals of increased and additional federal taxes, increased and additional federal taxes, increased and additional federal taxes, to form a part of a national treasury deficit of $1½ billion dollars this fiscal year and $2,000,000,000 next year, were submitted to the new congress in his annual budget message today before it became apparent that his program is destined to meet with formidable opposition.

SENATOR HARRISON
[Fotograms.]

Not more than a corporal's guard even of administration Republicans at the Capitol fully endorsed Mr. Hoover's recommendations to increase income, corporation, estate, tobacco, stamp, theater admission and other taxes, to tax sales of automobiles and radio sets, and radio conversations, checks, telephones and other messages and raise postal rates.

Objections Cover Wide Range.

Objections to the Hoover tax plan took a wide range. Many Democrats echoed the criticism voiced by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] that the sales taxes and the lowering of the income tax exemptions proposed by the President are unjustified and the retroactive application of the income tax raise to 1931 incomes indefensible. At the other end of the gamut opposition were Representatives James M. Beck [Rep., Pa.] and numerous others, Republicans as well as Democrats, who condemned the Hoover proposals comprehensively, contending that the deficit should be met by legislating and taxing beer and light wines, suspending the retirement of the public debt and radically curtailing the paternalistic expenditures of the central government.

Democrats Have a Plan.

Senator Harrison asserted that the Democrats would reject the Hoover program and frame a plan of their own for meeting the deficit.

Inasmuch as the Democrats control the house in which revenue legislation must originate by constitutional provision, great interest attaches to the attitude toward the executive proposals that will be formally adopted by the Democratic leadership. The Democratic position, which will have an important bearing upon the party fortunes in the presidential contest next year, will be determined in general by the new bipartisan joint policy committee of the two chambers and in particular by the Democratic members of the ways and means committee of the house.

Budget Four and a Half Billions.

The budget in which the Hoover message is incorporated estimates the aggregate expenditures for the fiscal year of 1933 at $4,601,479,101, which is only 40 millions less than the aggregate appropriations for the fiscal year 1932. Taking into account, however, deficiency appropriations for this year, yet to be made by this congress, Mr. Hoover claims that his estimates for 1933 represent economies totaling 365 millions.

The largest reduction effected by the President is in the expenditures of the war and navy departments, which are cut in the aggregate 85 mil-

During the first eleven months of this year, the Chicago Tribune printed 81.1% more want advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.

CALL SUPERIOR 0100—ADTAKER!

Boss. The principal national defense costs are in warship and aircraft construction.

The deficit for the fiscal year 1931 was $903,716,946. For 1932 Mr. Hoover estimates a deficit of $2,122,583,685 and for 1933 a further deficit of $1,416,249,448 conditional upon increased revenue from the taxes he proposes. In the fiscal year 1934 the budget would be balanced for the first time since 1930, according to the President's figures.

Sliding Outlines Increase.

The details of the President's tax program are given in the annual report of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon which was made public when the budget was transmitted. In working out the program Mr. Mellon had the assistance of S. Parker Gilbert, partner of J. P. Morgan and formerly an assistant secretary of the treasury, who was called in when Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills became ill.

The plan in its broad outlines is to submit, with some modifications, the revenue act of 1924, which was in force until supplanted by the present law, passed in 1926. At the higher rates of the 1924 law, individuals and corporations are to be taxed on their incomes for 1931, 1932 and 1933, the rates beginning July 1, 1932.

Income tax increases are proposed which would amount to less than one per cent on net incomes below $50,000 and would rise to 16 per cent on net incomes of $100,000 and over. The normal tax rates on individual income are to be 3, 4, and 5 per cent, instead of the present rates of 1½, 3, and 5 per cent.

Surtaxes Increased.

Surtax rates will begin at 1 per cent on incomes above $10,000 and rise to 40 per cent on incomes above $500,000, compared with the present surtax rates rising from 1 per cent on incomes above $10,000 to 20 per cent on incomes in excess of $100,000.

The personal exemptions would be lowered, as a result of which 2,700,000 persons with small incomes who were taxable under the 1924 act but exempted by the present law would be brought back into the ranks of taxpayers. The exemptions would be fixed at $1,000 for single and $2,500 for married persons, compared with the present exemptions of $1,500 and $3,500 respectively. The present credit of $400 for each dependent would be retained.

The principal modification of the 1924 act with respect to individual income would be the retention of the more liberal earned income provisions of the present law.

It is proposed to increase the present 12 per cent tax on the incomes of corporations to 13½ per cent and to eliminate the $2,000 exemption for domestic corporations with net incomes of $25,000 or less.

Miscellaneous Taxes Proposed.

The miscellaneous taxes proposed are:

Increase of one-sixth in the rates on tobacco manufactures and products, except cigars.

Increase of 1 cent in present stamp taxes on sales or transfers of capital stock.

Ten per cent tax of theater and other amusement tickets costing more than 10 cents.

Five per cent tax on sales of automobiles.

Three per cent tax on sales of jewelry.

Two and one-half per cent tax on automobile accessories.

A cents tax of 2 cents on each bank check and draft.

Stamp tax on conveyance of realty of 10 cents for each $500 of value in excess of $100.

Five per cent on sales of radios, phonographs and accessories.

Tax on telephone, telegraph, cable and radio messages of 5 cents for charges of from 14 to 50 cents and 10 cents for charges over 50 cents.

The tax on estates recommended by

Tax Increases Asked by Hoover and Mellon

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Among other revenue proposals the treasury has recommended that effective on incomes for 1931 individual income tax rates and exemptions be revised to conform to the revenue act of 1924. Under the 1924 plan normal rates applicable to individual incomes would be fixed at 2, 4, and 6 per cent instead of the present rates of 1½, 3, and 5 per cent; surtax rates would be graduated from 1 per cent on incomes in excess of $10,000 up to 37 per cent on incomes between $100,000 and $200,000, reaching 40 per cent on incomes in excess of $500,000, compared with present rates graduated from 1 per cent on incomes in excess of $10,000 up to 20 per cent on incomes in excess of $100,000. Personal exemptions would be fixed at $1,000 for single individuals and $2,500 for married individuals, compared with $1,500 and $3,500 respectively under the existing law, the present credit of $400 for each dependent and the earned income provisions of the revenue act now in effect remaining unchanged.

The effect of this proposed revision of the individual income tax rates and exemptions is illustrated by the accompanying table which shows the amount of tax which would be paid under the present act and under the act as revised according to the treasury's proposal by a married individual with one dependent and by a single individual with no dependents, assuming various amounts of income.

Comparison of total individual income tax payable under the present law (1928 revenue act) and under proposed rates (1924 revenue act) by a married individual with one dependent and by a single individual without dependents.

(It is assumed that all net income not in excess of $10,000 is earned and in addition one-half of the net income in excess of $10,000 until the statutory limit of $30,000 earned income is reached. It is also assumed that net income includes no dividends, no capital net gains or losses and no interest on government bonds.)

*Present maximum earned income allowance of $25,000 retained instead of $10,000 as under the 1924 act.

Mr. Mellon is that of the act of 1921 which provided rates graduated from 1 per cent on the first $50,000 up to 25 per cent on amounts over ten millions. This increase in estate taxes is to be achieved by means of a supertax in addition to present rates, with no deduction from the supertax allowed for state estate taxes paid.

To reduce the postal service deficit which he estimates at 150 millions Mr. Mellon proposes an increase in postage rates.

From these sources President Hoover estimates that additional revenue of 390 millions in the fiscal year 1932, and 920 millions in 1933 will be obtained, distributed as follows:

	1932	1933
Income tax increase	$82,000,000	$135,000,000
Corporation income tax	97,000,000	93,000,000
Miscellaneous taxes	203,000,000	514,000,000
Estate supertax	.....	11,000,000
Postal rate increase	78,000,000	180,000,000
Total	$390,000,000	$920,000,000

Budget Still Unbalanced.

With allowance made for the sinking fund to retire the public debt the President estimated that by July 1, 1933, there would be a net increase in the debt of $3,247,000,000 unless more revenue is obtained.

"Rightly or wrongly," he said, "our tax system is largely based upon business profits and in consequence is subject to great variables.

"We cannot maintain public confidence nor stability of the federal government without undertaking some temporary tax increases. It is obviously impossible to impose a degree of taxation which will balance the budget for the current fiscal year. We should endeavor by increase in taxes and rigid curtailment of expenditures to balance the budget for the next fiscal year except to the extent of the amount required for statutory debt retirements. We should assure its balance, including statutory debt retirements, for the fiscal year following.

"The plan of approximately re-enacting the revenue act of 1924 has the great advantage that the government is equipped by experience with similar legislation for its systematic and economical collection. The public has paid such taxes in the past and has found them not intolerable and has found that they do not prevent increased prosperity. By providing a definite date for termination of the temporary increase it will allow taxpayers to look forward to definite relief.

"I further recommend that congress inquire into the economic effect of the provisions of the present law relating to capital gains and losses.

"We have recently closed one fiscal year and are now advanced into another year where the depression in business has resulted, on the one hand, in a heavy falling off in receipts and, on the other hand, in large federal expenditures to provide work to assist in the relief of unemployment.

"The welfare of the country demands that the financial integrity of the federal government be maintained. This is a necessary factor in the rebuilding of a sound national prosperity. This budget, with its recommended reductions in appropriations and increases in revenues, presents a definite program to this end involving three steps—first, a material reduction in the anticipated deficit for the current fiscal year; second, a relation between receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year 1933 which will avoid a further increase in the public debt during that year; and third, a balanced budget for 1934.

Urges Economy in Congress.

"To carry out this program it is important to emphasize the fact that we are now in a period where federal finances will not permit of the assumption of any obligations which will enlarge the expenditures to be met from the ordinary receipts of the government.

"I am confident that the congress realises this situation and will give it full consideration in passing upon matters which may contemplate any such additions to our spending program. To those individuals or groups who normally would importune the congress to enact measures in which they are interested I wish to say the most patriotic duty which they can perform at this time is to themselves refrain and to discourage others from seeking any increase in the drain upon public finances."

TAX PROPOSALS CRITICIZED FROM VARIOUS ANGLES

"Too Low," Smoot; "Hurt Business," Harrison.

[Affiliated Publications Special Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—From both senior members of the senate finance committee—Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman, and Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], ranking minority member—came criticism today of the administration's program for increased taxes.

Senator Smoot, though generally approving, doubted that Secretary Mellon's tax program would be sufficient.

"It is doubtful," he said, "whether, under present conditions, the rates recommended by the secretary will raise sufficient funds to meet the demands which will be made by legislation at this session."

Senator Harrison was particularly critical of the proposed tax on checks, deeds, telephone and telegraph messages, saying that they would discourage the return of business to its normal channels. He was even more emphatic in opposing any proposal to make tax increases retroactive.

"Resurrects War Taxes."

"When the secretary recommends a tax on radios, which never before have been subjected to a tax; revives the automobile taxes, taxes transfers of real estate, telephone and telegraph messages, increases the tax on cigarets and compels every one who enters a moving picture house to pay a tax, and goes back to the Spanish-American war as a precedent to put a tax on checks and drafts, he is resurrecting war taxes in peace time," said Harrison.

"Such a policy is imposing greater burdens upon commerce, communication, transportation and banking. But, worse than all, while he seeks to raise millions through those methods, he proposes the unfair and indefensible plan of compelling the American taxpayer to pay on his 1931 operations. It is the most retroactive plan ever suggested to the American congress and at the most inappropriate and inopportune time with which the American people have been confronted.

"Any retroactive plan of collecting taxes, in my opinion, will not meet the approval of the new congress. Increased expenditures for public improvements—amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars—and the sinking fund requirements should at least be taken care of through additional bond issues, and such taxes as must be raised should be raised from future operations and not from past transactions.

"I am against any retroactive tax, and I cannot believe that it is necessary at this time to collect such a tax from the American people."

Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] was another who believed the increase should on the whole be even greater.

"Present conditions closely parallel wartime conditions," he said. "I can see no objection, offhand, to reinstating the wartime surtax rates."

Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] took an opposite view from that of Senator Harrison. He believed that the income and inheritance tax increases should not be too great, and that further revenues might well be derived from business taxes.

Wants Open Budgets.

Representative Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], new chairman of the house appropriations committee, declared today that the former administration policy of submitting one budget and then increasing it through numerous supplemental appropriation measures during that session of congress would not be tolerated by the Democrats.

"The people fix this budget estimate in their minds, but that is not the true picture," he declared. "Supplemental bills continue to come to us, and instead of the budget estimate the total has grown enormously before the end of the session."

Sheriff Bags 672 Rabbits, but Not with a Gun!

Valparaiso, Ind., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Sheriff Burney Maxwell, Porter county, proved himself a great hunter today. He bagged 672 rabbits. The rabbits were in a truck which had been hijacked from William Morris, Greenup, Ill., and abandoned by bandits who took forty-two cases of chickens and thirty crates of eggs.

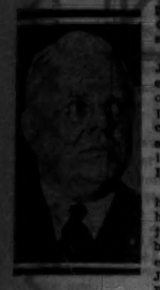
SUPREME COURT FREES TWO BAIN SONS FROM JAIL

Finds Judge Feinberg Was Without Jurisdiction.

Three members of the Bain bank-ing family were released from the county jail at 4:15 p. m. yesterday on order of the state Supreme court. They were John H. and Robert A. Bain, sons of John Bain, president of 12 closed banks, and their brother-in-law, W. Merle Fisher.



CHAS. S. DENEEN.

The three men had been ordered held to the grand jury on Dec. 1 on bonds of $40,000 each by Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg, who accused them of embezzlement, operating a confidence game and obtaining money under false pretenses. They were unable to raise the bonds and were confined in the jail.

Charges "Despotic" Power.

Former Senator Deneen represented the Bains at the court session in Springfield. He contended, in his petition for writs of habeas corpus for the trio, that Judge Feinberg was without jurisdiction in holding the Bains and exercised a "despotic" power.

The Supreme court in its decision stated:

"The constitution of this state provides in part that no warrant shall issue without proper cause, supported by affidavit. This section of the constitution has been many times construed by this court and it has been uniformly held that no citizen may be arrested and held to answer a charge of crime other than on a sworn complaint before a judge."

The decision then cited many cases in which this phase of the law has been upheld and quoted the language of one decision as follows: "All right-ful imprisonment is the sentence or act of the law and that sentence must be reached through the proceeding appointed by the law. Despotic or absolute power in every form is prohibited by our constitution.

"The order was without basis in law," the decision concluded, "and violates the plain provisions of our constitution. The said judge was entirely without jurisdiction to enter such order and it is void. The motion for the discharge of the relator is allowed."

Sons Hurry to Homes.

The two Bain sons and Fisher hurried out of the jail, dodging photographers and refusing to be interviewed by reporters. They jumped into a sedan and went to their homes. The men later visited their father in the Evangelical Deaconess hospital, where he has been a patient for more than a month. The Supreme court order also released John Bain from the supervision of a deputy sheriff.

It was pointed out that not a single charge is now placed against any of the Bain family. A week ago the grand jury had voted true bills against them and Judge Feinberg's charges kept them in jail. Since then the grand jury decided not to return indictments on the advice of Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber and the Supreme court has nullified Judge Feinberg's action.

Judge Feinberg yesterday continued his investigation of the First Humboldt State bank, which failed May 14 with $3,000,000 due to 23,000 depositors. Howard M. Sims, chief bank examiner for the Chicago Clearing House association, and Fred Edgerton, chief bank examiner in Cook county for the state auditor's office, were witnesses.

The Clearing House association voted to expel the bank from membership on March 4, more than two months before it failed. Mr. Sims testified that this action was taken because of the bank's inability to raise $215,000 to cover doubtful assets of $125,000 and estimated losses of $214,000 and because the capital stock had become impaired to the extent of $35,000.

Allowed to Stay Open.

Edgerton told the judge why the bank has been allowed to remain open the last week before it was closed when it was known that its capital structure was impaired. The directors told him on April 30, he said, that all liquid assets had been pledged to secure a loan and that only $238,000 cash was on hand.

"Some one suggested that 'We might as well quit,'" Edgerton testified. "But I suggested that a few days might be allowed in which I could raise the needed amount of money to keep them open. I tried the Noel State bank (now closed), but it wouldn't merge with the Humboldt bank, and several other banks could do nothing."

Albert H. Severinghaus, former member of the school board, gave Judge Feinberg a cashier's check for $1,000 after being threatened with a receivership of his $100,000 laundry. Severinghaus owed the bank $2,500 and was given until next Wednesday to raise the remaining $1,500.

Commended by Judge.

Adolph Amundson, 2639 Armitage avenue, a wholesale butter and egg dealer, was commended by the judge. He owed $2,900 to the bank. He paid $100 in cash yesterday and promised to make regular payments on the balance of the debt, turning over to the receiver as security $20,000 in accounts receivable, $1,000 in stock and a $10,000 insurance policy.

Dr. John R. Ballenger, 2724 West North avenue, also displayed a willingness to give all he had to the receiver. He has reduced a loan of $28,700 to $10,405 and assigned to the receiver a number of shares of stock, also agreeing to make regular payments.

RAIN AND SNOW IN PROSPECT FOR CHICAGO TODAY

Rain, possibly mixed with snow, and cloudy skies are in prospect for Chicago and vicinity today, according to the government forecast. The temperature will remain around the freezing point. The storm which deposited 5.1 inches of snow in Chicago over an eight hour period was reported moving eastward.

In the 24 hours ended at 7 o'clock last night, rain or snow fell throughout the Mississippi valley and eastward to the Atlantic coast. The snow was heaviest in Wisconsin, northern Illinois, and Iowa. Davenport, Ia., reported a snowfall of six inches.

The blanket of snow in Chicago quickly melted to slush. Traffic moved slowly through the busier sections of the city. Despite the slippery condition of pavements and sidewalks, no serious accidents were reported during the day. Miss Mabel C. Crowder, 21 years old, 4921 Sheridan road, a dancer in the Frolics café at 13 East 22d street, was blinded by the snow and walked in front of a 22d street car at State street early yesterday. She suffered cuts and bruises.

101 ON PAY ROLL OF WHITE HOUSE, BUDGET SHOWS

'Salaries' Run from $936 to $75,000.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Want to work in the White House? There's exactly one hundred and one jobs there, from the President's, which would bring you $75,000 a year, down to a mere maid, which would net you $936 a year.

These and other financial facts were revealed today in the government's budget estimate for the fiscal year 1933.

Perhaps you'd rather be a cook. If you do, just the ordinary victuals, you know—spinach and carrots, soup and salad, and a plain dessert—you'll receive $1,080 a year. But if you can prepare that famous coffee ice-cream that is served at White House functions and can get up a tasty meal fit to set before a king—a visiting king—then you'll be rewarded with $1,920 every twelve months, and in addition have the title, "Chief Chef."

All told, the budget lists sixty servants in the White House. The manager gets $3,000 a year; the assistant director of gardens, $2,600. Next come four foreman mechanics at a salary of $2,400 each.

Here's the Retinue.

In the salary level of about $1,860 a year are valet, clerk, painter, gardener and plumber. Think of having a plumber always on hand when a pipe bursts.

The next salary level, $1,630 a year, includes five gardeners, two laborers, a mechanic and the butler. The $1,500 a year plateau is occupied by five laborers, two footmen, a cook, and a house cleaner. Another cook gets $1,200; an assistant butler draws the same; a chambermaid makes up the beds and dusts for $1,080 a year; four house cleaners work for the same amount, and so do three pantrymen.

The staff of sixty servants are budgeted for $85,140 for 1933. This item, with repairs, equipment, supplies, and other White House domestic expenses, brings that section of the budget up to $142,000, as against $185,000 appropriated for 1932.

Large Clerical Staff.

The President, in addition to $75,000 salary, receives $25,000 a year for traveling and official entertaining. He has three secretaries at $10,000 apiece a year, and there is a clerical staff of thirty-seven whose annual salaries aggregate $126,160.

The estimated expenses for the entire executive department for 1933 are as follows:

Salary of President	$ 75,000
Salary of Vice President	15,000
Secretaries, clerks	126,160
Contingent expenses	40,500
Printing and binding	2,700
Traveling and entertainment	25,000
White House servants, supplies, etc.	142,000
Total	$426,360

Last year's total appropriation was $472,380.

Lewis Outbows Them All as He Takes His Seat in Senate

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK,
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—James Hamilton Lewis, with the gestures of a Sir Walter Raleigh, the costume of a Beau Brummel, and the showmanship of a Flo Ziegfeld, came into the United States senate at noon today, a dramatic 48 hours late, to take his oath of office as the new Democratic senator from Illinois.

Republican opponents tugged at one hand in hospitality; Democratic colleagues grabbed the other in welcome. Vice President Curtis made a regular dancing-school bow. Up in the gallery ladies lifted their lorgnettes the better to see the sprightly figure radiant in brown, from the reddish brown hair and whiskers, to the deep brown cutaway, and down to the light tan spats.

Down a Bit More Elegantly.

Just before the gavel banged the senate to order, Senator Lewis came out of the Democratic cloakroom and the first he met was Senator Ashurst of Arizona. Now, up to time, Senator Ashurst has been the old school cavalier of the senate and he did his best to bow low. But the gentleman from Illinois bowed just a bit more elegantly, and the two of them attracted the attention of quite a group that gathered around.

Up came Tom Heflin, who, pending a decision in the Alabama senatorial election case, persists in sitting on the sidelines of the senate. The sleeve of Senator Lewis' brown coat swept across Mr. Heflin's white waistcoast as Senator Lewis fiddled with the black cord that held Mr. Heflin's eyeglasses. At last Senator Lewis located the glasses, brought them out across vest, left them dangling there as if to say, "That's the proper way to wear 'em."

By this time Senator Glenn of Illinois had come into the picture. Senator Lewis patted his shoulder, then gently readjusted the lapels of his fellow countryman's coat.

Senator Glenn announced that he had "the honor to report that Senator Lewis is present and ready to take the oath;" and the two marched up the aisle. As soon as this oath-taking business was over, Glenn shook hands with the new senator. Up jumped Republican McNary to give a handshake, and California's Hiram Johnson. Across the aisle Democrats hurried to their feet to grab their man before the Republicans did all the congratulations. Robinson of Arkansas led the hand-shaking and it continued until the man in the brown cutaway was back in his seat and had taken out his brown silk handkerchief to push a lock of brown hair out of his eyes.

At the conclusion of the session Senator Lewis had a few things to say about Mr. Hoover, about Chicago, and about women.

Of President Hoover's stand on the tariff he said: "It is certainly very accommodating, designed to please both parties and to hurt neither."

Has Message for Chicago.

To Chicago he issued this warning, this promise:

"Our people should be aware of the fact that there is a strong move to cut out the Great Lakes Training station. That would be a catastrophe. Far from cutting out, I am hopeful of having it turned into a midwest Annapolis, where men may become naval officers. There seems to be a quaint belief in the east that we in the west can produce 'jobs,' but no officers. That is all wrong."

When he spoke of women there was a twinkle in his eye.

"You know," he began solemnly, "if the Republican party really wants to do something handsome by its women, the way it always claims it does, why doesn't it put a woman in as an assistant secretary of agriculture? Women play a heroic part in farm life. Now my suggestion is that the Republicans get in Ruth Hanna McCormick as such an assistant secretary."

He would Reward Women.

Then he continued:

"And it'd be a good thing to have some women in our foreign embassies, as attaches. What about the Republicans rewarding their Illinois national committeewoman, I mean Bertha Baur?

Before he had time to give any more jobs to Republican women, a long line of Democratic gentlemen had come up to shake his hand and wish him well.

BRITAIN AUCTIONS JEWELS GIVEN TO HELP IN CRISIS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Christie's auction house was the scene today of one of the most unusual sales ever held, numerous articles, including gold, jewels and all sorts of trinkets which were sent to the chancellor of the exchequer to help the nation in its crisis realised about £700 (nearly $3,500 at par).

Many were the gifts from "poor gentlewomen." All were sent, many anonymously, "to be sold for the benefit of the nation." Among them were rings, brooches, lockets, bracelets, wrist watches and even fragments of old China which had been carefully treasured for years.

WITNESS BARES WHOOPEE FUND IN CANAL TRIAL

Graft for Timothy Crowe's Bowling Team Told.

The sanitary district treasury was just one huge barrel of money which was used for every purpose from the personal philanthropy of Timothy J. Crowe, president of the district during the whoopee era of 1927-1928, to staking whoopee with members of the legislature, according to the testimony of seventy-six pay rollers yesterday in Chief Justice Fisher's Criminal court.

JUDGE PRYSTALSKI

Crowe and seven other trustees and former officials of the district are on trial without a jury on charges of graft conspiracy. Judge John Prystalski, who was ill yesterday, and Judge James J. Kelly are sitting in an advisory capacity with the chief justice.

The prosecution has introduced testimony showing payments totaling $100,000 to pay rollers who did no work for the sanitary district. So far 122 pay rollers have been placed on the witness stand.

Will Seek Perjury Indictments.

At the adjournment of court yesterday Assistant State's Attorney Harold Keele announced that perjury indictments would be sought against two minor witnesses, who swore that they performed "considerable service" for their pay.

One of Prosecutor Keele's associates asked him why he was going to seek the indictments.

"Two of the men testified they did considerable work," he replied. "That does not square up with their previous grand jury testimony. Everybody knows anyhow, that they did no work for the district."

The witnesses are Joseph Biala, 1617 South Mason avenue, who was sponsored for his job by Edward F. Moore, former deputy commissioner of public works under the previous city administration; and Paul Brown, 1432 West Congress street.

Taxpayers Pay for Whoopee.

The testimony that the public tax money was used for gay parties came from William J. Conners, Democratic boss of the 23d ward. He had an expense account of $400 a month and obviously members of the legislature in order to promote good will. He said he believed the expense account had a title a somewhat saucy.

Crowe was not the only one who apparently used the public money to take care of his friends out of a job. The testimony indicated that Frank D. Link, the late Deneen representative on the board, and James Whalen, who is still a trustee, put friends to work to "help them out."

The testimony against Crowe, however, was considered the most damaging by the prosecutors, because two women without political backing came to testify that he put them on the pay roll, and because he used the public funds to finance an athletic team for personal advertising. On the opening day of the trial it was shown that he had used the district treasury indirectly to pay one of the employes of his tailoring concern.

State Speeds Up Testimony.

The testimony yesterday was rapid because three assistant state's attorneys working in shifts questioned the witnesses as fast as they could be called to the stand. The defense agreed to the prosecution asking leading questions so as to hurry through the pay roll testimony. Seldom was anything asked on cross-examination.

One point emphasized time and again by the prosecutors was that the public treasury was used to finance the party workers, irrespective of party. Every faction of either party which had representation on the board was able to load up the pay rolls just before the primary in the spring of 1928 and the election in the fall of the year, according to testimony. Many of the witnesses testified that they worked for only two or three weeks just before these elections. Then they were discharged.

Political Leaders Named.

Among the prominent political leaders listed in the testimony yesterday as sponsors for pay rollers were the late George E. Brennan, who was the Democratic boss; Christian Paschen, building commissioner in the former city administration; Charles Weber, Homer Galpin, James Cullen, Deneen committeeman; United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer, David S. Cheerow, Deneen committeeman; Clarence Piggott, congressman; A. J. Sabbath; Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney. The Brundage Republican organization also was named as a sponsor.

William F. Schumann, 4468 Malden street, a former leather manufacturer, said his funds were getting low and he appealed to the defendant, Link, a friend of thirty-five years, for help. Link put him on the pay roll, but he did not work, he testified. He was questioned as follows:

Q.—Did you call this to Link's attention? A.—I most certainly did. He said I would be given something soon.

Miss Evelyn A. Simmons, 1159 Lunt avenue, a stenographer out of a job, said she asked Crowe for work and he put her on the pay roll for three weeks.

Q.—How long did you know Crowe before this? A.—About one year.

Q.—How did you meet him? A.—I really don't remember. I think it was through a friend.

Recommended by Brennan.

Matthew Leinin, 2046 Ellis avenue, who is nearly blind and had to be led to the witness chair, said he was given a job at the recommendation of Brennan, despite the condition of his eyes.

Charles Scioli, 1426 Spruce street, caused some laughter when he said he went to the Hotel Sherman to wait for the boss to come tell "us what to do."

"Who was the boss," asked Judge Fisher.

"I don't know the boss," the witness replied. "He never showed up."

J. A. Eggleston, 1223 Jackson boulevard, told how Chesrow, the Deneen committeeman, loaded five of his workers into a taxicab and took them down to Trustee Link's office, and had them put on the pay roll.

Questioned on His Job.

Jake Hoekstra, 11136 Wallace street, was questioned about how he got his job.

"Because I have been in politics all my life," he said. "When a man has been honest in politics all his life he has got to have a job just as much as a judge does."

The prosecutors said that the defendants could not deny their responsibility for the pay roll padding, because witness after witness had testified to going to one or the other of the trustees with a letter or card from some politician asking for work.

Despite the illness of Judge Prystalski the trial will continue. The absent judge will be provided with a transcript of the evidence he has missed. Additional pay roll witnesses will be called today.

THE MORNING SESSION

Among the twenty-five pay rollers on the witness stand during the morning session of court was William J. Connors, now employed in the Municipal court bailiff's office. Connors is considered the Democratic boss in the near north side river wards.

The late George E. Brennan, Democratic boss, sponsored him for the job, Connors said. He was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Henry Seyfarth as follows:

Q.—When did you work for the sanitary district? A.—I started early in 1927 and worked until December, 1928.

Q.—What was your salary? A.—$400 per month and expenses.

Q.—What were the expenses? A.—About the same amount.

Q.—Who was your sponsor? A.—George Brennan.

Q.—What was your assignment with the district? A.—To the Illinois Valley division at Beardstown.

Q.—Did you ever go to Beardstown? A.—No sir.

Q.—Did you ever go in the Illinois valley? A.—No further than Springfield. I was really more of a lobbyist. I was told by Mr. Brennan to promote a friendly feeling with the members of the legislature.

Q.—What did you do to promote this friendly feeling? A.—It was my duty to see that the members from out of Chicago saw the boulevards and other places of the city.

Q.—How about the Chicago members? They did not have to be shown the boulevards and parks did they? A.—No, I took care of them in an entertaining way with lunches and shows and things like that.

Q.—Was there any limit on your expense accounts? A.—I don't remember, I think it cost me two or three times more than I got.

Q.—Whom did you report to about your work? A.—I saw Brennan about three or four times a week.

Q.—You said Mr. Brodie assigned you to your work. Did you report to him? A.—No, why should I?

Q.—Do you know if the trustees of the district knew of your good will work? A.—I don't know.

The prosecutor then started to question the witness—with a limit of sarcasm—as to how he entertained the Chicago members of the legislature and Judge Fisher interrupted him:

"Don't argue with your own witness."

The prosecutor dropped the whoopee inquiry at this point and the defense attorneys did not cross-examine.

Defendant's Brother Testifies.

Kalmen Lidschin, 3200 Sheridan road, and Edward Edelstein, 940 Winona avenue, the latter a brother of Martin Edelstein, a defendant, revealed an unusual situation. Lidschin and Edward Edelstein are brothers-in-law. Lidschin first testified that he did not personally indorse the $881 in checks made out in his name. He authorized Edelstein to collect the checks and bank them, he said. Edelstein admitted these facts. Lidschin was questioned as follows:

Q.—Did you do any work for the sanitary district? A.—No.

Q.—What pay roll were you on? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Did you receive any money from these checks issued in your name? A.—Yes, after Edelstein cashed them he gave me the money, all except what I owed him.

Edelstein corroborated these facts, but it was not brought out in the testimony of either man what debts Lisschin owed to Edelstein. Edelstein himself was on the pay roll, collecting $300.

Reveals Graft by Crowe.

Arthur McKeown, 2901 Leland avenue, testified that Timothy Crowe financed his athletic projects with money from the public treasury. He said that about $5,000 was taken from the taxpayers to pay the expenses of the T. J. Crowe bowling team. He personally took out $2,750 in unearned salary and another member of the team received the other checks. His testimony was as follows:

Q.—What did you do with the $250 per month salary you received from the district? A.—I used it to pay the traveling expenses and fees of the five members of the Crowe bowling team.

Q.—Did the team present any medal to Crowe? A.—Yes, the team won a medal and we had a duplicate made and presented it to Crowe.

Q.—Who sponsored you for the pay roll? A.—T. J. Crowe.

Q.—Did you ever talk about this personally to Crowe? A.—Several of us were in his office at the time. We were asked how much it would cost to run a team for a season. I said between $2,500 and $3,000.

McKeown lodged the prosecutor's questions when asked about personal conversations with Crowe. He said that Charles Reading was one of two men who put up a "front" for Crowe at these meetings. None of the bowlers were employes of the district, although pay was collected, he admitted.

Hattie Wolk, 852 Aldine avenue, a coal saleswoman, said Crowe gave her a salaried position without work. She collected $125. She said commissions in the coal business were small at that time and she went to Crowe personally and asked for help. He sent her to a department head, she said. Attorney Fink asked her only one question on cross-examination.

Q.—Did you know Crowe before this time? A.—Yes, for a great many years.

Crowe sat on the long bench in the front of the courtroom with the other defendants in the morning session. The first witness of the day was Henry Wallace, chief clerk of the district, who was recalled to give additional testimony about the system of making up the pay rolls.

PAROLE OF CANNON'S FINANCIAL ADVISOR IS REVOKED BY U. S.

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The parole granted on July 16 to Harry L. Goldhurst, New York bucket shop operator and financial advisor to Bishop James Cannon Jr., has been revoked by the department of justice, federal officials in this city revealed today.

Goldhurst was sentenced to five years for mail fraud on Oct. 16, 1929. When it was announced that he had been granted a parole, Senator Carter Glass of Virginia demanded that the department of justice determine if a "blame worthy agreement" had been entered into by officials in New York or elsewhere whereby Goldhurst would receive an early parole in exchange for his plea of guilty. Goldhurst was notified yesterday that the parole had been revoked.

MYSTERY BULLET KILLS BRIDE IN NEW JERSEY

West Orange, N. J., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—While police were investigating the firing of a .32 caliber bullet through a window of the living room of the home of J. C. Dorn at 9 Colony drive, west, one of the most fashionable residential sections of West Orange, tonight, a similar bullet was fired through the bathroom window of a house two doors away, fatally wounding Mrs. Grace Juliano, a bride of five months.

Mrs. Juliano, who was the wife of Joseph V. Juliano, a Newark furrier, and a daughter of John A. Moffitt, a conciliator of the federal department of labor at Washington, was just preparing to take a bath when the shot was fired.

Her husband, who was down stairs, heard her call "I've been shot." He telephoned for an ambulance and she was rushed to the Orange Memorial hospital, but died on the way.

At the hospital it was said the bullet lodged just below Mrs. Juliano's heart. Mr. Juliano said his wife was a prospective mother. He was heart broken when informed of her death.

Meanwhile the police at the Dorn home had received word of the shooting. They searched the vicinity, but could find no trace of any prowlers. They were inclined to think the shots had been fired by mischievous small boys.

Mr. Dorn said he was in the living room just about 9 o'clock when he heard the report of a rifle and a bullet crashed through one of the windows and went whistling across the room. He telephoned the police.

They were just answering his call when the shooting at the Juliano home occurred.

Police recalled the mystery shootings were similar to others in New Jersey in recent months.

NEW ZEALAND'S COSTS MARCH ON AS INCOME FALLS

State Pay Roll Slashed to Cut Expenses.

BY QUENTIN POPE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Sixth Article.]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Dec. 9.—Steadily sinking, New Zealand's revenues have dropped to figures which proclaim for the fourth time this year the necessity of increasing taxes.

The treasury's recently published accounts for the first half year reveal that total revenues have fallen to the new low of $36,735,000. Last year's already diminished half year total was $45,285,000.

Customs duties totaled $13,310,000 out of total tax collections of $27,858,000, or $1,525,000 below expectations as announced by Finance Minister William Downie Stewart some weeks ago.

Accounts Again in Red.

Against this further drop of almost 19 per cent in revenue, the government has been able to show a cut in expenditures of only $3,800,000, outgoings have been reduced from $61,185,000 to $57,315,000. Accounts for the half year are thus again in the red.

These disappointing results are expected to spell doom to even more public projects and additional state employés. State service chieftains, each instructed to reduce his quota within a set limit, are touring the country, slashing remorselessly.

The difficulty now is that the state machine has grown too big and unwieldy. Financed in good times by large loans raised abroad, the government has creaked to a standstill with price levels failing to continue their ascent and of the dominion's loan markets closing in London.

Luxury Enterprises to Go.

Operating present projects with anything like present sized staffs will building workers have been dismissed soon have to be recognised as beyond all hope. Complete extinction of luxury enterprises is feared by sections of the public service today. But while state employés—50,000 of them altogether in a nation with a population about equal to that of Porto Rico or Florida—are filled with anxiety, other fields are hit much harder.

Layoffs in the building and construction trade have reached more than 50 per cent. In the mines employment is only 10 per cent of normal. Diminished cargoes have resulted in reducing wharfside work to 40 per cent.

Retailers average a loss of 15 per cent of their employés and large manufacturing plants are at a standstill. Trade with the United States has been dealt a deadly blow and in the opinion of some competent observers American imports may almost vanish from the field. Returning Americans call from the country by every boat. Recent departures include officers and executives of General Motors, Texas Oil, J. Walter Thompson, Goodyear Tire, Frigidaire, and Firestone.

Figures covering the 50,000 registered unemployed show that 5,000 and that 1,800 engineering tradesmen and 5,000 other skilled workers are jobless. Others without work include 1,700 motor truck drivers, 2,100 farm hands, and 2,200 office and store workers.

Although facing this desperate situation, there has been no general recognition of the meager destiny in store for this country.

Total trade has shrunk more than 25 per cent and exports are expected to be down about equally. But wages are still 46 per cent above 1914 levels. At the peak month of 1930 they were 67 per cent above 1914.

Taxation still remains relatively light and unwillingness to place further burdens upon the electors just before an appeal to the country on an economy platform appears in every move of the government.

Paying Past Extravagances.

Drastic slashing of expenditures is said to be impossible because half of the total expenditures by the general government is now consumed by fixed charges on loans raised overseas for development purposes, hundreds of millions of dollars of which have been sunk in railroad and hydro-electric power schemes that are not paying their way.

Hence, a campaign of "economy," observers state, can be only relative economy, for the country is paying for its past extravagances.

Unemployment in New Zealand might be mistaken for a symptom of the existing crisis, but it is regarded as more than that. A country which has flown too high is blamed.

Local authorities in the past have regarded unemployment relief measures as "good business" and managed to find ways of raising loans for expenditure on such works.

Avoid Jobless Relief Burden.

This state of affairs could not continue long before it became obvious that the burden of unemployment relief was being avoided, economists assert. Both local bodies and general government raised loans abroad to pay for the undertakings. The bill for jobless relief was shifted from those immediately responsible to posterity.

"Once more the buck was passed," critics of the government charged.

But in the background was looming the world trade slump with its scaling downward of values. That was to bring the problem nearer home.

CASEY ARRESTED BY DRYS, AND HE KNOWS NOT WHY

He Isn't Man Described in Warrant, He Says.

Albert Casey sat in the lockup at the federal building yesterday and pondered on the memory of Prohibition Agent John Vorenkamp.

On Monday Vorenkamp bought a drink in a speakeasy at 3 South Sangamon street and in procuring a search warrant for the place swore that he had made the purchase from a dark haired, dark complexioned man about 35 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, and weighing 165 pounds.

Yesterday, in a hurried hearing before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, at which neither prosecuting nor defense attorneys were present, Vorenkamp took the oath to tell the truth and then pointed out Casey as the man who sold him the drink.

But Casey Is a Blond.

Casey, however, is blond instead of dark. He is 23 years old, not 35. He is 6 feet tall, not 5 feet 8 inches; and he weighs 190 pounds, not 165.

After Vorenkamp had identified him, Casey was asked by Commissioner Walker if he, in the absence of an attorney, wanted to cross-examine the agent.

"What's that mean?" asked Casey.

"Have you got anything to say for yourself?" said the commissioner.

"Only that I didn't sell this man any liquor. I never saw him until he arrested me today," replied Casey.

"You can tell that to the District judge," said the commissioner. "Held to the grand jury in $1,500 bonds."

Casey has been out of work for a year, he said later in the lockup. His clothing—a sweater, collarless shirt, and dilapidated trousers—seemed to bear out his statement.

"I drop into that joint where I was arrested every now and then," he said. "I was sitting there when these two agents came in. They asked for the owner and went over and sat down in a corner with him. He looked like the fellow described in this warrant."

Arrested by Dry Agents.

"The owner of the place and the two agents sat there and talked for about forty-five minutes," he said. "There were a dozen other men in the place, but when they had finished the owner pointed to where I was sitting and they came over and grabbed me and brought me down here. I didn't have anything to do with running the place."

Attorney Bernard McDowell became interested in Casey's case and obtained his release on a surety bond. When Commissioner Walker was told of Casey's story he said that he would see today if there is any way of rehearing the case, although he believed he had lost jurisdiction in the matter.

Vorenkamp was accompanied in the raid by Agent N. H. Hinkes.

$1,000,000 LISTED IN INVENTORY OF MANDEL ESTATE

The inventory of the property of the late Frederick Leon Mandel, chairman of the board of directors and treasurer of Mandel Brothers, State street department store, was approved yesterday by N. J. Bonelli, assistant to the probate judge. The estate is valued at more than $1,000,000. Mr. Mandel, who died on Sept. 29 in Paris, left $45,000 to charities and the residual estate in trust for his widow, Mrs. Blanche Mandel, and two sons, Frederick L. Jr. and Leon.

The major portion of the estate consisted of approximately $900,000 in bonds. Cash was listed at $18,000. The largar share of stock consisted of 960 shares of United States Steel corporation and 625 shares of Mandel Brothers, Inc., common, with no par value. Mr. Mandel owned 74 $10,000 first mortgage bonds of the Mandel building, and 38 $1,000 bonds on the same structure.

JAPANESE AGAIN BLOCK LEAGUE; CLOSING DELAYED

Tokio Envoy Still Awaits His Instructions.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 9.—The league of nations council today laid its plan for settling the Manchurian dispute before the world in complete, detailed form, but it was prevented from registering a final settlement by a last minute hitch.

The council adjourned until tomorrow the discussion of the resolution and the interpretative statement of Aristide Briand, council chairman, on a plea by Kenkichi Yochimawa, Japanese delegate, that he had not yet received instructions from his government. It is understood a fundamental disagreement still exists. Yoshimawa's reply tomorrow is likely to be in the form of acceptance with reservation or amendments which will virtually reopen the whole discussion.

Briand Explains Resolution.

Briand's statement discussed the resolution article by article. He stressed the necessity for a speedy withdrawal of Japanese troops into the railway zone, although setting no time limit. He made no reference to a neutral zone, merely urging both parties "to abstain from any initiative which may lead to further fighting and from all other action likely to aggravate the situation."

Regarding the proposed five man investigating committee, Briand pointed out that while its powers are purely advisory, it is competent to make the investigation as wide in scope as it thinks advisable. This was a concession to the Japanese demand that all China be included in the investigation.

The committee, Briand said, has no power to "interfere with the military arrangements of either party."

U. S. Lodges Protest.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Dec. 9.—It is understood the American legation at Peiping is lodging another strong protest with the Japanese military authorities at Mukden against the continued closing of the Mukden radio station. The station was constructed by Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted Manchurian governor, in cooperation with the Radio Corporation of America. It has a traffic agreement for direct communication between Mukden and San Francisco.

Ma Goes Over to Japan.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

MUKDEN, Dec. 9.—After a two hour conference at Hailun with two emissaries of Gen. Honjo, Japanese commander in chief, Gen. Ma Chan-shan, Chinese commander formerly loyal to Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted Manchurian governor, today announced that he will hereafter operate under the "protection of the Japanese."

Shanghai Students Riot.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 10. [Thursday.]—Five thousand students rioted in the Chinese portion of Shanghai all last night. They stormed the offices of Mayor Chang Chun and forced him to accede to their demands for the dismissal of Col. Chen Shih-tseng, head of the bureau of public safety, and to release students arrested in demonstrations against the government's Manchurian policy.

The students disarmed soldiers acting as bodyguards for officers who strove to speak and drove out the officers, shouting that they had better go home. They virtually demolished the Kuomintang headquarters, where they trampled on the portrait of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese republic.

The students remained about the municipal offices all night long. It is reported that suburban students are marching into Shanghai to assist them, while Nanking is filling up with demonstrators protesting against the government's weak policy.

Text of League Peace Resolution

PARIS, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The text of the league council's resolution to adjust the Manchurian controversy as made public today reads as follows:

"The council first reaffirms the resolution passed unanimously by it Sept. 30 whereby the two parties declare they are solemnly bound.

"It therefore calls upon the Chinese and Japanese governments to take all steps necessary to assure its execution so that the withdrawal of Japanese troops within the railway zone may be effected as specdily as possible under conditions set forth in said resolution.

"Considering that events have assumed an even more serious aspect since the council meeting of Oct. 24, the council notes that the two parties undertake to adopt all measures necessary to avoid any further aggravation of the situation and to refrain from any initiative which may lead to further fighting and loss of life.

Council Invites Information.

"The council invites the two parties to continue to keep it informed as to the development of the situation. It invites other members of the council to furnish any information from their representatives on the spot.

"Without prejudice to the carrying out of the above mentioned measures and desiring in view of the special circumstances of the case to contribute toward a final and fundamental solution by the two governments of the questions at issue between them, the council decides to appoint a commission of five members to study on the spot and to report to the council on any circumstance which, affecting international relations, threatens to disturb peace between China and Japan or the good understanding between them on which peace depends.

Commission Cannot Interfere.

"The governments of China and Japan will have the right to nominate one assessor to assist the commission. The two governments will accord the commission all the facilities to obtain on the spot whatever information it may require.

"It is understood that should the two parties initiate any negotiations these would not fall within the scope of terms of reference of the commission, nor would it be within the competence of the commission to interfere with the military arrangements of either party.

"The appointment and deliberations of the commission shall not prejudice in any way the undertaking given by the Japanese government in the resolution of Sept. 30 as regards the withdrawal of Japanese troops within the railway zone.

"Between now and its next ordinary session, which will be held on Jan. 25, 1932, the council, which remains charged with the matter, invites its president to follow up the question and to submit it afresh if necessary."

EXPERT PREDICTS WORLD ECONOMIC CRASH IN 2 MOS.

MANCHESTER, England, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Sir George Paish, eminent economist, predicted in an address today that the world's economic system would break down within two months.

"If my information is correct, and I think it is, nothing can prevent a complete world breakdown," he said.

"We must call the nations together without delay to consider the situation. Reparations should be abolished or reduced to so small a figure that they would be negligible. Interallied debts should be written off entirely and the United States should forgive the $250,000,000 a year due her from those debts. Further than that, the world's tariffs must come down."

DRUGGAN TALKS FAST, BUT JUDGE HAS LAST WORD

Only Thing Terry Wins Is Delay of Sentence.

attorney, and all I had to do was listen. Now none of them knows anything about it, your honor. Now I am crazy or he is crazy [referring to Attorney Sissman].

THE COURT—Nobody has accused you of being crazy. [Druggan acknowledged this compliment with a smile, but insisted that he was told to pay and the court would show leniency].

District Attorney Johnson was insistent upon obtaining the admissions of Attorney Sissman and Druggan that he promised to make no recommendation as to the offer in compromise of the criminal liability.

MR. JOHNSON—[To Attorney Sissman]—In the discussions with me and with my assistants the question of the compromise of the criminal liability was never discussed or even thought of?

MR. SISSMAN—No.

MR. JOHNSON—We are clear about that?

MR. SISSMAN—Yes.

MR. JOHNSON—There isn't any question about it.

MR. SISSMAN—There is none.

Defense Wins Continuance.

The defense desired the continuance to Monday for the purpose of showing that efforts to settle with the government are being made and offered to plead this in mitigation of punishment. They also desired to call certain witnesses, including Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, former collector of internal revenue, and revenue agents to show that Druggan had always desired to compromise and had not willfully evaded his taxes.

The continuance was granted because Attorney William F. Waugh of counsel for the defense, will be out of town until Monday.

Druggan and Lake, who together owe the government more than $500,000 in taxes and penalties, are trying to settle for $150,000.

Commend Policeman for Killing Bandit in Holdup

Sergt. Martin J. McCarthy of the Summerdale police was commended yesterday by a coroner's jury for killing Carl Hein, whom he shot Tuesday night when Hein attempted his third robbery in two months of an office of the Prudential Insurance company at 2403 Blaine place. Edna Worman, 30 years old, 3036 North Keating avenue, alleged sweetheart of Hein, appeared at the inquest and was arrested on a warrant charging confidence game which was obtained several months ago by the Noel State bank.

The case against Frank McErlane, gunman and public enemy, charged with the murder of his wife, Eltrida, was continued to Dec. 18 by Judge Alfar M. Eberhardt in the Federal court yesterday. Judge Eberhardt set McErlane's bond at $25,000, which was posted by a surety company later in the day. Mrs. McErlane was found shot to death in her automobile in front of 8129 Phillips avenue on Oct. 7.

Two Negroes Accused of Two Killings Lynched

Lewisburg, W. Va., Dec. 10.—(AP)—[Thursday.]—A mob of about 60 men took two Negroes from the Greenbrier county jail here early this morning and lynched them by hanging them from the cross arm of a telephone pole. The Negroes, Tom Jackson and George Banks, were being held in the jail on a charge of murder in connection with the deaths of Constable Joseph Myles and Jeff Brown two weeks ago when they attempted to make an arrest.

2 SLAIN, 2 DYING AS RIOTS FOLLOW GERMAN DECREES

Communists and Fascists Clash in Berlin.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—The first night of the "Christmas truce" between German political factions decreed by Chancellor Bruening yesterday brought two big clashes between communists and Adolf Hitler's National Socialists (Fascists) in Berlin. Numerous shots were exchanged. Two persons were killed and two are dying.

This outburst of violence followed closely upon a statement by Chancellor Bruening today, in which he said he was confident that a majority of the German political parties would help enforce the new emergency decrees, "because they will strengthen the position of Germany in the forthcoming negotiations for new agreements in regard to reparations and Germany's foreign debts."

Everybody Is Affected.

The decrees, which cut wages to the 1927 level and slash rents, prices, and even doctors' fees, make Chancellor Bruening and Dr. Carl Goerdeler, the new price commissioner, economic as well as political dictators of Germany. The decrees rob German business of its last vestiges of independence.

Every class of society is hit by the decrees. For the first time in the Christian era, a state has ordered a flat cut in interest rates on every kind of domestic obligations.

Dr. Goerdeler announced that he will take steps immediately to cut the prices of industrial products and freight rates.

Aim to Halt Capital Flight.

A study of the 48 page decree today revealed a drastic provision aimed at preventing a further flight of capital. It provides for the confiscation of one fourth of all property of Germans who take capital out of the country and take up residence abroad.

"We cannot permit the rich to get out of the country with their wealth when the German people are in such a predicament," a government official said.

As the first tangible result of yesterday's decree, the general council of the Reichsbank today reduced the discount rate from 5 to 7 per cent and cut the rate on collateral advances from 10 to 8 per cent. This led the Berlin banks at a meeting today to decide to reduce the rate on short term credits from 10 to 8 per cent. While heretofore the banks' interest rates have always been 2 per cent above the Reichbank's discount rate, they agreed to set them henceforth at 3 per cent above, as before the war.

Budget Reduced by 30%.

Chancellor Bruening declared today that through a succession of drastic cuts he has reduced expenditure estimates of the German government for 1932 by 30 per cent under expenditures for 1930. The new budget, not including the reparations payments, now totals $2,000,000,000, as compared with $3,800,000,000 two years ago.

This, he hopes, will prove to the world that Germany is operating with the strictest economy and will facilitate financial negotiations with the creditor nations at Basel and Berlin. The latter negotiations will begin tomorrow, when Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the governing board of the Chase National bank, New York, and Charles Edwin Mitchell, president of the National City Bank of New York, arrive with bankers from other parts of the world. They are prepared to start negotiations on amortization and repayment of Germany's short term foreign debts.

Ask Reichstag Meeting.

Nationalists and communists, in an effort to overthrow the Bruening cabinet and prevent the wage cuts decreed by the chancellor, have asked the reichstag elders to meet Friday and convoke the reichstag. They hope the Socialists, Adolf Hitler's National Socialists, and the small middle parties will vote with them against Chancellor Bruening's Centrists and the Social Democrats.

Chancellor Bruening conferred with party leaders today and tomorrow he will endeavor to convince them of the necessity of trying out his decrees and keeping things quiet pending the international negotiations.

MAC DONALD TO CALL WORLD CONFERENCE TO SEEK DEBT CUTS

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—A great "conference of governments" to investigate all the causes of the world's economic ills is contemplated by the British government, Prime Minister MacDonald told the house of commons today.

Declaring flatly that such a conference would be held, Mr. MacDonald said the government would like to have it convene immediately after the banking experts now meeting at Basel send in their report on Germany's capacity to pay reparations.

One of the specific tasks of the gathering of government, the prime minister said, would be to examine "questions of international debts, which lie at the base of our currency problem."

"It is the view of this government," Mr. MacDonald said, "that there should be such a conference and that it should approach its work in a spirit of realism."

The governments should examine all the facts, he continued, and should aim at an agreement "which will not merely tide over these difficulties temporarily but will establish the whole world, now linked together by increasing social, political and economic detc:-ration, on a footing of hopeful endeavor."

WHEN SONNY IS TOLD TO PROTECT HOME HE DOES IT

When Sonny Panger's mother left him alone in their home at 3415 Sunnyside avenue, Brookfield, last evening, to go shopping, she cautioned him "to watch the house." He replied that he would.

Half an hour later, Sonny heard suspicious noises in the basement. He telephoned Sergt. Walter Griffin, of the Brookfield police. "There's a burglar in our basement," he whispered. The sergeant ordered Motorcycle Policeman George Zahora to the scene.

Zahora reached the Panger residence after a speedy, perilous trip in slushy streets. He crept into the basement, gun in hand, seeking the reported burglar. In the front, under a dim light, he saw a Christmas tree. It was moving. He leveled his revolver. "Come out from behind that tree or I'll shoot," he warned.

With a grin on his face but his hands in the air, a solitary figure emerged. "Don't shoot," he called in a soft voice. "I'm no burglar."

"Who are you?" asked Zahora, still holding the gun.

"I'm Max Panger," replied the supposed burglar. "I'm just trying to smuggle in a Christmas tree so my boy, Sonny, won't hear."

High Taxes Force British Peer to Sell 'The Red Boy'

NEWCASTLE, England, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Lord Durham will sell at auction in April a masterpiece of painting, "The Red Boy," by Sir Thomas Lawrence, it was announced today. Lord Durham said the sale was necessitated by taxation and death duties. He is reported to have refused an offer of $400,000 for the canvas.

FRANCE ATTACKS GERMAN EFFORT TO CUT PAYMENTS

Says All That Is Needed Is Temporary Relief.

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 9.—(AP)—France opened fire tonight before the world bank advisory committee on the attempt that is being made to reduce Germany's reparations obligations.

The attack was started by Prof. Charles Rist, Bank of France expert, who declared the German case was invalidated by the very evidence submitted by Dr. Carl Melchior, Berlin's representative on the committee which is examining Germany's capacity to pay reparations.

The French delegate made this statement after Dr. Melchior had presented figures on German short term credits and other financial problems facing the committee.

Points to Uncertainty.

The Melchior summary, Prof. Rist said, showed the great uncertainty in Germany and was sufficient justification for the belief that the present was not the time to reevaluate Germany's capacity to pay.

Prof. Rist asserted that the French thesis, that only a temporary arrangement was necessary to tide Germany over an abnormal period of bad business, had been confirmed by Dr. Melchior himself.

The German representative painted a black picture of the future of Germany. He produced evidence to show that the favorable trade balance of 250,000,000 reichsmarks [about $57,500,000]—the monthly average for the last six months—would not last.

Lists Classes of Payments.

He gave exhaustive figures on four categories of German payments: Long term credits, loans not publicly issued, bonds and shares issued in Germany but held by foreigners, and short term credits.

The purpose of all these data was to establish the total amount of annual interest and amortization which Germany is forced to meet. Dr. Melchior's figures were withheld, but it was learned that he said interest charges on public loans alone amount to about $450,000,000.

Sir Walter Layton, British representative, told questioners these statistics were not being published because the world bank committee was not certain of the total, "as it is difficult to sift the good from the bad figures."

Germany Blames Tariffs.

Dr. Melchior laid a part of Germany's troubles on the doorsteps of countries trying to keep out German goods.

The reichsbank delegate said England and other countries which have gone off the gold standard had injured German trade tremendously.

"SETUPS" SALE HELD LEGAL IN COURT RULING

Akron, O., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Restaurant proprietors are not their brothers' keepers, an Ohio District Court of Appeals decided in effect today.

Reversing the decision of the lower court, the Appellate court found that serving ginger ale and ice "setups" to patrons who indulge from personal liquor stocks is not to be construed as aiding or abetting violation of the Ohio liquor law.

In so deciding the court observed that A. W. Smith, convicted as aiding and abetting, had no dominion over liquor brought into his inn, hence was not guilty.

But Smith, the court added, rendered his place subject to padlock for permitting drinking within his knowledge.

Finnish Parliament Puts O. K. on Dry Referendum

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 9.—The Finnish riksdag today passed the government bill providing for a referendum on the prohibition question, which will be held Dec. 27 to 30. Voters will be asked to vote for complete abolition of prohibition, provision for the sale of light wines and beers, or for the maintenance of the present prohibition law.

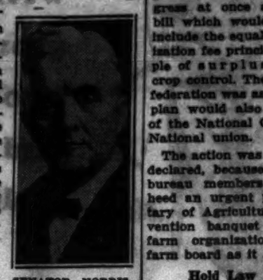
BILL BY NORRIS SEEKS INQUIRY ON FARM BOARD

Investigation of Co-ops Is Also Sought.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—A resolution by Senator George W. Norris, insurgent Republican of Nebraska, calling for a senatorial investigation of the federal farm board, the commodities exchanges and the activities of the private commodities trade in its relation to the board was among the first of the 1,000 bills and resolutions introduced in the senate today.



SENATOR NORRIS. [Tribune photo.]

The resolution called particularly for an inquiry into the operations of the grain and cotton stabilization corporations, to ascertain the necessity for their formation and the losses induced by their operation. The measure also required an investigation to learn whether private interests had interfered unfairly with farm board operations.

Home Loan Bill Filed.

Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.] introduced a bill to provide for a home loan discount system as provided for in the President's message. The system would consist of 12 banks, furnished with 150 million dollars of capital by the government and would assist banks, building and loan associations, and other institutions in thawing out assets secured by home properties.

Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] introduced a bill authorizing an appropriation of $1,750,000 for federal government participation in the Chicago World's Fair centennial celebration of 1933.

The bill establishes a commission to be composed of the secretary of state, the secretary of agriculture and the secretary of commerce. It further provides for an executive commissioner to be appointed by the President and to receive not more than $10,000 a year to supervise the federal exhibits at the World's Fair.

Other Measures Introduced.

Other bills and resolutions were as follows:

Norris—To appropriate a 2 billion dollar bond issue for road building as a means of unemployment relief, with tax increase to offset the cost.

Norris—For constitutional amendments to abolish the short session and the electoral college.

Norris — For government operation of Muscle Shoals.

Ashurst—To investigate working conditions at Boulder dam.

McKellar—To make Alvin C. York an army captain and retire him with rank.

Couzens—For a senate investigation of the financial situation of the railroads.

La Follette—To authorize a federal grant of 250 million dollars to states and municipalities for relief.

Sheppard—To make the purchaser of liquor equally guilty with the seller.

Bingham—To create an American-Samoan government.

Hull—To repeal the flexible tariff provision.

Fletcher—To create the Everglades National park.

Oddie—For an embargo on Russian goods.

King—For Philippine independence.

King—To recall the marines from Haiti and Nicaragua.

Hawes—To create a department of conservation.

Hawes—To create seven regional commissions to assist the I. C. C.

Farm Bureau Asks Congress to Pass Equalization Fee

BY PAUL POTTER.

The American Farm Bureau federation by unanimous vote in the closing session of its annual meeting in Chicago yesterday went on record favoring an amendment to the federal agricultural marketing act.

E. A. O'NEAL.

The federation instructed its legislative representatives to have presented in congress at once a bill which would include the equalization fee principle of surplus crop control. The federation was assured that some such plan would also receive the support of the National Grange and Farmers' National union.

The action was significant, delegates declared, because it showed that the bureau members did not intend to heed an urgent plea made by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde at the convention banquet Tuesday night for farm organizations to support the farm board as it is now constituted.

Hold Law Is Inadequate.

"Time and experience of more than two years in its operation," said the resolution on the marketing act, "have demonstrated the inadequacy of the act properly to control crop surpluses and to make agricultural tariffs effective."

Following spirited debate, the federation added a statement to its farm board plank in which it called on the board to recognise existing coöperative marketing agencies in setting up its national sales organizations. The clause was said to have been added when several delegates pointed out how the board had failed to recognise existing coöperatives in some of its market agency structures.

O'Neal Elected President.

For the first time in its twelve years the federation elected as president a man outside the corn belt, where it is reported to have the bulk of its members. Edward A. O'Neal, of Alabama, who has filled out an unexpired term of Sam H. Thompson of Quincy, Ill., was elected. Charles E. Hearst of Cedar Falls, Ia., was named vice president.

One resolution asked congress to require the federal treasury to subscribe to one hundred million dollars worth of stock in the twelve federal land banks. Temporary investment of this sum, the resolution read, would "afford material relief to thousands of farmers who wish to secure long term first farm mortgage loans but who cannot now do so because of limited funds available in the banks."

Lowden is Speaker.

Former Gov. Lowden spoke at the morning session, after having told delegates that he did not again intend to seek a public office.

Mr. Lowden said American bankers have "gone insane" on the subject of liquidation, a condition which is retarding recovery from business depression. Until either farm prices rise or the wages of industry are reduced, he said, there can be no hope of returning a trading power between industries and the return of seven million unemployed to work.

HEROINE OF 'MARY HAD LITTLE LAMB' DIES AT AGE OF 90

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Hughes, who said she was the immortal Mary of the immortal little lamb that followed her to school, died at Worthing, England, today. She was 90 years old, but, according to her friends, she had a heart as young as when the fleecy lamb followed her to school.

Her often repeated story of the writing of the famous verses by the wife of Senator Horatio Hale was that a lamb followed her to school when she was eight years old. At that time, she said, Mrs. Hale, then Miss Sarah Buel, and her sisters were staying with the Hughes family at Ty Issa farm in Vale Llangollen, North Wales. Miss Buel was so amused at Mary's adventure that she promptly embodied the incident in verse.

Mrs. Hughes received congratulations on her 90th birthday last May from children in all parts of the world who were acquainted with the nursery rhyme. She was blind and suffered from chronic rheumatism.

SUSPECTS ELUDE POLICE.

A gang of suspected bandits escaped in their car from the police yesterday in a chase on the near west side. Policemen Joseph Mooney, Thomas Martin, and P. Smus emptied their revolvers at the fugitives. The chase ended at Jackson boulevard and Market street when a mail truck pulled in front of the police flivver.

JOHNSON STARTS FIGHT IN SENATE ON MORATORIUM

Demands Inquiry Into Part Banks May Play.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—With President Hoover prepared to send his special message on the moratorium to congress tomorrow or Friday, Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] today introduced in the senate a resolution calling for a senatorial investigation of "the sale, flotation and allocation by banks, banking institutions, corporations, or individuals, of foreign bonds or securities in the United States."

HIRAM JOHNSON. [A. P. Photo.]

"I want to ascertain why the American people should be compelled as a whole to stabilize the securities held by private banks and enable these banks to collect the full amount of interest upon the securities they hold while the government of the United States collects nothing from the securities it holds for all the people," Senator Johnson said.

Action Required Soon.

The resolution is the first open attack on the moratorium to be made in congress. The time for approving the moratorium grows shorter, since appropriate legislation must be passed by Dec. 15, the next interest date, if an embarrassing situation is to be avoided.

It is thought that the administration forces in both houses, together with Democrats who pledged their support, will be numerous enough to pass the one year measure. But opponents of the moratorium like Senator Johnson, long time foe of the President, it is predicted, will find supporters coming over to their side should a prolongation of the moratorium or any revision of the debts be attempted.

The Johnson resolution was given immediate consideration, was reported by the audit and control committee, and will come to the senate floor tomorrow.

No Advance in Legislation.

In the meantime, despite the important legislative business knocking at the door, the necessity of completing committee assignments kept both houses of congress in a state of paralysis today.

The senate insurgents continued their fight against the reelection of Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.] as president pro tempore, and prevented any action at all. Four ballots were taken, the Democrats voting for Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, while the insurgents split their votes between Senators Norris and Jones. Senator Cousens, who occupies a border line position between the regulars and insurgents, voted for Senator Capper. The balloting is scheduled to go on tomorrow and until the senate tires of the impasse.

All Politics in House.

The house meanwhile had a free for all debate on the President's message, the first time such a discussion had ever been held. Representative George Huddleston, [Dem. Ala.] led off. He flayed the President as more interested in the rich than in the poor. Representative William B. Bankhead [Dem., Ala.] lashed at the Republicans. Representatives Johnson of South Dakota, Snell of New York, Hawley of Oregon, and Tilson of Connecticut, replied on behalf of the Republicans.

Tilson described the proceedings as "an unusual exhibition, which will not bring encouragement to the country as to what to expect from the party now in control of the house."

The debate is due to continue tomorrow, on the theory, as expressed by Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, that it will enable members to get their speeches out of their systems before getting down to work.

SHIRESON BACK AT OLD STAND, OFFICIALS FIND

Old Doc Is Hunted After Patient Complains.

Old Doc Harry J. Shireson, self-styled plastic surgeon, appears to have returned to the old stand in the loop which he vacated last year after the revocation of his license by the state for malpractice.

Shireson's presence in Chicago was revealed yesterday when Ernest J. Knapp, wealthy coal dealer of Three Rivers, Mich., called at the state department of registration and education to complain to J. E. Edwards, chief inspector, about a "facials rejuvenation," performed upon him several months ago. Mr. Knapp was accompanied by his attorney, L. A. Neindorf of Three Rivers.

"They told me the operation would be absolutely painless and guaranteed the scars on my face would vanish," said Mr. Knapp. "They applied a heated iron to the scars. You can see the scars are deeper now than ever. I paid them $500 for the operation and here's the canceled check."

Hunt Shireson in Office.

Mr. Knapp was uncertain which of five surgeons in the establishment had applied the iron, but said he had discovered later that a "Mr. Franklin," apparent manager of the office, was Shireson's son. Accompanied by C. E. Monohan of the department of registration Mr. Knapp went to the establishment in search of Shireson.

The old doc was not around. Mr. Knapp was received by one of the attaches, whom he recognized as the man who applied the iron to his face. A heated discussion ensued, during which the attache, according to Inspector Monohan, admitted that Shireson was proprietor of the place. A guard was posted to watch for Shireson's return.

Edwards later admitted he had been aware of Shireson's presence in Chicago for several weeks. An inspector had discovered, Mr. Edwards revealed, that Mrs. Estelle De Lia, 28 year old school teacher, who leaped out a window at the home of a relative two weeks ago, had submitted shortly before to a facial operation in the same place where Mr. Knapp was treated.

"The reports at the time were that Mrs. De Lia was despondent over nonpayment of her salary," said the inspector. "Her statement to us was that her face had been mutilated by an operation intended to beautify her nose. She said she wanted to die because she despaired of getting well."

Particularly interested in Shireson's return was Attorney William H. Symmes. Mr. Symmes is counsel for Miss Sadye Holland, on whom Shireson performed a leg straightening operation which cost her the amputation of both limbs above the knees. In settlement of a civil suit Shireson agreed to pay her $40,000.

"Shireson still owes Miss Holland $23,000 and has paid nothing since last January," said Mr. Symmes. "The money he did pay was deposited in a bank in Davenport, Ia., which failed. My client is now penniless as well as crippled. I have been trying to foreclose on four lots, which Shireson posted as collateral for payment of the damages, but have met with no success. Shireson has ceased paying taxes on the lots."

MARRIED WOMEN ARE INEFFICIENT, GERMAN OFFICIAL DECLARES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—"Single women working in government offices have proved highly satisfactory, but with married women we have had the worst possible experiences," Dr. Karl Sautter, representative of the ministry of interior and member of the reichstag, said today.

The budget committee, on the strength of his testimony, decided that married women officials can be told to resign if the authorities believe their families earn enough or are rich enough to support them. They will receive compensation based on the length of their service instead of the pension to which all German officials are entitled.

"Once women are married, they take long leaves of absence because of illness and manage to wangle the right to a pension at the age of 35 through consecutive illnesses," Dr. Sautter said. "These women were willing to agree to retire when they were married, but their husbands did not want to miss the double income, which makes life more comfortable for them."

APPROPRIATION OF $203,925,000 ASKED FOR VETS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—President Hoover this afternoon submitted to congress a supplemental appropriation request for $203,925,000, which he said would be needed to replenish the adjusted service certificates fund and for adjusted service and dependent pay. The supplementary amount was included in the total of $3,996,672,450 estimate for the 1933 cost of government submitted in his budget message which was sent earlier in the day to congress and therefore will not change the total estimate.

In his message to congress concerning the whole budget President Hoover said that it would be necessary to submit a supplemental request "due to the increase in the loan value of adjusted service certificates."

BANDITS TAKE WOMAN'S COAT.

Two bandits in an auto halted Mrs. Anna Burmeister, 11858 Indiana avenue, at 71st and State streets last night and robbed her of her new seal coat and $2.

MANY INJURED AS CHILEAN RIOTERS STORM CONGRESS

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 9.—Many persons were injured in riots here today after attempts by a crowd of communists, radicals and unemployed to break up a parliamentary session and cause a dissolution of the Chilean congress. Twenty persons were arrested.

The demonstrations started when three radical deputies resigned in the session. Spectators in the galleries applauded. Later they threw dried fish, vegetables and crockery at the assembled congressmen.

When the session ended a crowd outside barried the deputies as they left. It next stoned and wrecked street cars and store windows until 1,900 police finally charged and dispersed it. The radical party in its convention here last night decided that all its members must resign. President Juan Esteban Montero and his cabinet are considering what action to take to combat the apparent unrest.

Two Policemen Ousted by Civil Service Board

The civil service commission dismissed two members of the police department yesterday on charges of intoxication. Patrolman Thomas Hussey of the Austin district was charged with having driven his wife and children from their home at 1017 North Karlov avenue on Nov. 17. He then barricaded himself in the house and had to be removed by a police squad. John J. Wilmott, a hostler, was charged with being intoxicated while on duty in the traffic division barn.

RAIL WAGE CUT PARLEY GOES ON BEHIND SCENES

Willard Reported in Talk with Union Chiefs.

them to pursue in the present situation might be to accept the reduction voluntarily. On the other hand, the atmosphere about the Palmer house has indicated a strong feeling against the proposed cut.

Chairman Robertson has stated in writing that the railroads' request for a cut came with poor grace after their refusals to cooperate with the unions in a definitely formulated plan for the relief of unemployment which the unions have agreed upon.

Up to the Men—Robertson.

Although Mr. Robertson has steadfastly refused to make a definite statement on the question of the wage cut, saying it was a matter for the assembled union men to decide in a body, his general attitude has been interpreted as being opposed to a voluntary wage cut, particularly because of his statements that the railroads have not manifested a conciliatory attitude on the requests of the union men.

He has also stated that the railroad managements should consider the rights of the workers, as human beings, above the rights of investors seeking a return on idle capital.

There were reports yesterday, however, that some of the union men have been convinced that they must accept a cut in some manner and that it would be to their interests to take it voluntarily rather than have it forced upon them.

Discuss Cut for a Year.

They might agree to take a cut for one year only, with the understanding that at the end of a year, if conditions were improved, the present rate would be restored. It was pointed out that if the unions oppose the cut and it is imposed on them by arbitration it would constitute a permanent reduction which it would be more difficult to restore to the current level.

It has been reported that if the union men definitely refuse to take the cut the railroads will at once make a demand upon the unions, not for a 10 per cent cut, but for one of 15 per cent.

In the light of these rumors there was an air of doubt and indecision in the situation, with the prospects of having it thrashed out on the floor of the union meeting today or tomorrow.

Ponder Problems of Jobless.

The unemployment problems affecting the union employés, problems which are pictured by labor leaders as more desperate than in any other large industry, were the only matters before the session held yesterday afternoon. The opening the union conferences marked the first time in history that representatives of locals of all the 21 great railway unions were gathered under one roof and in a common cause.

The national leaders of the unions presented their plan for relieving unemployment conditions in the industry, consuming the entire afternoon session in the reading of the program and formal explanations.

Robertson Tells of Session.

The proceedings are in closed sessions, but Mr. Robertson was interviewed at the close of the session yesterday and explained what had transpired. He pointed out that the real purpose of the meeting to present a report of progress on the work of solving the unemployment problems and to determine what action should follow in dealing with that situation.

The delegates at the sessions have no authority to pass upon a wage question, and the most that can be expected from the meeting, it was explained, is an expression of opinion on the subject by the assembled labor leaders. The actual acceptance or rejection of the railroads' plea must be made by the individual brotherhoods assembled in regular meetings.

The report read yesterday disclosed that 500,000 union rail workers are at present not employed at all; that a like number are part time unemployed and receiving only $20 to $30 a week.

To meet this condition the report, which was drawn up by the 21 presidents of the railway unions in collaboration with a committee of five of the largest unions, proposed various remedies. These remedies were presented to a committee of nine railroad presidents in New York last month, and their reactions were outlined also to the meeting yesterday.

The labor men asked for stabilized employment, to assure certain workers of a full year's employment and to assure certain workers of a full year's employment and to give other workers certainty of a minimum part time employment. This was disapproved by the presidents, it was reported.

Other Plans Are Told.

The proposal for a six hour day in place of the present eight hour day was likewise frowned upon by the presidents, the report said. This plan, according to the labor sponsors, would provide employment for an additional 25 per cent of workers, thus diminishing the present ranks of the employed.

Other proposals by the labor leaders called for federal compensation and retirement insurance laws; for the billion dollar grade crossing bond issue; for a salary surplus fund to be accumulated in boom times for use in times of depression; for regulation of industries competing with the railroads against the latter's interest, and other general remedies.

GUN GIRL

JEAN SCHORMAN.

A young woman, who identified herself as Miss Jean Schorman, 1501 East 64th street, was arrested by Maxwell street police yesterday as she entered a lunchroom at 1148 South Halsted street, a pearl handled pistol protruding from one pocket of her coat.

Sergt. Louis Glenner was seated at a side table and as the young woman entered and looked around the restaurant he noticed the gun. He drew his own gun and forced her to surrender hers. The prisoner was locked up at the Racine avenue station, but last night she was to be taken to the Maxwell street station for questioning by Capt. Phil Parodi. When she said she had obtained the gun the previous evening from a caller, Sam Rose, 27 years old, a plumber, of 1305 South Sangamon street, policemen went to that address and took Rose into custody.

He told the police that he wanted to marry the girl, whereup she said, "Well, I won't marry you now just because I'm in a jam."

TOWN TOPICS BOOKS SEIZED ON BLACKMAIL TIP

Second Society Magazine Summoned for Quiz.

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The state attorney general's office descended upon two well known society chat magazines today. The offices of Town Topics, a fortnightly, were raided by detectives headed by Deputy Assistant Attorney General Abraham Davis.

All the books and records were seized and subpoenas were served upon Augustus R. Keller, editor of Town Topics; Carl L. McClure, a member of his staff; Roberta Davison, president of the American Social Register, Inc., which publishes the magazine, and three women clerks.

Later in the afternoon the attorney general's office sent out subpoenas for John C. Schemm, editor of The Tatler and American Sketch, a competing society publication issued monthly, and for Charles Covell of the social service bureau of the magazine, requesting them to appear tomorrow morning with all their books and records.

The purpose of the attorney general's office is to determine whether or not these publications have been selling their stock by fraudulent means in violation of the Martin act. Persons prominent in society have complained that salesmen for the magazines have stated or hinted that a purchase of stock would be insurance against unsavory insinuations concerning the stockholder and would assure that references to him and his family would be felicitous. One father said:

"Just prior to my daughter's debut party a representative of one of these so-called society magazines called upon me. He said his magazine would provide expert publicity for my daughter, linked with censorship of anything we did not want published, if we would give him $500. He finally dropped the sum to $300. I told him I was not interested and ordered him out of my office. The next issue of the magazine carried quite a writeup about my daughter's debut. The article was not actually libelous, but certainly was not complimentary."

Coen, Grand Ruler of Elks, Will Conduct Initiation

John R. Coen, grand exalted ruler of the Elks, will conduct the initiation of a class this evening into the Chicago lodge at 174 West Washington street. John R. McCabe, exalted ruler of the downtown lodge, will assist in the rites. The class is one of the largest ever initiated into the Chicago lodge. Judge Michael Feinberg is chairman of the arrangements committee. Mr. Coen, who lives in Sterling, Colo., is a former attorney general of that state.

JOHN R. COEN.

POLICE SEEKING JERSEY HEIRESS WHO WED AT 15

Girl Escapes Home of Her Parents.

Montclair, N. J., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—"You'll be sorry," said Bevis Pickerell, youthful widower and operator of a motor truck fleet, in a joking manner to John C. Barclay, retired Western Union vice president, when 18 months ago the latter thanked him for rescuing his daughter, Beatrice Barclay, then about 14 years old, from drowning in a Caldwell swimming pool.

With those words were forged the first links in a devious chain of events which last Monday brought Mr. Barclay to the Montclair police headquarters, a distraught and upset man. He reported that his daughter had vanished from her home on the side of Watchung mountain here and that two knotted bedsheets, hanging to the ground from her bedroom window, were the evidence of the manner in which she disappeared.

Met After School Hours.

After the rescue Miss Barclay and Pickerell, who is 29 years old, became chums. She is an attractive girl, dark haired, gray eyed, athletic, and in her general appearance older than 15. Miss Barclay attended the fashionable Kimberly school here and Pickerell met her after school hours in his car. They attended dances, the theater and football games together, and Pickerell was accepted as "Bob" in the Barclay household, according to his own story.

One sunny day last August the young man and Miss Barclay, then 15, were driving through Livingston, near here, when they decided to marry and they stopped for a license. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. C. Phillips in Roseland. They kept their marriage a secret and it remained so until one evening Robert Barclay, a brother of the girl, came upon her wedding and engagement rings in her handbag. He took them to Mrs. Barclay.

Says Wife Forced Home.

With the marriage revealed, Pickerell and his wife fled town for Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., where they stayed at the Dixie inn. Pickerell's trucking business extends into Westchester county, and on Sept. 11, while he was in Peekskill, Pickerell said, his wife's parents drew alongside his automobile in another car and demanded that he pull up at the curb. He obeyed and said today that after a threat or two he accompanied the family to the Dixie inn, where his wife was bundled into the Barclay car and was driven off.

"I've not seen her since that day, except once when she drove by in the street with her brother and sister," Pickerell said. "She has been kept at home and not been allowed to go out. I don't know where she is or why she ran away from home. I'm completely up a tree."

Remains in Cell Overnight.

Last night the Montclair police, acting upon Mr. Barclay's information, went to Pickerell's room in the Y. M. C. A. here and, according to a detective, "took him in the 'pie wagon' to headquarters," where he remained all night in a cell. This morning he was permitted to communicate with his attorney, whom he had retained Sept. 25 to help him unravel his complicated affairs.

BURNED IN AMMONIA BLAST.

Ivar Ivarson, 164 East Superior street, a butcher, was burned about the face, chest and hands last night when an ammonia machine which he was cleaning in the meat market at 6240 Drexel avenue exploded.

CLEANERS FEAR UNCURBED RULE OF TERRORISM

Acid Victims Assert They Can Identify Vandals.

Nonunion and cut rate cleaners yesterday foresaw another reign of vandalism in their industry, as evidenced by the raids of terrorists who sprinkled acid in four shops on Tuesday. The four plants suffered losses totaling more than $5,000.

Two years ago, after the Cleaners and Dyers' institute was organized, Dr. B. M. Squires, its director, announced that the turbulent cleaning industry of Chicago would be cleaned up. Dr. Squires yesterday declared the institute was not responsible for the series of attacks in recent weeks. Independent cleaners have charged that the institute has not been wholly successful in removing racketeers from its membership.

The operators and employés of the shops invaded on Tuesday, some of whom were kicked and forced into clothes closets, all said that they would be able to identify the two Italians who terrorized all four shops. None of these witnesses was called in for questioning by the racket bureau of the state's attorney's office.

Assistant State's Attorney C. E. Lounsbury said that in his experience with investigating complaints of the independent cleaners he had never discovered a victim who could make any identification. He said he had received no complaints in connection with Tuesday's outrages, but after being informed that the victims were prepared to make identifications he said he would call them in and get descriptions of the terrorists.

JAIL CONFESSED BANK ROBBER.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Dec. 9.—A 25 day sentence in Van Buren county jail will hold Albert L. Bates, captured recently in southwestern Michigan, until the January Circuit court term, when more serious charges may be preferred. Bates, 37, wanted in Lincoln, Neb., on diamond robbery charges and has confessed also to robbery of a Piano [Ill.] bank.

Marion Strobel, Poetess, Aids Benefit Book Sale

Among the writers who will contribute to the auction sale of books to be held Friday and Saturday at Lincoln hall on McKinlock campus of Northwestern university for the benefit of the dispensary clinics, will be Marion Strobel, novelist and poetess. Miss Strobel, who in private life is the wife of Dr. James Herbert Mitchell, not only will autograph a number of her own books to be disposed of at the sale, but will purchase some first editions for a nucleus of a collection for her two children. Mrs. Jacob Buchbinder is chairman of the committee in charge of the event, which is under the auspices of the recently organized women's auxiliary of the Northwestern university medical school.

Automatic Ride Control

Full-Cushioned Power

Longer Bodies Wider Seats

Air-Curve Coachcraft

New Convertible Body Styles

All Bodies Insulated Against Heat, Cold and Noise

New Service Policy

Closed Bodies Wired for Radio

Drastically Lower Prices

STUDEBAKER engineering genius soars to new heights in these Triumphant New Studebakers. Drastically lower in price, they are better cars than the world could ever buy before at any price.

Studebaker, pioneer and pacemaker, believes this is the psychological moment for smashing the depression with unprecedented values. Steels, textiles, copper, wood, rubber—all raw materials used in building automobiles—are down in price, and Studebaker is passing on the savings to you.

32 Sensational Advancements for 1932

Of the 32 betterments developed by the greatest automobile engineering staff in the world—of this great aggregation of innovations from bumper to tail light—the one of supreme importance to every motorist is 1932 Free Wheeling plus Synchronized Shifting.

Studebaker engineers pioneered Free Wheeling—the greatest advance since the self-starter—but they did not rest on their laurels. They have developed a vastly finer Free Wheeling, masterfully combined with Synchronized Shifting and Automatic Starting—Free Wheeling under absolute control—Free Wheeling in all forward speeds—the last word in restful driving, brilliant performance and thrifty operation.

Safety Plate Glass All Around

Never before in cars delivering under $2000 has Safety Plate Glass in all windshields and all windows of all models been offered as standard equipment, without extra charge—a superior, new, full-sealed, super-strength 1932 type of utterly clear, shatter-proof Safety Plate Glass.

Never before has power been so fully cushioned—vibration so completely eliminated as in the inherently better balanced Studebaker Eights and Six. Merely turning the ignition key starts the engine, a new protection against stalling—a new convenience.

Never before has there been anything like the Studebaker Automatic Ride Control available as standard equipment in the new Presidents and Commanders. This almost uncanny advancement, automatically, without any attention from the driver, adjusts shock absorber and spring action instantaneously to compensate for changes in temperature, speed and road surfaces. No hand adjustment is needed. Studebaker Automatic Ride Control "thinks for itself."

Studebaker's new Air-Curve Coachcraft gives a breath-taking impression of grace and actually increases top speed notwithstanding longer, wider bodies.

There are new body types, too, frankly French in origin but new to America—a smart 5-passenger 2-door St. Regis Brougham with a large trunk as standard equipment—convertible all-season sedans—and convertible all-season roadsters. There are new Empire Colors—a brilliant melody of vivid, radiant hues.

And every new Studebaker is sold with Studebaker's New Service Policy—a guarantee that completely covers the first 4000 miles.

Still Other Startling Betterments

These Triumphant New Studebakers offer you in addition these startling betterments . . . improved brakes . . . new airplane-type instruments on the dash with Free Wheeling dial . . . an electric gasoline gauge . . . metal spring covers on all models . . . a reflex tail light that never fails . . . vacuum spark adjustment for smoothness in acceleration . . . new airplane-type steel backed engine bearings . . . greater cooling capacity . . . finer body hardware, including new positive quick-action windshield mountings . . . concealed hood latches . . . new inside sun visor . . . anti-glare sloping windshield . . . chromium plated steel spoke wheels . . . one-piece fenders . . . steel running boards . . . integral unit body construction . . . heat-resisting, sponge rubber floor mats . . . improved rim assembly . . . air-cleaner, carburetor silencer and Full-Power muffler . . . single key serves ignition, all doors, package compartment and spare tire lock . . . all these, plus scores of minor refinements in design and appointments, mark these latest Studebakers as indeed, Triumphantly New.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE MESSAGE.

None of our Presidents in recent years has stated with more cogency and force than Mr. Hoover the basic principles of American prosperity and progress. Mr. Hoover's first notable utterance of this character was his speech at Boston during the presidential campaign. His latest closes the message to the new congress with the following paragraphs:

"It is inevitable that in these times much of the legislation proposed to the congress and many of the recommendations of the executive must be designed to meet emergencies. In reaching solutions we must not jeopardize those principles which we have found to be the basis of the growth of the nation.

"The federal government must not encroach upon nor permit local communities to abandon that precious possession of local initiative and responsibility. Again, just as the largest measure of responsibility in the government of the nation rests upon local self-government, so does the largest measure of social responsibility in our country rest upon the individual. If the individual surrenders his own initiative and responsibilities, he is surrendering his own freedom and his own liberty.

"It is the duty of the national government to insist that both the local governments and the individual shall assume and bear these responsibilities as a fundamental of preserving the very basis of our freedom.

"Many vital changes and movements of vast proportions are taking place in the economic world. The effect of these changes upon the future cannot be seen clearly as yet.

"Of this, however, we are sure: Our system, based upon the ideals of individual initiative and of equality of opportunity, is not an artificial thing. Rather it is the outgrowth of the experience of America, and expresses the faith and spirit of our people. It has carried us in a century and a half to leadership of the economic world. If our economic system does not match our highest expectations at all times, it does not require revolutionary action to bring it into accord with any necessity that experience may prove. It has successfully adjusted itself to changing conditions in the past. It will do so again.

"The mobility of our institutions, the richness of our resources, and the abilities of our people enable us to meet them unafraid. It is a distressful time for many of our people, but they have shown qualities as high in fortitude, courage and resourcefulness as ever in our history. With that spirit, I have faith that out of it will come a sounder life, a truer standard of values, a greater recognition of the results of honest effort, and a healthier atmosphere in which to rear our children. Ours must be a country of such stability and security as cannot fail to carry forward and enlarge among all the people that abundant life of material and spiritual opportunity which it has represented among all nations since its beginning."

These are generalisations of the utmost moment to the welfare of the American people. As guides to thought and action they cannot be bettered. Mr. Hoover does a service to his countrymen in emphasizing them at this time when such restraint upon heedless and ill-considered legislation as we may hope they will encourage is greatly needed.

But generalizations, however sound and timely, must be implemented, as the diplomats say, must be given effect in action, in measures and efficient agencies. In this respect we cannot find the message so satisfactory. Mr. Hoover's review of the causes of our ill fortune is sound and comprehensive, but of the various means and proposals for relief and recovery there is a good deal which fits very badly into the frame of wise policy Mr. Hoover so eloquently offers us. We have before us an impressive picture of the results of inordinate public expenditure, the piling up of public debt, the growth of bureaucracy and multiplying ramifications of government interference in private enterprise, and even, as in the dry law, in private life, and we have on the other hand proposals for the increase of financial commitment by the government and not only no concrete recommendations for any retreat from this tendency but proposals for further government commitments. It is true some of these proposals are limited in time, and for this we may be thankful, but in the field of action we can find in Mr. Hoover's suggestions to the congress very little signs of determined resistance to those developments in the aggrandizement of federal power which in generalization he deplores. We can only assume that political expediencies and the pressures of emergency have had an undue influence. On that ground only can we account for the failure of the message to even mention, much less discuss, the urgent problem of prohibition, although it is in the foreground of our responsibilities, and which involves as vitally as any event in our history the basic principles of local responsibility and freedom Mr. Hoover invites us in generality to preserve. Perhaps this will be given attention in a special message, but its omission, at least in brief reference, leaves an unfortunate gap in any survey of our public interests.

Another passage of the message which will seem to many citizens to illustrate the divergency of Mr. Hoover's theories and his action is that which deals with our foreign relations. We are reminded of the part European difficulties have played in our own present embarrassments, but we have found little evidence that Mr. Hoover has been or is ready to assert American interests with much vigor, but rather a willingness to yield to the leadership of European interest and accept the dominance of its diplomacy in all matters.

More detailed discussion of the proposals of the message may be postponed until they have assumed a more definite form. In the meantime, we cannot feel that the general influence of the message, acceptable as it is in some respects, can be conducive to the clarification of the basic issues before congress and the nation or give firm and consistent support for resistance to the tendencies Mr. Hoover deplores.

THE ASSESSMENT COMPROMISE.

A so-called compromise regarding the reorganization of the assessment machinery in Cook county was announced after a meeting attended by Gov. Emmerson and Mayor Cermak in Springfield on Monday night.

Under this scheme, instead of the present board of assessors containing five members and the present board of review containing three, a single board of assessment and review would be set up. The governor would appoint one reviewer and the president of the county board another. Together the two reviewers would attempt to choose the assessor. If they failed to agree on a candidate, the judges of the state Supreme court would be asked to make the choice.

The arrangement is thoroughly unsatisfactory. It is called a compromise because it seems to be a step in the direction demanded by the governor's tax conference and other citizens who wish to restore the credit of the local governments. The abolition of the present elected boards was demanded in the belief that the boards are irresponsible and peculiarly subject to appeals for favoritism. As matters stand, no one will lend large sums to Chicago because no one knows whether the assessments will be completed on time or whether the assessment rolls can withstand scrutiny for fraud. Therefore no one knows when or whether he will be repaid.

In attempting to remedy one fault in the present system the compromisers have merely created another which is far more serious. If the present boards selected by the voters of the county show an inadequate sense of responsibility to the community, what may be expected of a board which depends for its existence in part upon the governor of the state, who owes his office only in part to Cook county voters? If the present activities of the assessors and reviewers are subject to political pressure, what may be expected of an assessment machine whose spoils will be at the mercy of state politics as well as local politics with the opportunity available to both for blaming the other for any shortcomings?

These questions are not prompted by any fanciful considerations of what might happen but never has happened. It is only a few years since Illinois had a governor who knew no qualms in such matters. Illinois may well expect to have other governors in future of the same stripe. Bad as present arrangements may be, and unsatisfactory as they may be in establishing credit, the present boards, at least, are responsible to the voters of Cook county alone and the voters of Cook county have the power to rid themselves of unsatisfactory officials if they wish to. Under the compromise no such recourse would be possible.

At present one of the causes of bad government in Illinois is the fact that the state looks upon Chicago as a source of easy money. If downstate is permitted to have, in addition to its present powers, at least an equal share in the determination of Chicago's tax values, with all the possibilities for fraud and graft involved in the business, the state government will be debauched without in any sense improving the present regrettable condition of local politics.

Those with money to lend have said that it will not be forthcoming unless the assessment machinery is made more certain in its operation. The compromise accepts the form but not the spirit of the measures proposed for improving the present situation. Instead of attempting to minimize the misuse of the assessing power, the compromise is calculated to create more serious abuses.

Editorial of the Day

WHY IS IT ALWAYS EUROPE?

[Akron Beacon-Journal.]

A correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has been interviewing some of the big bankers in New York of the type commonly called international bankers; that is, bankers who have been floating in this country large loans to foreign governments and industries, and in doing so have done immeasurable damage to the industrial and financial interests of the United States. This correspondent says that these bankers realize that at this time they are about as popular as the proverbial polecat at a Sunday school picnic. They are, however, bent on continuing the policy of making foreign financial stability and prosperity the first concern of the American government.

Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., America's biggest private banking firm, says that in view of the position of the United States as overwhelmingly the world's greatest creditor nation it is up to us to put Europe in position to pay her debts to us in goods, by scaling down our tariff. This would of course permit foreign cheap labor production to displace even to a greater extent than under the present inadequately protective law the output of better paid American labor.

America is not so much of a creditor nation as our international bankers seem to assume. We hold the obligations of European governments for money loaned them during the world war, but the value of these obligations, even after scaling them down one-half, is questionable. It is probable that American bankers who have taken a second trust mortgage on Europe in private loans at high rates of interest will be able to get the first mortgage canceled at the expense of the taxpayers of America in order that these foolishly taken second mortgages may be made good, or at least better than they are now.

Much unemployment now existing in the United States is due to the displacement of American production by foreign production based on a cheapness which is at the same time paralyzing consuming power in Europe, and therefore presenting insuperable obstacles to recovery on that continent. America will not help the rest of the world by destroying the consuming power of its workers through exposing them to unfair competition with lower foreign wage and living standards.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. By Ed.

THIS IS L-I-N-E BROADCASTING the great Lenz-Culbertson bridge game. The Lenz team is 1,075 in the lead, which is something better than even our best football teams ran up in any game this fall. Lenz and his partner are now going into a huddle. Now they're on the forty yard line—Oh-oh-oh, there goes Culbertson with the deck—10-15-20 yards—oh—a beautiful run. The snow is falling and a little rain and the deck is very slippery. You can hear the frenzied spectators cheering. That is Lenz's band playing "Culbertson's Bridge Is Falling Down, Falling Down." I wish all you ladies and gentlemen listening in today could only stand where I am standing now, up on top of the mantel looking down on the greatest bridge game of the century. Great crowds are here and they are fairly mad with excitement. Now the game is going again. Fifteen ladies in front of me have just fainted. Somebody started a rumor that Mr. Culbertson trumped his partner's ace. It was not true, but the feeling is so intense here that almost anything is believed.

Now the referee stops the game a moment and a boy runs into the field with a glass of milk and a piece of apple pie for Culbertson, and the great crowd is cheering madly. Lenz's partner is being carried back into the game. He hurt his wrist dealing that last time, but a doctor is standing by him ready to give first aid treatment if he suffers again. Now Lenz is playing a card . . . he is playing a card . . . Lenz is playing a card . . . IT IS THE ACE OF CLUBS . . . THE ACE OF CLUBS! Can you hear me? The crowd is standing up and cheering, yelling, and shrieking: "Attaboy, Lenz!" "Attaboy, Lenz!" "Attaboy, Lenz!" Oh, it's a wonderful moment! A wonderful moment, ladies and gentlemen.

Now while they are bringing in a new deck let me tell you that this program is sent you by courtesy of the North African Pet Rhinoceros company, and I may add that there is nothing outer for a Christmas present than a cunning pet rhinoceros. A moment now for station announcements and then we will return to the great game. I thank you.

AND NOW the diamond mines in South Africa have had to close their mines and stop shipments of the gems on account of the depression. Clip this out and show it to her Christmas. Gosh! as an alibi it's a wow.)

WHO IS CALEB SUMMONS?

Do you know him? Have you ever seen him? Is his face familiar to you? His name? WHO IS HE? Thousands are asking that question today. Can you answer it? Did he run for the presidency on the Democratic ticket in 1920? Is he a famous movie actor? the chap who put an Austrian prince on the spot at Serajevo, 1914? a high explosive gangster? a popular radio crooner? the other senator from Idaho? the man who bet Steel would never go under 100? Is his picture on file in a thousand newspaper offices—or is he a mute, inglorious Milton, the personified Innocent Bystander, the composite Man in the Street?

WHO IS CALEB SUMMONS?

Hundreds of letters and telegrams tell us his picture is in the sixth row of the crowd on the new Linebook cover. Study that picture very carefully. Some one knows who Caleb Summons is—

How the Darned Thing Started.

R. H. L.: If you think that "contacted" verb and verbiage is in its infancy you are just misinformed, that's all. Some six or more years ago an international religious group held a convention at a loop hotel and the word was getting too big for its rompers then; in fact, it was all over the place. Whenever a delegate from Tasmania met one from Tahiti, or one from Coral Gables contacted a Coral Strander, the air thickened with reminiscences of their mutual favorites contacted recently. And when the platform speakers did their stuff, the contacted graph rose like a sierra. No research has been conducted, but there are those who hold that this boll weevil among words came in with a crate of oranges from So. Cal.

THE WHITE CAT.

THE REASON.

Once I had a little house
With roses at the door,
Where sunshine made a yellow rug
Across the kitchen floor.

And once I had a fireplace,
A swaying apple tree,
Candles for the gloaming,
And a dusk-blue pot for tea.

I could have stayed forever,
Carefree and well-content,
I only moved away because
The landlord raised the rent!

THE HEALTH OF UNIVERSITY STUDENTS.

DR. J. H. BEARD, the physician in charge of student health at the University of Illinois, thinks our public school system is either not interested in health education or else they do not know how to do their job.

He tells us that a teacher of biology in a high school conducted an investigation of high school pupils in four states as to what they knew of some health subjects. Forty-nine per cent did not know that the mosquito was the only transmitter of malaria; 15 per cent of them thought the use of a madstone would prevent hydrophobia; 22 per cent thought that a horsehair put into water could turn into a snake; 75 per cent of them had never studied personal hygiene or physiology, to say nothing of public health.

This creates a situation which makes it very difficult to get good health laws or to have good enforcement of those we have. It makes it pretty hard on the health officers.

Dr. Beard has been examining more than 10,000 university students yearly over a period of ten years and is in a position to know. When he talks of the state of student health and also of their knowledge of health he bases his statements on over 100,000 observations. He says smallpox is far too frequent. Of the students that come to the university about one-thirteenth have already had smallpox. Somewhere between one-fourth and one-half have never been vaccinated. "Since the world war smallpox has cost the taxpayers of Illinois enough money to build an eighteen foot highway across the state from east to west."

About one-twelfth of the students have had diphtheria when they enter the university. About one-twenty-fifth have had typhoid fever. Both diphtheria and typhoid are preventable diseases. To have had either should be a badge of disgrace.

Tuberculosis is on the increase among girls of college age in Illinois, according to Dr. Beard. In all other groups of the population it is on the decline. Dr. Beard attributes the bad showing of college girls to the "starving style and speed." It is the style to be slender and in consequence the college girl does not eat enough good solid food to maintain her resistance. One of his aphorisms used in this connection is: "Disease is the bonus received when vigor and strength are exchanged for fads, fashion, and frolic."

Heart disease is one of the most prevalent diseases of college boys and girls. Among the prominent causes of this trouble; as it appears in adolescents, are rheumatic fever, chorea, tonsilitis, scarlet fever, and diphtheria. Athletics ranks low in the list of causes. Growing pains and decay of teeth outrank football, basketball, and baseball as causes.

SMOKER'S HEART.

Mrs. R. F. writes: About two months ago my husband discovered he had smoker's heart and immediately stopped smoking.

1. Is any other treatment necessary?
2. How long should it take for recovery if he has had it for a long time?
3. Would working with tobacco in a cigar shop hinder recovery?

REPLY.

1. If that is his only trouble no other treatment should be necessary.
2. Several months.
3. It might.

WHITE SWELLING.

F. D. M. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of white swelling?
2. Can it be cured?

REPLY.

1. White swelling is tuberculosis of a bone. Among the symptoms are cold abscess, swelling, tenderness, discharge at sus and dead bone, slight fever, loss of weight, and pain. The pain may be felt some distance from the swelling. Likewise one may be misled by the location of the abscess.
2. Yes. Most of the cases get well after a prolonged illness. There is generally some deformity.

STREET CORNER MEETINGS.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Kindly advise me what steps to take to clear the corner of 79th street and East End avenue of a crowd of very annoying young men. Police order them away, but they reappear as soon as the police are out of sight. Not only is this detrimental to business, but it is impossible to enjoy ordinary comforts of home due to the disturbance, obscene language, and uncouth remarks made to pedestrians. Women have to avoid this corner because of these gangs and their rowdyism. P. A.

An officer was assigned to investigate this complaint and advises that during his tour of duty he informed the young men that congregate at this intersection to refrain from gathering there in the future, as there was a complaint against them. They stated they would comply. Instructions have been issued to all members of the 10th district to give this complaint attention and to arrest any young men causing annoyance.

BANKRUPTCY.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A, who is a minor, owns a store. His creditors threaten to foreclose. 1. Is A entitled to $400 from sale of store in case of bankruptcy? 2. Can creditors foreclose if A is a minor? 3. Is A liable for any of the debts if he should become of age and return to another or the same business? H. B.

1. Not unless he is head of a family. The exemption to a person who is not head of a family is only $100 worth.
2. He would not be liable on his ordinary business contracts, but a creditor who had reserved title would have a right to take back what legally still belongs to him. It is not entirely clear what you mean by "foreclose."
3. His minority would be a defense to contract liabilities unless he ratifies the contracts after becoming of age.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 10, 1915.

PETERSBURG, Va.—Hopewell, Va., the mushroom city of 25,000 persons which was built up around the new high explosive plant of the Du Pont Powder company, near City Point, was nearly wiped out by fire. The huge munition plant was saved, but more than 400 buildings, including nearly all the business houses, were destroyed, leaving 10,000 persons homeless. The property loss is estimated at from one to three million dollars. Whether responsibility for the fire is to be pinned on persons whom President Wilson described to congress as "creatures of passion, disloyalty and anarchy" is not known, but it is clear that the destruction wrought to the town is the most extensive that has happened in the neighborhood of any of the American munitions plants since the war began.

CHICAGO.—Agents of the United States department of justice directed by Hinton G. Clabaugh, chief of the Chicago bureau, swooped down on the promoters of the Irish Voice, a pro-German weekly publication that has run a tortuous course in Chicago this year, and confiscated its records, documents, by-laws, and circulation data.

BERLIN.—Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, German imperial chancellor, replied to the Socialists' interpellation on peace and painted a picture of Germany triumphant on all sides and supplied with everything necessary to the continuation of the war. "If our enemies make peace proposals compatible with Germany's dignity and safety," he said, "then we shall always be ready to discuss them."

LONDON.—Two successive retirements by the British forces in the Balkans were officially announced. On Dec. 7 the troops were withdrawn to a new line and on the next day they retired to another line. A dispatch from British headquarters in Macedonia says: "The Bulgarian attacks during the last two or three days have been more serious than were originally reported. The Bulgarians show constantly increasing strength and seem to be well supplied with artillery, which keeps up a constant fire."

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 10, 1901.

CHICAGO.—"Wine rooms" will exist no longer in Chicago if an ordinance passed by the city council is enforced. It is to go into effect at once, as the mayor instructed the city clerk to send it to him for his signature today. The ordinance not only forbids any closed rooms as adjuncts to saloons, but any private dining rooms in hotels or restaurants as well, in which fewer than four persons are served with food or drink, unless the occupants happen to be all of the same sex.

CHICAGO.—Traffic in diseased meat, presumably for ultimate sale to the public, has come to light in a startling manner by the arrest of an official of the Standard Slaughtering company and five men engaged in the retail business. All are charged with having condemned meat in their possession. One of the accused was arrested in the dead of night at the establishment where diseased cattle are killed, and his wagon was loaded with the condemned meat.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—Mrs. Jane L. Stanford transferred to the trustees of Stanford university $18,000,000 in bonds and stocks and redeeded to that institution property valued at $12,000,000. Mrs. Stanford's act perfects the greatest endowment ever provided for educational purposes by an individual donor.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Andrew Carnegie's gift of $10,000,000 for the establishment of a college for higher education in this city, which he offered in a letter to President Roosevelt recently, will be submitted to congress for consideration.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 10, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Doorkeeper Brownell of the house of representatives is said to contemplate issuing an order that any employé who takes a drink or enters a saloon will be summarily dismissed.

CHICAGO.—Smallpox is spreading in Chicago and the preventive measures taken by the health authorities seem to be utterly inadequate to halt the epidemic. Nine new cases were reported yesterday. Sixteen cases are reported in Jefferson.

CHICAGO.—Wheat opened yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade at $1.28½ January and $1.29¼ February, and closed at $1.29 and $1.30¼. The sales were: Wheat, 675,000 bushels; corn, 190,000 bushels, and oats, 125,000 bushels.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In the trial of Guiteau the theory of insanity received another series of hard knocks. Beginning with the Rev. Dr. MacFarland, whose damaging testimony made the assassin so furious yesterday, eleven gentlemen testified to his sanity during the period between the fall of 1871 and the spring of 1881. Twelve witnesses were on the stand and all but one testified as to his rascality. The ruffianly murderer interrupted the witnesses frequently and abused them without stint. There are some apprehensions as to the jury in the case. It is reported that it has been learned since the trial began that three of the jurors have insanity in their families.

VIENNA.—The extent of the fire calamity in the Ring theater has been much understated and it is announced at the police bureau that 1,130 persons are missing. Assuming that many of these will turn up, it is feared the total loss of life will not be much less than 1,000 persons. It is probable that there were 600 in the fourth gallery, of whom few escaped. Up to this afternoon 600 bodies had been taken from the ruins. Already $140,000 has been raised on the Vienna bourse for the families of the victims.

FROM SEWELL AVERY.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—In a letter printed in the Voice of the People of Dec. 1 on "The Cost of Economy" and an article in THE TRIBUNE on the same subject, reference is made to the cost of the services of J. L. Jacobs and the J. L. Jacobs company staff in connection with the study of the city departments which is being made under the direction of the mayor's advisory commission. The article was misleading, and was based on misinformation as to accepted practice of consulting engineers and accountants in undertaking and billing for services to any organization.

Surveys which involve technical analysis of existing conditions and the preparation and prosecution of plans and recommendations for the elimination of duplication and waste are necessary if the taxpayers are to have improvement in public services and reduction in public expenditures. When the mayor appointed his advisory commission he charged it with the responsibility of determining where improvements could be made and where expenses could be reduced. The executive committee reviewed the field carefully, and because of the long experience of Mr. Jacobs' organization, the thorough knowledge gained thereby of the conditions to be met, his integrity and his diligence, he was selected for this work.

The devotion of Mr. Jacobs and his organization, the skill with which he has made his investigation, and his honesty of purpose have won the enthusiastic approval of the committee under whose direction the work has been carried on. The charges for this service have been modest. The plans submitted have in general been cautious, well considered and conservative. Greater economies could easily have been made, and with the installation of the plans they should follow. A saving of approximately $22,000,000 is indicated in the recommendations submitted. They are now before the city council. They are entitled to stanch public support. When approved by the council and put into effect they will accomplish the economy in public expenditures and the reduction in taxes which the city's situation so imperatively requires. S. L. AVERY,
Chairman, Mayor's Advisory Commission.

INCHES OF NEWS.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—Your article in yesterday's TRIBUNE, covering the debate Monday night at Orchestra hall on the question, "Can Disarmament End War?" devoted eight paragraphs, containing a total of 406 words, to the arguments of Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler, who supported the negative side of the debate. The ninth and final paragraph of the article stated that Dr. Preston Bradley of the People's Church of Chicago took the affirmative in the debate. It contained sixty-four words.

Such grossly careless journalism as this, from a newspaper of the standing and reputation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, is positively inexcusable. Is it necessary to point out that it may even lay you open to the charge of being biased and prejudiced? How such a piece of reporting could find its way into your columns is beyond me.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON'S SON.

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 2.—Your correspondent, L. B. Neighbour, locates as the location of "Hamilton's Dragoon" the Galena lead mining district. This is the old and, for a long time, popular name of a town in east central Lafayette county, Wis., known today as Wiota. It was founded by Alexander Hamilton, son of Alexander Hamilton, shortly after his arrival at Galena on July 4, 1827, with Daniel S. Parkinson and three others. Hamilton was a captain of volunteers in the Red Bird disturbance of 1827 and served as captain of the little garrison at Wiota during the Black Hawk war. He was succeeded by his mother and one of his sisters a few years later. The arrival of Mrs. Alexander Hamilton at Galena on the steamboat Burlington caused a furor of excitement at the little mining community which was then no mean rival of Chicago. Hamilton participated in the gold rush to California, where he died of cholera in or previous to 1851. See the Wisconsin Historical Collection, 11: 270-271, and other numbers.

WORLD PEACE.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 4.—It would be positively exhilarating to read one [illegible] you, just one] editorial on the league of nations, the world court, or disarmament which did not smack of adverse criticism. I scrutinize THE TRIBUNE every day, and I feel quite sure I have not escaped a favorable editorial. Or have I?

Assuming that in their present form the league, the world court and the general idea of disarmament are resting on precarious foundations—that they are, even, ineffective as they exist today—THE TRIBUNE cannot help, it would seem, but appreciate that they are an end worth striving for—an ideal worthy of deep consideration, respect. As a builder of public opinion, THE TRIBUNE could perform a genuine service if it were to point out, ever so ingratiatingly that world cooperation might possibly be a better, all around plan than world wars. But perhaps THE TRIBUNE enjoys depressions! And wars!

THE BANK PROSECUTIONS.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—According to the public prints, "State's Attorney Swanson appoints Edwin J. Raber special prosecuting attorney to handle the Bain bank cases."

Are conditions such that State's Attorney Swanson cannot handle the matter personally or at least with his present staff and force?

Are there valid reasons why Mr. Swanson should not handle the cases?

Does Mr. Raber handle the case gratis?

Does former United States Senator Deneen's connection with the Bains, or his firm's connection with the Bain firms, have any bearing on the matter?

Is there close political alignment between Swanson and Deneen? Has there ever been?

Is there political alignment between Raber and Deneen? Has there ever been?

Could this appointment be an expedient way out for Mr. Swanson?

JURY TUSSLES FOR VERDICT IN MINE WAR CASE

Retires for Night; No Agreement Near.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mount Vernon, Ky., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The jury in the W. B. Jones' murder conspiracy case reported this evening that they had not been able to reach a verdict.

W. B. JONES. [Tribune Photo.]

They are not without hope of this, however, for they informed Judge H. R. Prewitt at 4 p. m., after they had balloted and discussed the case for three hours, that they would go to work again.

"All right, gentlemen," said the judge. "You are now running the court, keep any hours you want."

At 5 o'clock the jurors reported in open court that they still were unable to agree and asked to be released from duty until morning. The court told them to go to their quarters and not to talk about the case until 8 a. m. Jones was taken to jail for the night.

Reported Evenly Divided.

The jurors have been listening for nearly three weeks to evidence in which the state seeks to convict Jones, the United Mine Workers' secretary in the Harlan county coal fields, of responsibility for the killing of Deputy Sheriff James Daniels on May 5. They are reported rather evenly divided. There are only two verdicts possible, murder in the first degree and acquittal.

The case was given to the jury at 1 p. m. Shortly after they had retired to their chamber they called for paper for balloting and at 2:30 o'clock sent out for ice water. In the windows of the jury room members could be seen lolling about or sitting idly.

The issues of the case as defined by opposing counsel in the closing arguments to the jury are wide and deep and have little to do, with the actual murder of Daniels. The evidence points to a "Negro known as "Big Cigar," now in jail in Winchester, as the man who fired the shotgun from the roadside ambuscade which killed the deputy sheriff.

As the commonwealth attorney, W. C. Hamilton, saw it, this is an opportunity to strike down the "slimy serpent of communism" in this country.

He Reaches Over to Moscow.

"This is not only a Harlan county and a Kentucky case, but a national case. Moscow is the source of turbulence and the anti-American spirit. Turn Jones loose and there will be celebrations in a thousand places in the United States and in Moscow they will lift higher the red flag. The miners led by Jones carried the American flag, but in their hearts they carried the red flag. Why not be honest about it? I tell you these celebrations will materialize before next Saturday night unless you have the courage to do your duty."

Attorney R. Z. Pope, associate prosecutor, had previously asked for the death penalty.

The defendant, sitting surrounded by his wife and six of his seven children, did not appear disturbed at any stage of the arguments. At the height of the denunciation of himself as a black-hearted murderer he calmly shifted his tobacco cud and aimed an accurate stream at the nearest cuspidor, just missing the tangled hair of his next to youngest.

Robsion Is Eloquent.

Former Senator Robsion presented the closing argument for the defense, speaking from 7:30 o'clock in the morning until after 10 o'clock. He began with mentioning the great historic struggles for the freedom of religion and civil liberty. He then came to the industrial struggle and referred to the defendant as "this little defender of human liberty."

"The right of labor to organize," said Mr. Robsion, "is in the acts of congress and has been upheld by the United States supreme court. The right of the farmer to organize has been more recently recognized.

"This is what labor in the coal fields is trying to do with what it had to sell. This great coal corporation, with its president in Chicago, identified with the great power interests, comes down here like the landlords and dukes of old and says, 'You dirty little coal diggers cannot organize.'

Refers to "Free Country."

"This is free America. They will never dig coal successfully at the end of a bayonet. The Black Mountain corporation denies the right given by the laws of the United States. That is the power behind this prosecution."

After the jury had retired with the Jones case Judge Prewitt immediately called the next case on the docket, that against William Hightower, president of the Evarts union, and the nine other defendants. A severance was asked and the state elected to try Hightower first. This trial will begin Dec. 21.

Plan Murder Charge in Holdup Killing of Pastor

Capt. Michael Grady of the Kensington police announced last night that John Sullivan, 26 years old, an ex-convict, will be charged with the murder of the Rev. Amos Cyrus, pastor of the Southwest Gospel tabernacle, who was shot a week ago during the holdup of a drug store at 7200 South Racine avenue. Although the pastor was killed by shotgun slugs fired at the bandits by Charles W. Kenney, owner of the store, Capt. Grady said that Sullivan, who has been identified, had caused the slaying.

COLLEGE YOUTH DIED OF FALL WHILE DRUNK

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Jeremiah J. Callahan, the Catholic university sophomore whose battered body was found on the steps of his dormitory early yesterday morning, died from an accidental fall, a coroner's jury today decided after it had heard the dead boy's fellow students testify to a midnight drinking party in one of the students' rooms.

Students, not nearly so much in awe of the coroner as of Father Francis P. Cassidy, their dean of discipline, squirmed in the witness chair as they explained how they violated house rules, ducked out of their rooms, gathered in a first floor room of Cardinal Gibbons hall to see Callahan come in with two pints of "red whisky," saw him and a companion drink it until most of it was gone and Callahan "wanted to fight everybody."

The boys recalled that Thanksgiving eve Callahan, ordinarily a peaceful lad, had got drunk and had gone up to a fifth floor room in alone. This room leads on to a balcony directly above the spot where the body was found.

The deputy coroner, Dr. C. J. Murphy, explained he was sure Callahan had fallen from the balcony.

SEE DOWNSTATE RULE OF TAXES IN ASSESSOR PLAN

Claim Governor Could Set Levy in Chicago.

The charge that "Chicago taxpayers are being sold into Egyptian bondage" was voiced yesterday against the present form of the proposal to reorganize Cook county's tax assessment offices. Aldermen and legal experts united in denouncing the provision of the proposed law which makes it possible that downstaters would be empowered to tell Chicagoans what taxes they are to pay.

It was agreed, however, that the present system of board of assessors, board of review, and township assessors must be abolished. All who commented on legislative measures favored the proposed three man board of assessment and review. Some favored the election, some the appointment of these officers. But all opposed the system of appointment agreed to Monday at a conference between Gov. Emmerson and Mayor Cermak.

Hit Method of Selection.

Under that proposal the president of the county board would appoint one member of the new board of assessment and review, the governor a second. Those two would appoint the third, but if they failed to agree on an appointment within ten days the third man would be appointed by the Illinois Supreme court.

It was pointed out that all any governor would have to do to obtain downstate control of Chicago assessments and taxes would be to have his appointee refuse to agree with the Chicago appointee on the name of their colleague. Then the appointment would be thrown to the Supreme court, which consists of six downstate members and one Chicagoan.

Violates Legal Principle, Claim.

Legal experts also termed the vesting of appointive power in the Supreme court a violation of a fundamental principle of American government that executive and judicial branches should function separately.

"The adoption of the proposal means selling Chicago taxpayers into Egyptian bondage, and surrendering the home rule principles for which we have fought for decades to downstaters," said Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th]. "Have the gentlemen who framed that proposal stopped to think what a deal Chicago taxpayers would get if another governor like Len Small got control of the county's assessment machinery?"

Opposes Court Appointments.

"I am opposed generally to bringing the courts into any matter of political appointments," said Prof. Andrew A. Bruce of Northwestern university, former chief justice of the North Dakota Supreme court. "I think it was a great mistake to impose on the Circuit court judges the appointment of south park commissioners. The judiciary should be judges and judges alone."

"The small home owner should have the right to elect the assessor," said Ald. David L. Sutton [8th], "but if he is to be appointed, the appointive power should remain in Chicago and Cook county."

"If I understand it correctly, two of the taxing officials of Cook county could be downstate men," said Ald. John Toman [23d]. "I have introduced measures in the council seeking home rule for Chicago, but this is a step in the opposite direction."

Proposal Termed "Insult."

"To elect an assessor would mean a delay in a crisis where no delay can be tolerated," said Ald. Wiley W. Mills [37th]. "In view of that fact the original plan to have these taxing officials appointed by elective county officials was all right. The new plan, however, is a violation of the principle of home rule."

George O. Fairweather, business manager of the University of Chicago and chairman of the joint commission on real estate valuation, termed the plan "an insult to the intelligence of the voters."

"The governor and the county board, and each of the two reviewers and the assessor appointed by the reviewers make five elements among which responsibility cannot be located so as to express electoral discipline," he said.

LINCOLN PARK BOARD ARRANGES FOR SALE OF $1,000,000 WARRANTS

In anticipation of January and succeeding pay rolls, the commissioners of Lincoln park announced at their annual meeting yesterday that arrangements have been made for the sale of $1,000,000 in 1930 tax anticipation warrants the first of the year. The First National bank has agreed to purchase $800,000 worth of the warrants, according to Warren Wright, president of the park board, and the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company is to take $200,000 worth. The board has sufficient cash on hand, Mr. Wright said, to care for the December pay roll.

A resolution was adopted to increase the interest rate from 4 to 5 per cent on all tax anticipation warrants offered for sale hereafter of the years from 1929 to 1934.

By unanmious vote the incumbent officers of the commission were re-elected and the standing committees approved for reappointment. Besides President Wright, the officers and commissioners are Sheldon Clark, vice president; Edwin L. Read, auditor; George W. Blomgren, George W. Dixon, Thomas W. Gilmore, and Oscar Reum.

Extra compensation of $100 was awarded Patrolman Marvin L. Holden of the park police for shooting and killing Robert Zabel, a robber, at Sheridan road and Wilson avenue on Nov. 9.

New Apartment Sale Law Causes Woman's Arrest

The new Illinois statute forbidding a property owner to conceal existing rent concessions in negotiating the sale of an apartment house was invoked for the first time in Chicago last night when Mrs. Rose Geltner, 1301 South Trumbull avenue, was arrested on a warrant issued by Municipal Judge Donald S. McKinlay. The warrant was procured by Mrs. Nellie Kiely, 1100 Columbia avenue, who charged that Mrs. Geltner committed the offense in selling her a Rogers Park apartment. The statute provides a penalty of a $1,000 fine or a year in jail.

TRUCE TO SPEED CHICAGO RELIEF BILLS BLOWS UP

Politics Again Stalls Tax Session.

Cermak, who was sitting in on the meeting. "When the bankers come in they won't agree to it."

"What phase of that plan do you object to, Mr. Cermak?" asked Representative David I. Swanson [Rep., Chicago]. "Do you object to the assessing end of it?"

"I'm for any plan," the mayor replied, "as long as we help the city and reestablish its credit."

Igoe Asks Questions.

"Well, Mr. Mayor," asked Michael L. Igoe, the house minority leader, "if the people paid their taxes you wouldn't have any trouble, would you?" Mr. Cermak said that that was correct.

"And they haven't paid them," continued Igoe, "because those who haven't feel that the 1929 assessment is inequitable."

"What brought that about?" the mayor asked him.

"There are two opinions given," Igoe replied. "One blames the system and the other is that the assessors didn't do their duty."

"If Barr and Mayor Cermak can't agree," interjected Cuthbertson, "it's time that this committee be appointed to see the bankers."

An Explosion from Boyle.

Finally Representative James P. Boyle [Dem., Chicago] rose and addressed Chairman Schnackenberg.

"If you're going to make a Republican measure out of this," he said, referring to Senator Barr's "notion," "and let the governor appoint an assessor after you've kicked the Democrats out, I don't think you'll get 102 votes [required for an emergency measure] on this side of the house. If you're going to appoint a committee, keep it open-minded."

The vote was finally taken on Cuthbertson's motion, after it had been amended to include Speaker Shanahan and Senator Barr on the committee's membership.

This committee, through Representative Schnackenberg, its chairman by consent, has invited a number of bankers to meet with it next Monday morning in Mayor Cermak's office. A telephone message disclosed that Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National, was leaving for the east. He agreed to have a representative of his bank present at the meeting, and at his suggestion invitations were sent to A. W. Harris, George M. Reynolds, Solomon A. Smith, and Joseph E. Otis, heads of Chicago banks.

William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission, appeared before the senate during the morning to favor the bill abolishing the assessors and reviewers. He was the object of much cross-questioning from the floor and at the conclusion of his appearance Victor P. Michel [Rep., Peoria] moved that the senate committee on revenue [the entire body then sitting as the committee] report no progress.

UNION LEAGUE CLUB FAVORS CONFERENCE PLAN ON ASSESSORS

The public affairs committee of the Union League club, of which Francis X. Busch is chairman, yesterday transmitted a resolution to the legislature urging abolishment of the present assessment and reviewing offices in Cook county and the substitution of a single assessing and reviewing board of three members, appointed by the president of the county board, as originally recommended by the governor's revenue commission.

The committee recommended in general the program of the revenue commission, except the enactment of an income tax law. It voiced disapproval of that until such time as the revenue section of the constitution to provide that the income tax be substituted for the personal property tax.

That safeguard, the committee held, would be necessary to "avoid the probability that the income tax would become an additional tax without furnishing the relief that it purports to give."

KELLY COMPARES CITY'S CRISIS TO DAYS OF BIG FIRE

Urges Business Leaders to Buy Warrants.

As a result of an orgy of tax spending and maladministration Chicago is facing a crisis more acute than that occasioned by the great fire of 1871. This was the view presented to members of the association of commerce yesterday by D. F. Kelly, chairman of the citizens' commission in charge of Mayor Cermak's campaign to obtain cash for the governments by the sale of 1930 tax anticipation warrants.

"Were a foreign army encamped at our gates, with every prospect of destroying the city unless a huge indemnity were paid, immediate steps would be taken to secure from those able to pay a guarantee of the amount demanded to make their property safe," Mr. Kelly said. "Figuratively, a like condition now exists."

Make Comparison of Cities.

Mr. Kelly made a special plea to large taxpayers who were contesting their assessment to pay a portion of the tax bill. Even 40 per cent would be of great aid at the present time, he said.

To show the worth of Chicago securities Mr. Kelly compared New York, Philadelphia and Chicago. The per capita debt follows: Chicago, $92.04; New York, $226.33; Philadelphia, $224.67; ratio of net debt to valuation: Chicago, 3 per cent; New York, 7.6 per cent; Philadelphia, 8.2 per cent; the estimated ratio of assessed valuation to actual is 37 per cent for Chicago, 91 per cent for New York, and 90 per cent for Philadelphia. The figures were for 1929.

Urges Support for Mayor.

"Let us forget the past," Mr. Kelly said. "Mayor Cermak is not responsible for it. Let us support him in his endeavors for economy. If he is willing to stake his political future we are willing to give him our financial backing."

The Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday sent two thousand letters to members, urging them to buy warrants.

City Controller Szymczak last night announced total pledges of $2,591,600, of which $842,500 has been received in cash. The Illinois Bell Telephone company this morning will turn over $1,000,000 in payment of their subscription. Other companies will pay their pledges as soon as minor legal technicalities have been adjusted, Controller Szymczak said.

LITSINGER LAYS BANK TAX CUTS TO ASSESSORS

Edward R. Litsinger, banker, automobile dealer and member of the board of review, where he has served for 14 years, had his own explanation as to why the board made wholesale cuts in the assessments of capital stock of banks over a period of more than 10 years when he was called yesterday into the court of County Judge Jarecki.

He appeared as a witness at the request of attorneys for 2,000 taxpayers, who charge that the 1928 and 1929 tax levies were illegal because of the omission of billions of dollars worth of personal property from the assessment rolls. His evidence concluded the objectors' case. County Attorney Hayden Bell will present defense evidence tomorrow and Saturday and the final arguments will be concluded early next week.

"Before 1929," Litsinger asserted, "the assessors failed to deduct the assessments already made on bank real estate when they made the capital stock assessments against the banks. The reviewers always remedied this error."

"But, Mr. Litsinger," interjected Attorney Morris Schaeffer, "Mr. Weber (William H. Weber), who was both an assessor and a reviewer during the last thirty years, Charles Krutekoff, and Charles Ringer, both of whom were assessors until their defeat at the last election, have already testified that the deductions for real estate were properly made."

"I still insist that they were wrong," Litsinger said.

TRUSTEES HEAR THEY MUST CUT SCHOOL BUDGET

Plan Christmas Pay for All Employes.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The proposal to close the Chicago Normal school for one year was discussed at the school board session yesterday afternoon. A delegation of Normal students and Butler Laughlin, president of the college, attended the session.

It has been stated by the trustees that the city has more teachers than it can employ and it was suggested that the school be closed for a year to save its appropriation of $425,000.

"There are probably 5,000 teachers in Chicago looking for employment," said Trustee Savage in urging that some of them be employed in the evening schools. "We have so many teachers, Normal college graduates and university graduates, that many of them get one day's work in two or three months."

Must Trim $12,440,695.

There were other comments which indicated that the board is much concerned with its 1932 budget, which is $12,440,695 higher than the estimated revenue. The board which has been determining its financial policy behind closed doors, announced that the 1932 budget will be considered in open meeting. The meetings will start next Monday.

"We are obliged to cut," said Trustee Hemingway, chairman of the finance committee.

"Not $1,000,000 or $2,000,000," added Trustee Savage, "but a very substantial amount. The department heads will be asked to suggest where the cuts will do least harm. If they do not cooperate, the board is obligated to use its own judgment."

It is reported that President Myers told some of the trustees that under the new budgetary law trustees can be prosecuted, "if we appropriate more than our income."

Seek to Pay Salaries.

To promote the payment before Christmas of two months' salaries to teachers, janitors, and other school employés who have had only one month's pay since last April the board took several actions.

As one step the board approved of City Controller Szymczak's plan to sell 1930 tax anticipation warrants in small denominations. The plan adopted provides for $600,000 in warrants of $100 each, $500,000 in $500 warrants, $1,000,000 in $1,000 warrants, and $5,000,000 each in $5,000 and in $10,000 warrants. This is a total of $11,600,000.

The city treasury now holds $8,965,000 of the board's 1930 warrants and $3,750,000 of the 1928 warrants. The board proposes to pay the 1928 warrants from part of a bond issue of $5,300,000, which the board will authorize. That will release $3,750,000 of city funds to buy 1931 warrants. The $8,965,000 of 1930 warrants are to be sold to the public, releasing that amount for the purchase of 1931 warrants.

May Get Two Months' Pay.

If this plan works out the city will obtain $9,715,000 with which to pay salaries before Christmas—about two months' pay.

To give the plan a boost, President Myers formally announced to the board that its treasury has saved $702,000 necessary to pay interest on the board's bonds due Jan. 1, next.

"This will help reëstablish our credit," asserted Mr. Myers, "and unless that is done we will have no money for anything."

Illinois Central Railroad Pays $994,845 to State

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The treasury of the state of Illinois contained an additional $994,845 today when the Illinois Central Railroad company paid its biennial tax on charter lines to State Auditor Oscar Nelson. The money in turn was certified to State Treasurer Edward J. Barrett. The amount paid by the railroad for the same period of last year was $1,200,000.

POLICE OFFICIAL SO SURPRISED BY $35,000 IN BANK

Has No Idea How It Got There.

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Deputy Chief Inspector Thomas J. Kelly, twenty-three years in the rank of inspector, was shown this afternoon to have made $35,000 in cash deposits during the last five years, for which he could make no explanation at all. He bought $132,000 worth of stock in that time.

Various witnesses in the Hofstadter legislative committee inquiry yesterday described Kelly as a man who "couldn't be touched" by the bribes of bootleggers in Queens, where he has been in charge of the police for many years.

Counsel Samuel Seabury listed Kelly's deposits and after deducting his salary checks and profits from securities, a sum of $35,000 remained.

"Where did you get that?" the counsel asked.

"I don't know. I can't figure out where I got $35,000 myself, or where it came from," Kelly responded.

"You didn't know you had it?"

"No."

Rapid Rise as Policeman.

Inspector Kelly has had a bright career in the police department. Born in the old gashouse district, he grew up in close friendship with "Boss" Murphy of Tammany hall. In 1896 he entered the police force as a patrolman, and by 1907 he was a captain—a record jump from patrolman to captain in eleven years that still stands in the department.

He became an inspector in 1909 and deputy chief inspector in 1925. During Mayor George B. McClellan's incumbency, Kelly was attached to the mayor's staff.

He is known as a suave and polished policeman, a good politician, and he has many friends inside and out of the department.

When Mr. Seabury began to question Inspector Kelly about his bank and brokerage accounts, Kelly insisted that his only bank account was with the Brooklyn Trust company in Jamaica, and his only brokerage account with Bamberger Brothers.

He finally admitted that he had brokerage accounts with Prince & Whitely, Bonbright & Co., and Baer, Sterns & Co.

Mr. Seabury took up his bank deposits. Kelly had previously said that his only sources of income were his salary and profits from securities. There were no sidelines which brought him additional funds.

Discovers a Bank Account.

It was not until Mr. Seabury produced the transcript of an account with Corn Exchange bank that the witness admitted that he had forgotten about that item. Furthermore, there had been during a six year period two accounts in his wife's name. The money in his wife's accounts, Kelly said with a smile, was technically hers but it came from him.

As to his brokerage account with Prince & Whitely the inspector did not know anything about it, but said that his bank had bought some stock for him and it might have purchased it through that firm.

Former Inspector Thomas W. Mulkarkey, who was indicted yesterday in Brooklyn for violation of the prohibition law was shown to have made deposits of $27,865 in brokerage accounts from Sept. 24, 1929, to April 25, 1931, and this, too, was exclusive of his salary from the department.

MAYOR WALKER TO BE FETED IN CHICAGO TODAY

Mayor James J. Walker of New York will be the guest of Chicago Democrats today at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman. Mayor Walker will arrive in the city at 8:05 a. m. over the Santa Fé railroad, and will be met by a delegation of Democratic leaders, headed by Mayor Cermak. He will go from the station to his hotel, where he will remain until time for the luncheon. At 2 p. m. he will leave for New York. Word that Mayor Walker would be in the city today was not received by Mayor Cermak until last evening when he returned from Springfield, too late for the sending out of a formal invitation for today's luncheon. The mayor, however, broadcast an invitation to all Democratic officials and ward committeemen to attend the luncheon, bringing their friends.

COLLECTOR ROBBED OF $300.

Sam Friedman, 3034 West Van Buren street, collector for the Midwest China company at 3707 Ogden avenue, was robbed of $300 by three bandits who forced his car to the curb in Washington park near 55th street and Cottage Grove avenue yesterday.

COUNTY COPS AND GUARDS SEEK TO ESCAPE PAY CUT

Two groups of county employés presented petitions to the county board yesterday, asking that they be exempted from the month and a half pay cut imposed on all their fellow workers by the county budget plan of appropriating only ten and a half months' pay for twelve months' work in 1932.

Members of the county highway police force complained that their department already is so undermanned that they are allowed no time off, working seven days a week. They also pointed out that they get no compensation for injuries in the line of duty, being required to pay their own medical bills, even when they are hurt in motorcycle crashes or other accidents.

A petition from the 98 guards at the county jail asserted that they get only $149 a month, and that a pay cut would endanger their morale and make them open to temptation in dealing with prisoners. They get two days off in every three weeks.

Smoke a FRESH cigarette

CAMELS are never parched or toasted

IT DID not take the public long to register how keenly it was wanting a fresh cigarette.

Camel sales started soaring almost from the day the Camel Humidor Pack began to carry air-sealed Camel quality fresh to the smoker.

But the Humidor Pack would mean no more to Camels than it would mean to any other cigarette if Camels were not made fresh to start with.

Camels are made fresh, their natural moisture and delicate flavor vigilantly safeguarded — because the fine Turkish and mild sun-ripened Domestic tobaccos of which they are blended are never parched or toasted — the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

Treat yourself to a pack of fresh Camels — see the difference their cool, smooth, throat-friendly mildness means to smoking pleasure.

Switch to cigarettes that are truly fresh for just one day — then leave them — if you can.

REAR ADMIRAL UPHAM ASSAILS NAVAL SLASHES

Avers Reductions Impair Arm of Defense.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The Hoover administration's naval policies were assailed today as inimical to national security by Rear Admiral Frank H. Upham, chief of the bureau of navigation and second highest ranking naval officer in the Washington naval establishment.

Backing up the Navy league's stinging criticism that President Hoover has consistently followed a policy of restricting the navy, the stocky built rear admiral bluntly characterized the administration's reductions in personnel and warships during the past yeas as a "serious impairment of the strength of the navy as an arm of the national defense."

Referring to the administration's slash of 4,800 men from the navy enlisted strength and its reductions in numbers of ships in full commission, Rear Admiral Upham asserted these steps must inevitably "result in materially lowering training and efficiency." In event of war, he added, these reductions "would be of the gravest consequence."

Committees to Hear Him.

The Upham charges created a sensation in naval circles when they appeared today in his annual report, but no comment was forthcoming either from the White House or from Secretary of the Navy Adams.

Throughout his report Rear Admiral Upham disregarded the usual note of caution that characterizes most of the utterances of officers in this day of "gags" for all government subordinates. He stated frankly his belief that additional personnel is not being provided in sufficient numbers to man new ships as they go into commission. He called attention to the fact that the administration is neither building up toward the maximum tonnage limits for warships allowed by the London naval treaty nor taking steps to fulfill its "approved naval policy of maintaining a navy second to none."

Number of Ships Reduced.

"During the last year the number of ships in active commission was materially reduced," the rear admiral said. "The proposed operating force plan for the fiscal year 1933 contemplates further reductions in the number of ships in full commission and reductions in the numbers of men allowed all types of combatant ships, except submarines. Such reductions must inevitably result in materially lowered training and efficiency."

GILDAY IS FREED ON $23,500 BOND SET WEEK AGO

Daniel L. Gilday, gun toting dry reformer, was released from the county jail on bond last night. Judge Theodore Ehler approved unincumbered real estate valued at $140,000 for the bond. Gilday's bond was set at $23,500 a week ago.

At the same time Assistant State's Attorneys Mal Coghlan and Daniel A. Covelli were forced to postpone presenting the case against Gilday before the grand jury because the jury was busy with other matters. Gilday is charged with assault to murder, assault with a deadly weapon and carrying concealed weapons.

Herman Knol, 17 years old, whom Gilday shot in the abdomen when the youth attempted to guide the snooper's wavering steps on Nov. 29, was reported as recovering rapidly in the Englewood hospital.

The real estate scheduled for was offered by John R. Robertson, who scheduled two pieces, one for $25,000 and the other for $15,000; and Mrs. Martha Scotford, a widow, who scheduled property valued at $100,000.

HALE BILL CALLS FOR BILLION FOR NEW NAVAL SHIPS

Building Up to Pacts Is Proposed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The first legislative move of this session to build the American fleet up to parity with Great Britain was made in the senate today when Chairman Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.] of the naval affairs committee introduced a bill authorizing construction of upwards of a billion dollars worth of warships. The bill carried a blanket authorization empowering the President to forward appropriations to congress for construction of all warships needed to build up the naval armament to the strength permitted by the London and Washington treaties.

Somewhat similar legislation will be introduced in the house by Representative Carl Vinson [Dem., Ga.], prospective chairman of the house naval committee.

Similar Bill in House.

The new move to strengthen the fleet was made simultaneously with the submission to congress by the President of the 1933 budget carrying 644 millions for financing the national defense establishment. This new budget carried new jolts for both the army and navy, cutting the appropriations for the two services more than 50 million dollars below the appropriations voted for the current year.

New warship construction and the operating fleet were hit the hardest in the navy. The air corps, army housing and the National Guard were reduced the most in the war department appropriation. The air corps is cut approximately 186 airplanes below its estimates.

The army budget for 1933 was set at 302 millions, a reduction of $33,952,000 below the appropriations voted for the current year.

Reduction of $17,000,000.

The naval budget of 343 millions represents a reduction of $17,000,000 below last year's appropriations. This sum also is $58,000,000 below the estimates asked by Secretary Davis.

2 SCHOOLS LISTED BY CITY IN DRIVE ON SMOKE OFFENDERS

Two public schools were listed yesterday by Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, among the buildings from which his observors noted the emission of dense smoke. Officials of the board of education and sixteen other persons or business concerns have been summoned to appear at his office today. Those named are:

Board of Education, Falconer and Genaulus schools.
P. Aquilino, 2819 Burling street.
W. D. Ambrose, 3040 West End avenue.
Congregation Anche Yavne Vollischek, 4200 West Adams street.
Charles Nusinow, 1228 North Leavitt street.
Mrs. K. Kaiser, 2642 Dayton street.
Woman's World magazine, 4239 West Lake street.
Chicago Roller Skate company, 4458 West Lake street.
Proctor & Gamble, 1232 West North avenue.
Westinghouse Electric Elevator company, 1500 North Branch avenue.
Lutheran Deaconness hospital, 1138 North Leavitt street.
Artistic Wood Turning company, 619 North Halsted street.
Chicago Tube Iron company, 2531 West 48th street.
Lavin & Sons, 3426 South Kedzie avenue.
J. H. Krause, 126 North Union street.
F. B. Locke, 839 West Randolph street.

Those summoned to the hearing are warned that suit will be started in the Municipal court if any violations occur within thirty days after the hearings.

DOAK DENOUNCES U. S. CITIZENS WHO RUSH TO AID REDS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Secretary of Labor William N. Doak today assailed as "un-American" "those organizations of American citizens" that defend violent activities in this country and constantly rush to the defense of communists and other radicals entangled in the government's deportation net.

SECRETARY DOAK. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

The labor secretary asserted that the department's campaign against "extreme radical aliens" affiliated with organizations working to overthrow the American government by force has been seriously hampered by persistent propaganda on the part of "un-American organizations of American citizens." Mr. Doak did not specify any particular organization in his attack.

During the past fiscal year, according to the Doak report, 18,000 aliens were formally deported while many "thousands of others who might have been expelled were permited to depart voluntarily."

The Doak pronouncement was included in his annual report to President Hoover.

You gargle conscientiously and wonder why colds grow worse

3 out of 4 gargle uselessly while sore throats get worse and colds hang on

Don't waste dollars on antiseptics that can't kill germs unless used full strength. Pepsodent Antiseptic kills germs in 10 seconds, even when diluted with two parts of water. It goes 3 times as far as other antiseptics. Thus $1 worth does the work of $3 spent for ordinary kinds.

GARGLE, gargle—go the nation's gargleers. 3 out of 4 have the wrong idea. Using antiseptics that can't kill germs when mixed with water. Why shouldn't colds get worse? Why shouldn't throats stay sore? Stop gargling long enough to get some Pepsodent Antiseptic. You can dilute it several times—like most people do—and it still kills germs—positively.

A new discovery, safe yet powerful

Modern research laboratories have thrown away the old ideas on killing germs.

Now there's a revolutionary antiseptic on the market—Pepsodent Antiseptic. Its formula is a radical advance. It climaxes the best antiseptic study of 30 years. A germ-killing agent is employed unlike those now in use. It makes Pepsodent Antiseptic 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics, depending on which one you use.

Kills germs in 10 seconds diluted with 2 parts of water

That is the startling news in this new discovery. Think! You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with 1 or even 2 parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all that power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon this new antiseptic is in your fight against colds!

New security against bad breath (Halitosis)

And please remember when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic for colds you are doing double duty by also fighting bad breath. For Pepsodent Antiseptic checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer! That's Pepsodent Antiseptic's record in fighting this widespread social offense due to unhygienic mouth conditions. Immediately after use—95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs is still reduced by 80%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics.

$3 worth of results for $1—regardless of size

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix such antiseptics with water is a waste of money. Contrariwise, Pepsodent Antiseptic can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. Thus Pepsodent Antiseptic goes 3 times as far—saves you $2 for every $1 you spend. Pepsodent Antiseptic comes in 3 sizes: 3 ounces for 25 cents—7 ounces for 50 cents—16 ounces for $1. The larger the size, the more for your money.

Combating colds and checking bad breath are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page. Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you when you travel.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool a cold.

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when combating colds and throat irritations. For at the same time it checks bad breath. Remember P. A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics . . . and it kills germs when diluted.

It's Up to the Women

From an Editorial in the January Ladies' Home Journal

The purchasing agents of twenty-nine million American families—the women in the homes—can have a lot to do with starting the wheels of prosperity turning early in the new year Nineteen Thirty-Two.

Each one with three meals a day to prepare—87,000,000 meals today, tomorrow, next day and all days.

Millions of pairs of shoes and stockings for children's scuffling feet; millions of dresses.

Millions of cakes of soap to wash dishes and clothes and dirty hands; millions of tubes of toothpaste; millions of cosmetic items for the sake of good looks that, depression or no depression, must be maintained.

Motor cars, refrigerators, washing machines, homes, all the major items of big family expense, which husband and wife buy together, with woman's wants and woman's voice always a factor in decisions.

Living standards must be maintained!

There is nothing to fear—except fear.

When the public again expresses confidence in its banks by leaving normal deposits on deposit instead of withdrawing the money and hiding it under a mattress——

Then bank failures will largely cease. Your banks are safer than a hole in the ground for your cash.

When the buying public starts buying again, instead of wearing old clothes, driving old cars, living with old furnishings, getting along with antiquated equipment, cutting down on food supplies, and in general waiting for still lower prices and for so-called "better times"——

Then retailers will start moving their stocks from their shelves; manufacturers will start making new goods; labor will find full employment and buying power; money will rapidly come into full circulation——

And normalcy will have returned.

The Journal reader who maintains at this time for herself and her family the highest standard of living that her income can afford, is the woman America needs to help end this depression. She has always courageously played her part. We are confident that she will play it today.

It's up to the women!

THE SEVEN-POINT PLATFORM of the American Economists Committee for Women's Activities—prompted by the editorial in the Ladies' Home Journal:

1. Maintain Normal Living Conditions

The food you eat, the clothes you wear, the house you live in constitute your standard of living. Don't lower it. Put your dollars to work. Your purchases will keep retail stocks moving, factories running, your neighbor at work, money in circulation, credit active.

2. Satisfy Your Wants at Today's Prices

Food, clothing and shelter can all be bought right now at prices that are exceedingly advantageous.

3. Buy a Home Now

The house and lot that you buy at today's prices will surely be a sound and profitable purchase. It is a splendid way to save.

4. Modernize and Repair Your Home

Present conditions are highly favorable. It will make your surroundings more pleasing and will make jobs for the unemployed.

5. Join the Parade to Prosperity

You can participate and profit in the inevitable recovery of general industry by investing in sound American securities.

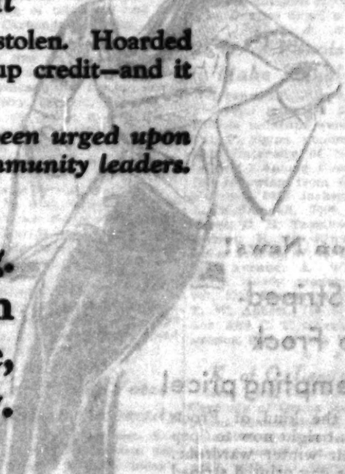
6. Stop Being Afraid

Americans are not cowards or misers. Don't spread calamity gossip. Be sane. Spread good news. The courageous will reap the benefits.

7. Keep Your Money Safe—Don't Hoard It

Hoarded money may be misplaced or lost or stolen. Hoarded money pays no dividends. Hoarded money dries up credit—and it gives no one a job. The banking system is sound.

This platform for wise spending and saving has been urged upon the public by hundreds of national, state and community leaders.



Join now in this national movement to help restore normal living. For fuller details of the plan send your name today to the American Economists Committee for Women's Activities, Independence Square, Philadelphia, and be one of the leaders in the return to prosperity.

POWERS SOBS ON WITNESS STAND, DENYING MURDER

Case Expected to Go to Jury Today.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The fate of Harry F. Powers, accused as slayer of five, will be in the hands of the jury by tomorrow afternoon, Will E. Morris, prosecutor, announced after court adjourned this afternoon.

After a day of thrills in which the stocky built defendant snarled and sobbed from the witness stand, the state piled up further damaging evidence in rebuttal to his story.

The state rested this morning and Powers was called to the stand, the only witness summoned by his counsel. For three hours and a half Powers unfolded an amazing story of his actions during the months of July and August. He blamed a mysterious "Cecil Johnson" as the man he had last seen with Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, for whose murder Powers is being tried. He claimed that Johnson had a pass key to the garage where Mrs. Lemke and Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her three children were slain and their bodies buried nearby.

Weeps Over Domestic Trouble.

During a severe cross-examination, Powers broke down and wept when he was questioned concerning his marital life. He said that he and his wife had never lived together as man and wife and that after a row with her, he planned to get a divorce. Then he met "Charles Rogers," another mysterious figure, who suggested that Powers enroll in a matrimonial club and meet other women.

Powers admitted that he corresponded with both Mrs. Eicher and Mrs. Lemke. He did not deny that he visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Flemming in Northboro, Mass., in company with Mrs. Lemke and that he left with her for Paris, Ill., on a short vacation. They did not plan to get married, he asserted.

But on the way to Illinois, Mrs. Lemke got out of his car in Uniontown, Pa., and deserted him while he was looking about for a restaurant, he said. He saw her later in a Uniontown restaurant in company with Johnson.

Produces Letter.

Powers produced a letter purported to have been written by Mrs. Lemke from Uniontown Aug. 3, apologizing for deserting him.

Later Mrs. Lemke's sister, Mrs. Flemming, was recalled to the stand and she declared the note was a forgery.

Mrs. Alice A. Bartlett, a rebuttal witness, testified that early this spring she was annoyed by a man calling himself Charles Rogers. She identified Powers as "Charles Rogers."

AMERICAN LODGE IS MERGED WITH CANADIAN ORDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 9.—Merger of the Modern Brotherhood of America fraternal society, with headquarters at Mason City, Ia., with the Independent Order of Foresters was announced at Foresters' headquarters here today.

Frank E. Hand, supreme chief ranger, today wired completion of the arrangements from Chicago. It is declared to be the biggest of fraternal mergers and is said to herald further amalgamations of American fraternal societies with the Foresters.

The Modern Brotherhood has a membership of more than 35,000, assets of more than $9,000,000, and insurance in force of more than $40,000,000. The Foresters have assets of more than $41,000,000.

PLEA TO ERASE LUCAS' NAME FROM RECORDS IS DENIED BY COURT

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Jesse Lucas, who served 23 years in prison for a murder which another man confessed, today was denied a petition by the supreme court for the removal of his name as murderer from the court's records. The court ruled that such an expunging of records is beyond its power.

"Necessity for finality in decisions is deeper than relief to an individual," the decision said, calling such necessity a "basic principle in criminal jurisdiction."

"MADHOUSE LIFE" OF PROFESSOR IS TOLD AT TRIAL

Kane's Sister-in-Law Takes Stand.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The home life of Prof. Elisha Kent Kane, on trial for the murder of his wife by drowning last Sept. 11, was described as a madhouse by a prosecution witness today.

The witness was Mrs. W. H. Graham, Prof. Kane's sister-in-law, and the period she described was when the Kanes lived at Chapel Hill, N. C., where the professor was connected with the University of North Carolina. Prof. Kane is charged by the state with having drowned his wife while the two were bathing at Grandview, Va. The trial is being held in the Elisabeth County court at Hampton, Va.

Mrs. Graham testified that Mrs. Kane was terribly afraid of the water and "would not go into the water with her husband if she could help it."

The witness denied that she disliked Prof. Kane, and on the contrary had frequently invited him and his wife to visit her at her home.

Clam Diggers Testify.

George C. Rollins, J. F. Holloway, J. T. and Lon Furmin, and O. M. Ferguson testified they had heard a woman scream at Grandview on the day Mrs. Kane was drowned. They were clamming about three-quarters of a mile off shore. They said they could see two persons apparently struggling in the water.

Ferguson said the scream might have been in a man's voice, but the others said they were made by a woman. Holloway said he could see two people apparently struggling in the water and one was a woman.

"The other," he said, "was apparently a woman or a girl."

Deputy Sheriff Curtis testified that after Kane was arrested he told him about an affair with a Miss Dahl at Camp Bragg.

"He said that affair happened about three years ago," Curtis stated. "He said he got tired of the woman and broke off relations with her. He said he had received some letters from her, but sent them back, but I found some letters in his effects."

Letters Ruled Out.

Judge C. Vernon Spratley, who is presiding at the trial, ruled that the letters could not be submitted, in view of the fact that Miss Dahl had not been summoned as a witness and could not be cross-examined by defense counsel.

Miss Elma Revelin of Richmond said she saw Kane driving madly down the beach and that he asked her to call an ambulance. She said there was a woman in the Kane car and she appeared to have her eyes closed.

Population of France Is 41,834,923; Shows Big Gain

PARIS, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The total population of France is 41,834,923, complete returns from the census conducted last spring revealed. The department of the Seine, which includes Paris, has 4,933,855 inhabitants. The increase in all France since 1926 was 1,891,078, and in the department of the Seine 305,218. In that department are 459,498 foreigners.

SPANISH CORTES WILL ELECT NEW PRESIDENT TODAY

Constitution Is Passed in Final Form.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Dec. 9.—"We have to incorporate ourselves in the main current of modern existence," Julian Besteiro, Socialist speaker of the cortes, said tonight when the new constitution of the Spanish republic was formally voted into being.

Tomorrow the cortes will elect a president under whom the new existence will begin. It is all arranged for Don Niceto Alcala Zamora, first provisional president after the overthrow of the monarchy, to be that president. He will move into the palace of the Bourbons Friday.

Keep Defense of State Act.

The constitution voted tonight in finality will go into effect provisionally maimed. The cortes agreed with the government of Provisional President Manuel Asana that it will be necessary to keep the "defense of the republic act" in force until the cortes passes all the legislation necessary to enforcement of the constitution, which provides among other things for separation of church and state, liberty of thought and freedom of speech, equal suffrage for men and women, and the principle of divorce and equality of sexes.

Retention of "defense of the republic act" amounts to suspension of most of the civil guarantees contained in the constitution. The parliamentary commission on responsibilities of the monarchy will also continue.

No Dissenting Votes.

The constitution was passed by 368 deputies without a dissenting voice. Ninety-eight members abstained from voting.

"Nobody can now raise any kind of rebel banner in Spain," said Besteiro.

"This is only the beginning. Spain enters now into modernity. This opens the way for every expression of the popular will. These are changing times. England abandons the gold standard. Conservatives become radicals. Times of great trial are these and also times of great hope."

TWO DRY AGENTS SUSPENDED AND SLAYER IS FIRED

Pair Face Trial for Extortion.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—W. W. Shultz and David Gould, prohibition agents at Harrisburg, Pa., were today suspended by Director of Prohibition Ames W. W. Woodcock following their indictment by a federal grand jury on charges of extortion. The suspension of the two Pennsylvania agents follows within a month Mr. Woodcock's suspension of Henry Dierks, Colorado dry agent, who killed Milford Smith in a scuffle over a pint of wine.

HENRY DIERKS. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Dierks was today permanently dismissed from the federal dry army when his answer to the formal charges preferred against him by a special investigation of the prohibition bureau was pronounced unsatisfactory by Director Woodcock.

Government Presses Charges.

The case against Shultz and Gould was prepared and presented to the federal grand jury in the Pennsylvania capital by special investigators of the prohibition bureau, Mr. Woodcock said tonight. The bureau has assumed the prosecution of the two suspended men, he stated, and has asked for an early trial in the federal court in Harrisburg.

The two agents, Mr. Woodcock declared, were found to have engaged in what he termed "a racketeering game" similar to that practiced by smugglers of aliens against whom the department of labor has recently conducted a drive. Shultz and Gould, according to the prohibition director, in return for money, promised to use their influence in protecting dry law violators in the Pennsylvania capital.

One New in Service.

Shultz has been a federal dry agent since 1923, Mr. Woodcock said, while Gould has been on the rolls for slightly less than a year. Before his appointment to the dry ranks, Gould was a deputy United States marshal in Harrisburg, Mr. Woodcock stated. The extortion activities for which Gould was indicted occurred while he was a marshal.

MICHIGAN'S LAW PICKS ANOTHER LIQUOR CONVICT

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Another companion for Fred Palm, original victim of Michigan's old "life for a pint" law, was provided today when an Ingham Circuit court jury found Henry Whitmore, convicted four times of dry law infractions, guilty of being a habitual criminal. He was given the mandatory sentence of 7½ to 15 years in Jackson prison by Judge Leland W. Carr.

This is the same penalty Palm is now paying, for Palm's life sentence was commuted by former Gov. Fred W. Green in line with the legislature's modification of the criminal code provision.

Whitmore was returned for trial from the prison where he has been serving two concurrent sentences of one to four and one to two years for liquor law violations.

Investigation of his record showed that he served two earlier jail sentences for transportation and possession of liquor.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough due to a cold. It takes but a moment to mix, costs little, and saves money, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Hear Gulbransen Twin-Voice Radio

Two MATCHED DYNAMIC SPEAKERS

A new principle makes other receivers old-fashioned!

10-TUBE SUPERHETERODYNE $118.50 Gulbransen Grandine R. C. A. Victor

Two big electro-dynamic speakers, perfectly balanced, and blended, they really cover the whole tone range from high notes to low notes.

THE new Gulbransen principle of TWIN-VOICE Radio is more important to you as a radio listener than all the tube and circuit improvements since the Superheterodyne.

TWIN-VOICE, now introduced in the modern, 10-tube GULBRANSEN SUPERHETERODYNES, brings you for the first time in history, a really lifelike tone in radio.

Not one, but TWO big electro-dynamic speakers are used. One is pitched to re-create faithfully the upper half of the tonal range—its mate is attuned to the lower notes. The resultant, blended tones come closer to perfection than radio has ever reached before.

Every modern technical improvement is of course included. The new Pentode, Vari-Mu and Screen-Grid tubes, visual tuning meter, automatic and manual volume control—everything you want.

A radio without TWIN-VOICE is yesterday's radio—already old-fashioned. Come, hear GULBRANSEN TWIN-VOICE and be convinced.

THIS novel, set on that famous left bank in Paris, is based on the life of the painter Modigliani. Under the name of Modrulleau he is the only character in the book who is not called by his real name. However, it becomes apparent very soon to the person who knows anything of that wild Montparnasse group who Modrulleau is, and the introduction to the book, by William Drake, confirms the suspicion.

Among the figures in the kaleidoscopic survey of La Rotonde and the nearby neighborhoods are Picasso, Stravinsky, Diaghileff, Isadora Duncan, Foujita, Leger, Zarraga and Picabia, Kisling, Cendrars, Kisling, Zborowski, and Levy. In the book these men, fired by a desire to reveal to the world the meaning of great art in new forms, lead lives of excess and extravagance and give the world memories of their sins and follies as well as of their genius.

In the words of the introduction, ". . . the famous quarter of Paris . . . is full of madmen. One and all they have been infected by 'la vérole Montparnasse,' a curious, penetrating, tenacious malady which one of the characters rather weakly describes as 'the most interesting place in the world.' Here, almost alone in this tamed and rational world, exist the capricious insanity of the ideal, the passionate desire to create for the pure lust of creation, that arrogant and vociferous disdain of compromise which is the exclusive property of geniuses and imbeciles."

The author makes a group of passionate, erring painters live and love and hate and starve and paint and die, having found for the moment the circle of the universe in the shape of a cube.

The meeting place of the Montparnassians at the time of Modigliani's sojourn was La Rotonde, since converted into a cafe for American and other foreign tourists.

In the earlier days, however, painters and writers and musicians collected there to wrangle and dispute, to drink, and to make love. Cocottes free of disease and starvation side by side with artists' models able to buy a café-au-lait and a brioche, waiters proclaiming "him who is to come," drunk, mad, fighting, losing and finding the light of truth, all sick with "la vérole Montparnasse"—such was the unforgettable scene.

Modrulleau, painting his pictures that are so reminiscent of El Greco, sings faith in the cube, worshiping Raphael as the supreme master of art, singing the pathetic, devoted Haricot-touse in his poor apartment, starving by day and rich the next, dreaming of "him who is to come," a master of painting to equal Raphael; aspiring in his madness and disease to be the father of this genius by a beautiful princess who loves him, disillusioned by life, bitterly indifferent to posing but his art and finally indifferent even to that, welcoming, passionately embracing a tragic and sudden end, leaves the picture as he entered it—mad, fascinating, incomprehensible.

Golden Rule Sunday Gifts to Feed Needy

Bazaar for Charity This Evening.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1161 East 63d street, and 4152 West Madison street.

Undernourished children all over the country will benefit this year by the observance of Golden Rule Sunday on Dec. 13. During the post-war years proceeds from the day were diverted to the starving children of the near east. This year the needy youngsters close at hand require the same aid.

In Chicago various churches, under the direction of the pastors of many denominations are preparing to give a Golden Rule dinner—a frugal meal. The financial difference between the cost of the Golden Rule menu and an ordinary dinner is then forwarded to whatever philanthropy, denominational or otherwise, is preferred. It is hoped that many Chicagoans will serve a Golden Rule dinner and direct the amount saved to the Hungry School Children's fund.

This evening from 6:30 until 10 o'clock, the red lacquer room of the Hamilton club will be given over to the charity bazaar held by members of the Chicago Dental Assistants' association for the joint benefit of the Hungry School Children's fund of this newspaper and the neediest family fund of the Daily News. Miss Mary Jordan, president of the organization, is in charge.

Christmas gifts and staple articles will be on sale at the booths and counters in the club, where the young women of the group will be in charge. Members of the Chicago Dental society and their families and friends have been invited to attend.

Tomorrow evening the west side retail clerks, under whose auspices a dance is being held at the Graemere hotel, at Washington boulevard and Homan avenue, will donate their net proceeds to the Hungry School Children's fund. Several vaudeville numbers will be presented during the intermission, and Mary Ann Jackson, child movie star, will do a "turn." Admission will be 75 cents a person.

The latest contributions to the Hungry School Children's fund follow:

$125—Helen Fraser, A Friend.
$110—P. E. Doherty and Gang.
$10—Mrs. R. K. Orthie, Mrs. C. A. Parliament, Anonymous, Friends of Music, Phi Lambda Delta Mothers' club.
$6.50—Florence Elais club.

Three Tons of Toys Sent to Bridewell for Repairs

Three tons of children's toys of all kinds have been received at the Bridewell to be repaired by prisoners, it was announced yesterday. The plan of collecting the toys and repairing them for Christmas gifts to poor children was suggested a week ago by Mayor Cermak. The old toys have been collected at the district police stations throughout the city. Sixty prisoners, between the ages of 17 and 22, have been put to work on the toys under the direction of Joseph J. Carmody, chief guard.

BRIDGE FIGHT REOPENS TONIGHT; LENZ, JACOBY LEADING CULBERTSONS

New York, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Sidney S. Lenz has said that all bidding systems are fundamentally alike and that victory is 75 per cent play and 25 per cent system. He and his partner, Oswald Jacoby, believe the statement has been proved by the first ten rubbers of their 150 rubber challenge match with Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson.

When the second session of the match adjourned at 12:22 a. m. today to resume at 6:45 p. m. tomorrow night Lenz and Jacoby were 2,075 points in the lead, a gain of 360 points over the plus acquired in the three rubbers of the first session. Of ten rubbers played in the series Lenz and Jacoby won seven, the Culbertsons three. All the Culbertson victories were at the second session.

Culbertson characterized his strategy so far as mainly defensive, a retreat, but not a retreat from Moscow. He believes that his opponents have had the better cards and that the tide will turn.

Ross and Breasted Talk About Persia to New Orient Group

Sir Denison Ross, English scholar noted for his research and writing on Persian art and history, last night before the New Orient Society of Chicago briefly sketched the cultural rise of the Persian people from the time of the Arabian conquest in 632. Prof. James H. Breasted of the new Oriental institute at the University of Chicago presided at the dinner in the Palmer house and introduced the guest speaker.

"Persian history is a wide and interesting but a precise story," Sir Denison said. "More than any other people the Persians have remained a group, a group with a definite beginning which has retained its culture due to its remoteness."

The dawn of Persian culture was the Arabian conquest, the speaker said. At that time the Persians adopted the Arabic language but retained Persian thought. Due to the practical difficulty of old Persian writing this influx of Arabic language was the birth of literature and of a combined language which has remained unchanged to this day. Lantern slides of characteristic Persian art followed the lecture.

The Theological Faculties union, which is composed of 125 faculty members of ten theological seminaries in the Chicago area, will hold its annual dinner tomorrow night at the La Salle hotel. Prof. James H. Breasted, director of the new Oriental institute at the University of Chicago will speak on "Archeology Campaign in the Near East."

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

The charge of the Light Brigade would never have occurred had some one not misunderstood an order. Save for that misunderstanding several hundred gallant men presumably would have lived to a ripe and worthy old age. On the other hand, they would never have stirred millions of patriotic British hearts nor would they have lived to ever reap renown in English verse.

Likewise, if the original South who played yesterday's play-a-problem had not misunderstood his partner's bid the hand would never have appeared here, but would simply have gone the way of other unfortunate combinations. This was the hand:

NORTH
♠—3
♥—A,K,10,9,5
♦—8,7,5
♣—9,3,2

WEST	EAST
♠—K,J,8,4,2	♠—Q,10,6
♥—Q,4,3	♥—7,6
♦—2	♦—Q,J,10,4,3
♣—Q,10,7,4	♣—J,6

SOUTH (Dealer)
♠—A,9,7,5
♥—8,2
♣—A,K,8

South dealt and opened with a bid of one diamond. West, of course, passed. North bid a heart, East passing. Now South held a no-trump count of 15. Had his heart suit been stopped, he could have made an original opening bid of two no-trumps. Now, therefore, in light of his partner's heart take-out, he bid the two no-trumps. West passed.

North feared to play no-trumps with a singleton spade and weak diamonds and clubs. Moreover, he wished to assure his partner that he held a five card suit, so that his partner could support him with but three hearts (normal support). He, therefore, bid three hearts. East passed.

And it was here that South got his wires crossed. South decided that North's persistence in bidding hearts meant that he held at least six hearts and that therefore his (South's) two small hearts were sufficient trump support. Now North's bidding had not shown this at all. His first bid had shown no more than a four card suit. His rebid guaranteed at least five, but nothing further. Normally, then, South would have done better to have again bid the no-trumps in spite of his single stop in spades. Yet South felt so sure of North's six card holding that he bid four hearts. All passed.

East opened the ♦ Q, dummy played the K, West the 2, and North the 5. Dummy then led the ♥ 3, which North overtook with the K. Now North led the ♥ A, followed by the ♥ 5, which cleared the suit and which was taken by West with the ♥ Q. West returned the ♠ 4. East playing the 10 and dummy taking with the ♠ A. Now dummy led the ♦ 9, West discarded the ♠ 3, North played the ♦ 7, and East took the trick with the 10. East returned the ♠ Q, which North trumped with the ♥ 9.

North now led the ♦ 8 and watched West. At this point West held the ♣ Q-10-7-4 and the ♣ K and J. While realizing that he was squeezed, the ♣ 4 looked like a better discard than the spade. To the next trick North led the ♣ 3 to dummy's A. Dummy then returned the ♣ K, followed by the ♣ 2, which West captured. West's lead of the ♠ K was trumped by North and he then led his good ♣ 9 for the thirteenth trick.

If at trick eight West had discarded the ♠ J, dummy would lead a spade and the 9 would be good.

Heart breaking as it may seem to precise bidders, three no-trumps is defeated by good defense.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as 2, 3, K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Send your bridge problems to Charles True Adams, The Chicago Tribune; inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

THE STAGE

THE Blackstone theater adds "Strange Interlude" to the list of Christmas night premieres. This will be the production sponsored for touring purposes by Mr. O. E. Wee, which recently spent a fortnight at the Great Northern. Toward the end of that engagement the playgoing public was manifesting a lively appetite for O'Neill's day-and-night drama, and the management of the Blackstone hopes that its return will be welcomed.

Commodore Billy Bryant of the Studebaker's show boat troupe has not yet made up his mind about the future of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" after Dec. 26, which will mark the end of his current engagement. But mysterious plans are afoot, shipmates. For example, up at Sturgeon Bay, this very minute, there is a rebuilt barge, completely equipped for theatrical purposes, ready to be towed to Chicago whenever the marine insurance companies will underwrite a policy for the voyage. A license permitting it to dock in the Chicago river, between State and Dearborn streets, has been secured. It is not unlikely that ye olde show boat troupe, Billy Bryant commodore, will continue its piratical operations in this craft.

Important decisions regarding "Girl Crazy" are pending. This musical comedy may cease operations at the Garrick next Saturday night for the duration of the Christmas shopping period. There is talk about a contract with the Oriental theater—four abbreviated performances a day, as an added attraction to the cinema bills.

A new play by Philip Barry, called "The Animal Kingdom," will be staged in New York early in January under the joint auspices of Gilbert Miller and Leslie Howard of "Berkeley Square" renown. The latter, of course, will be its star. Among the players now in rehearsal to support Mr. Howard are Ilka Chase, William Gargan, Blane Cordner, Kay Strozzi, Fred Forrester, Betty Lynne, James Neilson and George L. Fogle.

"The Good Companions" will begin a tour on Christmas day, with Philadelphia as its first stop. It may be expected in Chicago before the spring flowers bloom. Shows are eager to reach this port as soon as possible—for the excellent reason that the box office averages of the season are proclaiming Chicago the best show town in the country.

Among the plays now in rehearsal for staging on Broadway to catch the holiday trade are "Papavert," a comedy from the French; "Sentinels," by Lula Vollmer, formerly called "Shining Blackness," and "Fate Morgana," a revival. C. C.

Bishop Hughes Cites Fall in Revenue for Foreign Service

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The churches were urged to rally their forces in the present economic crisis that advice was given by Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, Chicago, a general superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church, in an address here before a meeting of ministers and laymen of the Carbondale district.

The bishop said that a falling off of $1,000,000 was recorded last night in the world service fund "which is used in domestic and foreign fields. In this country, he said, the loss of a $1,000,000 had made it difficult to operate benevolent institutions such as hospitals, colleges, dispensaries, nursing service, and evangelistic service, as well as similar work under some 40 flags in foreign lands."

However, he said, large Methodist colleges such as Northwestern and Southern California are virtually self-supporting. He added that in many places the Methodist church is aiding unemployed by hiring persons to remake old clothes that are sold cheaply. The bishop declared before the depression $8,000,000 was donated for world service, but last year the fund dropped to $7,000,000.

Jane Addams to Divide Nobel Peace Award

Nicholas M. Butler Will Share with Her.

Award of the Nobel peace prize for 1931 will be formally made today at the Nobel institute, in Oslo, Norway. The award, amounting to $40,000, will be shared by Miss Jane Addams, founder and head resident of Hull House, Chicago, and President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university, New York. That announcement was made last night by the Norwegian consul general at New York. He said he had been authorized to make the announcement.

Miss Addams learned of the award while in the Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where she is undergoing observation for a possible operation. In the absence of official notification, she withheld formal comment, but admitted informally that she would be highly gratified over the international honor embodied in the peace award.

"For many years leading women of this country and of foreign countries have worked in the interest of peace between nations," she said. "For more than 15 years the women of America have worked for peace, and our ideas have spread until now there are peace league branches in twenty-six countries."

Miss Addams referred to the Woman's International League for Peace and Freedom which she helped to found, and has headed for many years. Her activities in that and in other similar groups influenced the judges towards honoring her at this time. She had been considered for the award two years ago. One Norwegian is quoted as describing Miss Addams as a "faithful spokesman of the idea of peace."

Her co-winner of the peace prize, Dr. Butler, was regarded by the same observer as one of the representatives of "American idealism." Dr. Butler is president of the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace.

The career of Miss Addams is linked inseparably with social service, and she has written recently of her 40 years at Hull House. For several years she has attended meetings of international peace groups. No particular incident brought Miss Addams the Nobel prize, her friend, Miss Mary E. McDowell, said at Washington, D. C. last night. Rather it was her consistent endeavors at Washington, Geneva, Zurich, The Hague, London, Tokio, Dublin and elsewhere.

Miss Addams is 71 years old. She came to Chicago from Cedarville, Ill., her birthplace, forty-two years ago, after studying medicine, and founded Hull House. In 1915, Miss Addams started her work for peace, organizing the Peace league. Between travels, she has devoted all her time to her Hull House charges.

Would Gratify Carnegie.

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler expressed pleasure tonight when advised he and Miss Jane Addams had been named Nobel peace prize winners. He said it would gratify the late Andrew Carnegie if he could have lived to know that two of his intimate friends had been so honored. Miss Addams was a trustee of the foundation, he pointed out. Dr. Butler is 69 years old, and became president of Columbia university in 1902.

Sunbeam League Entertains Children at Billings Hospital

Christmas gayety yesterday invaded the wards devoted to crippled children in the Nancy McElwee unit of Billings Memorial hospital, when the Sunbeam league members held their annual holiday entertainment there.

Miniature Christmas trees, toys, and refreshments amused and diverted the boys and girls whose days are for the most part a succession of treatments and medicine.

League members spent the afternoon visiting with the small patients and telling them stories. The Sunbeam league, which was founded in 1912, has 300 members and is supported by one charity ball and one benefit card party annually, by dues and volunteer donations. It maintains seven kindergarten units for crippled children in Chicago hospitals. Mrs. Charles Sloan is president.

Movie Gossip as It's Heard in Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 9.—One of the things which helped Tom Mix rally from peritonitis was the visit of two boys who had bummed their way all the 508 miles from San Francisco to Los Angeles to bring him their best wishes at Hollywood hospital. The boys came to the hospital and explained their mission to a door nurse. They left some flowers for Mix.

When John Michael Moran, 15 year old son of Polly Moran, the screen comedienne, was operated on for appendicitis three days ago he demanded to be taken to Hollywood hospital and on the same floor as Tom Mix, and his first question after coming out of the anesthetic following his operation was: "Where is Tom Mix's room?"

John was stricken suddenly at Pacific Military academy last Friday. He is not Miss Moran's real son, but is an adopted boy of Italian parentage. The John Michael part of his name was the comedienne's own idea, after she first gave him the tentative name of Aloysius many years ago.

Miss Moran, just back here from a five month vaudeville tour, is playing the romantic maid in Buster Keaton's film version of "The Cardboard Lover."

This, incidentally, is the vehicle which brings back to the screen, as a subordinate actor, Gilbert Roland, the tall, handsome Mexican leading man who acted as Norma Talmadge's lover in so many of her pictures, and who later accompanied Miss Talmadge on trips to Europe and to Hawaii.

Sylvia Sidney made such a hit in the six months since her film debut that Paramount has boosted her pay and given her a new long term contract.

Aftermath of Child's Illness Apt to Show in Strange Behavior

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Recently a number of letters have come in from mothers whose troubles are stated in some such way as this:

"My younger son is getting to be so difficult to handle, while my older is no trouble at all. The bigger boy is robust and loves school and sports. He is just a pleasure to have around. But the younger boy is a trial. He seems to need so much of my time. He has lately come home from the hospital where he has been for months with serious heart trouble."

Or this might be the form in which the difficulty is voiced: "My little girl has become so hard to manage. She had scarlet fever in the summer and she suffered from the heat. During the late summer and early fall she has been so different and troublesome. This, combined with the fact that I have a young baby, just about tires me out."

Here are some of those instances I have mentioned before, where experience helps. The mother who "has been through the mill" recognizes the results of illnesses as they show themselves in a child's behavior.

To be sure, individual differences manifest themselves in this situation as in all others. Some children are so constituted that they get little nervous back-fire. Others have a noticeable reaction from pain or shock. For instance, some children have apparently no aftermath of a tonsil operation, while others show the effects of it for months.

During convalescence and even after a child is entirely well, mothers should be unusually observant and unusually patient. Children are different from grownups in this particular—that when they're tired, nervous, or suffering from a reaction they don't know what's the matter with them, while grownups usually do. It's up to us—mothers, fathers, or nurses—to observe and understand, and treat accordingly.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Harold, age 5, came running home from kindergarten one day. Calling to his mother, he said: "Mother, the boy down at the new house came out and hit me today."

Mother asked: "Did you hit back?"

"No, mother! Do you think I would hit a little boy who doesn't even go to kindergarten?" S. M.

Snow Turns Thoughts to Winter Sp

The first snow of the season everyone who enjoys sports is planning although the weather to turn a bit colder before the enjoyed, of course.

Time was when only fan people indulged in the joys of tobogganing, skiing, etc., days when everyone is as to fools and looks there limit. Out in Lake Forest the club is just waiting to have freeze to start its program and hockey, but it has no slide this winter.

The Onwentsia clubhouse for the winter and there is about the place except at the and riding arena. The club opened for the party Jack and young Watson Armour on New Year's Eve, but the is closed again until about Knollwood, also in Lake Fo an pond or slide and the one is closed, so about the only there this winter is the wee day morning trap-shooting the men's clubhouse is open are occasional small stag par

Exmoor also has closed clubhouse for the winter, but tage is open and it is expe there will be many parties ing the season when the slide are in use. The clubhou to opened, however, for a Me Eve supper dance for young Members at the Glen View their guests skate on the north of the Chicago river—when through the grounds—when it is frozen, and a slide has been to add to the winter's pro sports at the club. Part of house remains open all winter members are out in numbers Sunday for luncheon and days when the weather permit

Indian Hill also keeps open house all winter and in the the winter season at this club seems gayer than the one. The first winter sport dance of the season will be saturday of this week, and Coolidge, chairman of the sports committee, is hoping pond and slide will be usable Shore Acres is another club clubhouse is open all winter, are no special arrangements ter sports there. Out west in the Chicago Golf club also is winter and there are skating back riding, and trapshooting tain the members.

Skiing is a popular sport country west of Chicago, too St. Charles and Geneva th many acres when the weat ground are suitable.

Snow Turns Thoughts to Winter Sports

The first snow of the season starts everyone who enjoys winter sports to planning for them, although the weather will have to get a bit colder before they can be enjoyed, of course.

There was when only fairly young people indulged in the joys of skating, tobogganing, skiing, etc., but nowadays when everyone is as young as he looks and looks, there is no age limit. Out in Lake Forest the Winter club is just waiting to have its pond frozen to start its program of skating and hockey, but it has no toboggan slide this winter.

The Onwentsia clubhouse is closed for the winter and there is no activity about the place except at the stables and riding arena. The club will be opened for the party Jack Simpson and young Watson Armour will give on New Year's Eve, but then it will be closed again until about April 1. Knollwood, also in Lake Forest, has a pond or slide and the clubhouse is closed, so about the only activity there this winter is the weekly Sunday morning trap-shooting, although the men's clubhouse is open and there is occasional small stag parties in it.

Exmoor also has closed its main clubhouse for the winter, but the cottage is open and it is expected that there will be many parties in it during the season when the pond and slide are in use. The clubhouse is to be opened, however, for a New Year's eve supper dance for young people. Members of the Glen View club and their guests skate on the north branch of the Chicago river—which winds through the grounds—when the river is frozen, and a slide has been erected to add to the winter's program of sports at the club. Part of the clubhouse remains open all winter and the members are out in numbers every Sunday for luncheon and on other days when the weather permits golf.

Indian Hill also keeps open its clubhouse all winter and in some years the winter season at the Winnetka club seems gayer than the summer one. The first winter sports dinner dance of the season will be given on Saturday of this week, and John K. Sedgley, chairman of the winter sports committee, is hoping that the pond and slide will be usable by then. Shore Acres is another club whose clubhouse is open all winter, but there are no special arrangements for winter sports there. Out west in Wheaton the Chicago Golf club also is open all winter and there are skating, horseback riding, and trapshooting to entertain the members.

Sailing is a popular sport in the country west of Chicago, too, and in St. Charles and Geneva there are many sailers when the weather and ice are suitable.

Several Chicagoans to Visit Bennett, Minister to Canada.

A group of well known Chicagoans is leaving tonight for a brief visit with Sanford McNider, U. S. minister to Canada, and they are hoping to be able to enjoy some winter sports at Ste. Anne-in-Quebec, the recently formed recreational club on the Ottawa river about half way between Ottawa and Montreal, where they will be entertained by the McNiders for the week-end. They will return to Chicago Monday. In the group are Mr. and Mrs. W. Scott Linn, Mr. and Mrs. John H. McCormick Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James B. Forgan Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Seaverns, Mrs. Columbus Healy, Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Connor, Miss Julianne Doane, John D. Allen, and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Wiman of Kenilworth.

Miss Joan Williams arrives Saturday from Woodstock, Vt., to spend several days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers. Her brother, Norman Williams III., left Saturday after a two day visit with his grandparents, to spend the Christmas vacation with his father, Norman Williams Jr., in Woodstock. Then he will return to the Evans school, near Evanston, Ariz. There he is preparing for West Point. Mrs. Chalmers has planned a luncheon for Miss Williams the day after her arrival at the Chalmers residence, 1160 Lake Shore drive, followed by an opera matinee party. Mrs. Chalmers will entertain at dinner for her granddaughter next Wednesday evening before the opera, and also on Friday before the charity ball.

Mrs. Charles L. Hutchinson, who has been visiting her nephew, Lawrence Clark, and his family in Aiken, S. C., is sailing tomorrow to spend the rest of the winter on the continent.

Mr. Murray P. Brush to Wed Dr. Mrs. Henry van Dyke.

Mr. Murray P. Brush Jr., the former Katrina van Dyke, is leaving tomorrow with little "Pebo" Brush to spend two weeks with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Henry van Dyke of Princeton, N. J., who are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary on Saturday. The celebration is to be held in Washington, Conn., where the van Dyke's eldest daughter and son, Mrs. Hamilton Gibson and Tertius van Dyke, reside with their families. Mrs. Brush and "Pebo" will return in about two weeks to spend Christmas with Mr. Brush.

Miss Laura Sprague, daughter of Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, will sail next week to spend less than 3 weeks in England with her cousin, Ronald Tree, and Mrs. Tree. Mr. Tree is master of the hounds of one of the best known packs in Leicestershire, and it is expected that Miss Sprague will be spending the Christmas holidays in England. She will return early in January to resume her activities as an expert rider to riding at the Foxcroft school in Virginia.

Another Chicagoan who is off for a month's hunting is Miss Elizabeth Clark, daughter of the Samuel T. Clarks, who temporarily gave up her residence in Lake Forest a week ago to visit Miss Edith Cummings, Miss Chase will return in another week.

The Misses Barbara and Nancy Bastien, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin E. Bastien of 121 East Walton place, will arrive on the 20th from Dobbs Ferry to spend the Christmas holidays at home.

Mrs. Clair E. More has departed for Florida, and, if she carries out her present plans, will not return to Chicago until next June. She is to be in Florida for the winter and will spend the spring in California.

Mary Hastings Bradley Talks Today on "Sultans, Savages."

This morning at 11 o'clock at the Woman's Athletic club Mary Hastings Bradley will give an illustrated lecture on "Sultans and Savages." Mrs. Bradley has had quite a bit of experience with both on her extensive travels so her lecture should be most interesting.

At the same time at the Blackstone a Kinsolving musical will be given with Nina Koshetz, soprano, Vladimir Dubinsky, baritone, and Gabriel Leonoff, tenor, as artists. Among those who will have guests are Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mrs. Wentworth G. Field, Mrs. Darius Miller, and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson.

After today's matinee of "Tidings Brought to Mary" there will be a tea at the Goodman theater at which Mr. and Mrs. William O. Goodman and Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins and Miss Kay Goodman will meet the students of the Goodman who are playing in the current production of Stevenson's "Treasure Island."

Col. William Nelson Pelouse, president of the Association of Arts and Industries, will preside at a dinner which the association is giving tonight in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman for Prof. Eugen Gustav Steinhof. Others at the speakers' table will be Clarence B. Parker and Judge Michael F. Girten, Austrian consul general. Prof. Steinhof, who is director of the National School of Decorative Art in Vienna, will be presented by Prof. John Shapley, chairman of the art department of the University of Chicago.

The Italian consul general, Giuseppi Castruccio, and Mrs. Castruccio will entertain a large party at the dinner to be given by the Dante Alighiere society tonight at the Belden Stratford.

State Opens Plant for Research Into Minerals of Illinois

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Scores of geologists and other scientists were present today at the formal dedication of the new mineral research laboratories of the state geological survey, located on the University of Illinois campus.

The laboratories are designed to carry part of a program of research by the geological survey and by other scientific agencies to discover new values and uses in the mineral resources of Illinois and to develop the state's mineral industries.

Dean A. J. Harno of the college of law presented the keys of the new laboratories to Dr. M. M. Leighton, head of the state geological survey, accepting for that department, and Dr. W. A. Noyes, professor emeritus of the department of chemistry, accepting in behalf of the state conservation board.

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN TO HOLD PARTY FOR CHARITY SATURDAY

Mrs. John S. Clark, chairman of the 50th Ward women's Democratic organization, announced yesterday that the group will hold its annual Christmas party for the benefit of charity work in the ward next Saturday.

MRS. J. S. CLARK. [Raphael-Richter Photo.]

The proceeds of the party, which will be held at the Democratic clubhouse at 4856 West Jackson boulevard, will be used to distribute Christmas baskets among the poor in the ward. Last year the organization gave out 400 baskets, but the group hopes, Mrs. Clark said, to double that number for this Christmas.

The money for the baskets is raised, Mrs. Clark explained, by charging an entrance fee. The profits from card and other games also go into the charity fund.

Miss Hazel Ericsson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ericsson of 854 Surf street, and Dr. Frank Victor Theis, son of Dr. and Mrs. Victor Theis of 832 Belden avenue, were married at 8:30 o'clock last evening at St. Chrysostom's church. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the Ericsson residence.

Joy Morton Farm Yields Skeleton of an Arctic Musk Ox

A musk ox of a type now extinct roamed over Illinois terrain from 15,000 to 50,000 years ago.

Prof. Fay Cooper Cole of the University of Chicago has disclosed that the skull, huge horns, and long bones of one of the ancient animals had been discovered on the estate of Joy Morton, near Lewistown, Ill., by an excavating party from the university last summer.

Identification of the animal as a true musk ox has just been completed by Prof. Alfred Romer, university paleontologist. The find is held as another proof of the accepted theory that the climate of the state during its period of life here, which included the last glacial epoch, was comparable to that of the arctic today. This animal lives only in cold climates and the type found, known as the symbos, apparently died out as the last glaciers receded.

The bones were dug up under a mound built by Indians. A human skeleton was unearthed nearby at the same level and the diggers were excited at first over the possibility that they had brought to light the first "glacial man's" remains on the North American continent.

Closer examination, however, proved that the human skeleton was that of an Indian and that it had slipped down into the strata with the bones much later.

According to Prof. Cole, the earliest human inhabitants of the Mississippi valley, so far as it is known, were the so-called black sand men, who date back only 2,000 to 5,000 years. Nine skeletons of these people, a long headed type of Indian, were found on the Morton estate during the summer.

The university is to have an exhibit of prehistoric finds in Illinois at the Century of Progress exposition in 1933.

Baptists Take Another Step Toward Union of Two Big Groups

The second step toward reunion of the Northern and Southern Baptist churches was taken yesterday at the semi-annual conference of the Northern Baptist convention meeting at the La Salle hotel. A committee was authorized which will confer with a similar committee from the southern branch of the church which looks toward repairing the break between the two groups at the time of the civil war.

The first step was taken Monday when the plan of the tour of principal cities by the presidents of the two conventions was announced. President Mattison B. Jones, a Los Angeles lawyer and president of the Northern convention, will appoint the new committee. The proposal arose from a memorial to the conference by the Columbia Baptist association which represents 27 churches in Washington, D. C.

The Columbia association includes representative churches from both Northern and Southern conventions. Henry W. Millington, executive secretary of that association, told the delegates yesterday that the Washington association contributes equally to mission funds to each convention each year. The same association sent a similar memorial to the Southern convention.

"The impact of Baptist principles and doctrines on the world," the memorial states, "is greatly lessened by our division in America."

Proposals to hold joint meetings of the two conventions at Washington, D. C., in 1932 is being discussed.

Antoinette Tells the Thin Sisters How to Gain a Little Weight

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

To put on weight it usually is necessary to undergo a complete physical examination by a good physician. Otherwise you can't be sure that there is no organic disorder causing your underweight.

To put on weight, the next most important step is to learn to be CALM. Tell yourself to be calm. Repeat it frequently and often until you get yourself trained to accept the trivial annoyances of life as matters of course. Many pounds of flesh are lost through giving these small, irritating incidents attention beyond their deserts.

And this calming business is necessary from a purely physical standpoint. You can't begin to digest your food until you have achieved this thing called calm.

To put on weight—SLEEP! Of course, you thins can run along for weeks with less sleep than your heavier sisters. But your resistance is lowered as much by lack of sleep as by any other factor. You must go to bed even if you don't sleep until you train yourself by regular retiring habits to drop off the minute you hit the pillow. Just lying in bed awake is better than staying up late nights.

To put on weight you approach exercise in a much lighter vein than your chubby sister. She has to work with a vengeance; you, with moderation. Moderation, and then gradually increase your energy. You had better not try to avoid exercise, since it will stimulate appetite and help the body functions to perform better.

A famous physician advises those wanting to put on weight not to talk too much. You can use up a terrific amount of energy talking heatedly and nervously. Better become a yes-man until the pounds gather, anyway.

If possible have a rest period in the daytime. If at home it is easily arranged. If in business his yourself back from lunch and away to the rest room for a few minutes pick-me-up.

Keep off tea, coffee, nicotine, and stimulants of all kinds. And learn to eat a little more at each meal to stretch your stomach to care for more food.

Food Talk

As you trot briskly about town doing Christmas chores, take a little time off to shop in the food departments. We all discover ourselves at some period in the holidays facing impromptu entertaining.

Cheese is one of my best emergency friends. There's a delicious new cheese spread you can now buy in little four ounce cups. If you like hot sandwiches for guest lunches try one of chicken slices on white or dark toast over which is poured this cheese spread sauce. Use the American spread cheese—any variety—and mix with it one cup of seasoned tomato juice, one tablespoon of flour and one-half teaspoon of salt. [You will need about four ounces of cheese]. Cook this in a double boiler until thick and pour a tablespoonful over the sandwich.

The imported cheeses so good for festive functions are comfortably lower in price than formerly was the case. These can always be identified to the uninitiated by their unique appearances. The red cannon ball covers Holland's favorite, a sweet yellowish product. Swiss can be remembered by its cantelike appearance, its creamy color, interspersed with gaseous holes, and its ever pungent flavor. Genuine Roquefort is purchased in tinfoil portions or it is recognized by its loaf shape. The color is creamy white studded throughout with delicate green "veins of flavor," and it has a dry cheese tang. Mash a one ounce portion of Roquefort into a paste with a drop or two of cream, spread it on fragile square crackers, and over the cheese sprinkle the minced yolk of an egg. This in turn may be garnished with a tiny bud of currant jelly—and the completed whole—if you are one who relishes cheese—is a treat.

ENGLISH MONKEY.

1 cup of bread crumbs
1 cup of milk
1 well beaten egg
1 teaspoon of melted butter
1 small package of soft cheese [¾ cup of grated cheese may be substituted].

Soak the crumbs in milk until soft, and then add to the egg. Melt the butter and add to it the cheese; stir while melting. Combine the two and cook, while stirring, for about three minutes. Season and serve on toasted crackers.

FILLED CHEESE COOKIES.

½ pound of butter
2 packages of cream cheese
2 tablespoons of sugar
2 cups of flour

Cream the butter and cheese well, and add the sugar and flour. Roll the dough fairly thin and cut in either two or three inch rounds. Fill with a date or fig filling. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit.]

FRUIT FILLING FOR COOKIES

1 cup of chopped dates or figs
½ cup of sugar
1 cup of water
1 tablespoon of lemon juice

Cook the ingredients together until thick like jam.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative, safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowles and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one, or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Tells How Opex Keeps You Free from Colds, Catarrh, Bad Throat All Winter

This Important Discovery Opens Up Stuffed Nostrils in 3 Minutes—Lessens Buzzing and Ringing in Ears When Caused by Catarrh—Coughs Swiftly Controlled

30 Days Free Trial Says Any Walgreen Store

"Penny wise and pound foolish"—thousands of men and women spend 3 or 4 dollars in a month for remedies that seldom do them any good, when—

For 85c they can buy at any Walgreen store a bottle of magic OPEX that lasts 7 weeks, and brings speedy and blessed relief to all who have the misfortune to suffer from colds, sore throat, coughs and stubborn catarrh.

Opex gets right to the seat of your nose and throat troubles—you know it—see it—feel it—in 3 minutes you can bring out of the stuffed up nasal passages every particle of unclean and annoying mucus.

Better still, if you spray nostrils and throat with Opex night and morning, you probably won't have a cough or cold or sore throat this winter—that's how thoroughly Opex does its work of prevention.

When you spray Opex in one nostril you can see the soothing, healing vapor like smoke coating thru the other—and it will come thru—no matter how stuffed up they are (see top picture).

And if you draw in your breath (inhale) as you spray thru nostrils this same healing vapor will go right to the bottom of the lungs—then up again—and be exhaled thru the mouth. (See bottom picture.)

For sore throat and coughs spray the throat direct—you'll like to spray Opex—its wholesome fragrance will delight you.

For stubborn Catarrh and to avoid coughs, colds, sore throat, spray with Opex at least every morning and night.

There is nothing harmful in Opex—which means that in severe acute cases you can spray as many times a day as you choose.

Opex is made just for that cold or bad Catarrhal condition that hangs on and hangs on—week after week—the more stubborn the catarrh the quicker gratifying relief comes. In our opinion there is nothing in this world so good for Catarrh as Opex.

Here's Good News

Bear this in mind also, for it will be joyful news to millions. After you spray Opex for two or three weeks there won't be any lump of mucus in your throat to hawk up every morning—what a blessing!

Opex is sold at any Walgreen Store with the distinct understanding that if you are not satisfied at the end of 30 days your money will be gladly returned. Opex is delightful to use because of its wholesome fragrance.

If you haven't an atomizer, get an Opex atomizer (see illustration)—strong, sturdy, Nickel-plated and as good as any produced—85 cents—not a toy but a real atomizer that will last for years.

The Dean of an American College writes: "Opex is all you claim for it."

Mayor of city in Maine says: "Haven't had a cold in 2 years since using Opex—had many colds every winter before."

The Bride's Boat

By Coralie Stanton and Heath Hosken

SYNOPSIS.

It was Kit Lenoure's twenty-sixth birthday. She'd worked four years as receptionist in a London family hotel and she felt herself in a groove. When an East African guest offers her a post in the Grand Africa hotel, Sunshorst, Kenya, she gladly accepts. Theo Sable was there and Kit wanted him more than anything in the world. They'd been in love, but their engagement was broken because of his mother. Kit sails on the "Bride's Boat." Jess Morris is her cabin mate. Jess is going out to be married. Kit meets Lal Crowhurst, the hottest handyman about Sunshorst and a most attractive bachelor. He is attentive to Kit. Jess delights in telling Kit the scandal she hears about Lal Crowhurst and about "the widow who owns him." Kit hears that Theo Sable has taken up big game hunting in Africa. Jess is married the day after they arrive to Noel Graham, who manages the widow's coffee plantations. Sunshorst proves to be a paradise with many serpents and terrible powers of demoralization to weak natures. Kit takes up her duties in the hotel. She arranges a dinner party to be given to the widow. After Grieve, the Crowhurst chores Kit through his place, "Moon Fields." He gives a picnic on his property on Kit's day off. Kit wanders away from the party. Crowhurst follows to warn her of danger.

INSTALLMENT XXII.

LOVERS REUNITED.

"Motors are swamping us," Crowhurst told Kit. "A year or two ago everybody rode. But horses are still useful in the rains; they can go where cars can't in the really wet weather. They always had one or two hacks in the stables at the Grand Africa. If not, I shall be delighted to give you a mount. We must get up a riding party one of these days very soon." It was what he had said before—"we must meet again very soon." This time there was a touch of sadness in his voice. The next moment he was addressing her laughingly again.

"By the way, I had a letter from Nightland this morning. You remember them on the boat, don't you? He inquires about you and sends you all sorts of messages. He writes from Port Portal in Uganda. They went up to Lake Rudolf first, because there were rumors that one of the rarest of game birds had been seen on the shores. Then they went over to Uganda, down the Nile, and had rare sport. And now they're parted with Lady Susan and her brother, who are going up to Cairo, and they're coming here to stay with me for a few days before they go home. I shall get up one real safari for them, and I hope you'll come along."

"Theo!" she cried. "Theo!"

"O, that would be lovely!" said Kit. "Shall I really see wild beasts?"

"O, rather! Elephant and buffalo and leopard, almost certain. And I think I can promise lion. You certainly must come along." Again that cheerful, eager tone, and then a little, involuntary sigh, as of depression. There was evidently something on his mind.

They walked in silence for a little while. The sound of the waters grew less and less. Soon they would be back with the picnic party. Kit's heart sank. Involuntarily, she turned her head backward again.

"The Nightlands are very bucked about one thing," Crowhurst told her. "Do you happen to remember one night on the boat they were talking about a wonderful white hunter they had employed about two years ago? And they had lost sight of him. Well, they have found him again, and he was with them on most of this trip. He had an uncommon name—Theo Sable. Nightland writes yards about him. They are often unusual characters, these men."

Theo Sable! He had been with the Nightlands on their trip. Theo—the one thing she wanted to make this life real and complete. . . .

"Yes, I remember," she said. She was glad that just then they came in sight of the picnic party, and were hailed with shouts. She might have blurted out about Theo and herself. And he wouldn't have understood why she had not said on board that she knew him. Of course, if she ever met Theo, he would know, like every one else; that was, if Theo felt about her as she did about him. But just today—no, she was glad that she had not told him.

"You are not so keen on big game hunting as Lord and Lady Nightland?" she asked, for something to say.

"No, I can't say I am. Though I enjoy a good safari now and then. But I'm afraid I've done too much of it."

He gave her one more look before they reached the party; it might have been an appeal. And his eyes were those of an unhappy man.

. . . . . .

Another week passed. They were now in March. The hotel was still crowded, but the applications for rooms were beginning to fall off. The rains were coming, the rains for which the inhabitants gasped, but that were anathema to the tourist crowd, and that, at their worst, isolated whole districts one from another.

"I hear there are some mighty hunters staying at Moon Fields," the manager said to Kit as he was leaving her office one evening. "Lord and Lady Nightland."

"Yes, I met them on the boat. They were ever so nice."

There was a flutter of uncertainty and excitement in the thought. It was not at all likely that Lord Nightland would remember what she had told him about Theo Sable in London. But she would have an opportunity of seeing him. Crowhurst had said so. And if it didn't come off, she would make one. She mustn't miss such a chance.

The next evening she was making up her accounts in her office after dinner. There was not a soul in the lounge. Indeed, the whole hotel was empty. They were having a special night over at the club.

Kit heard footsteps on the tiled floor between the rugs. She did not look up. She was sitting at her table at the back of the reception office, sideways to the counter.

"I want to know if I can have a single room tonight," said a full, vibrant man's voice.

She dropped her pen. She looked up, her face drained of color, into a tall young man's eyes.

"Theo!" she cried. "Theo!"

The young man, who was very tall and thin, his burnt face almost black in contrast to the rich gold of his thick hair, stared at Kit out of a pair of eyes as dark blue as the African sky.

He stared and stared as she stood facing him, both hands on the counter of her office, smiling a welcome made tremulous by her taut nerves. Then his mouth broke into the vivid, boyish, laughing smile she remembered so well.

"Why, Kit! It's Kit, Lenoure! Kit—my London angel. Hold me up! Give me a drink! Am I crazy, or is it Kit Lenoure?"

"Of course, it's I, Theo," said the girl, warming again to his exuberant youth, forgetting everything except that she had come to Africa to find him.

"And how on earth did you get here? Come out of that pen, child, so I can get at you! O, well, this is better!"

With agile grace he vaulted the counter and caught her in his arms, giving her a rapturous embrace.

"Dear old London!" he cried, when she struggled away, flushed and laughing, and telling him to behave himself. "You dear old London, Kit! You are the Gate House hotel! You are the happiest time of my life! You are—you! And Africa is no longer a dismal hole, but a mansion in the skies! But how on earth did you get over here?"

She told him, although she was too shy to even hint at the memories of himself that had really made up her mind.

Still, there were things that had to be said. She mentioned the Nightlands. Also, that she had known he had been with them. These things would come out, anyhow.

"That's why I'm here," he told her. "They came on ahead and asked me to join them here. I had to pay off the safari and settle up matters generally. When I got here I found that they had had a cable saying Lady Nightland's father had died suddenly, and so they went off early this morning, as they can just make the boat."

He stood with his arm around her shoulder. What a light touch it was! How very thin he had gone! She looked at him in sudden concern, seeing him with new eyes.

"Theo, you don't look very well—I mean strong! You look—so tired."

"It's a tough life, darling," he said lightly. "I'm all right. You look too lovely for words. I've got a million things to say. Why did you treat me so cruelly?"

100,000 Gather for Religious Festival Near Mexico City

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 9.—Guadalupe today celebrated the 400th anniversary of the appearance of the Indian "Virgin of Guadalupe." Already more than 100,000 pilgrims have gathered in the ancient village to celebrate.

Preparations continued tumultuously yesterday at the Guadalupe cathedral church, in which masses were constantly being sung, and as the cock crew this morning a final mass was sung in commemoration of the appearance of the Virgin of Guadalupe to the Mexican peon, Juan Diego, on Tepeyac hill, the result of which is the existence of the Guadalupe church.

The Guadalupe grand council of the Knights of Columbus, meeting in the cathedral here, are preparing a campaign of propaganda with which it is intended to extend the fame of the Indian Virgin to the ends of the Catholic world.

Slavic Music Shows Art of Four Countries

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The first concert of the Friends of Slavic Music at Orchestra hall last night was different from all others of its kind because, instead of representing one political entity, it called upon the composers of three. Musicians of Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, and Jugo-Slavia were on the program, not to speak of Rachmaninoff and Moussorgsky, for whom a Russian birth can be claimed.

It was perhaps advisable that so much breadth of origin should have been undertaken, for this permitted the entry of the Polish Karol Szymanowski, and Szymanowski is by far one of the most important of contemporary composers. Though the exigencies of program making did not present him in his most characteristic manner, it was the part of wisdom to show, if only in part, what one of the greatest living composers is doing in music.

Of other Slavic composers, there were Suk, Szarzynski, Rozycki, Krizkowsky, Medtner, Kortchmareff, Slavenski, Chopin, Foerster, and the general director of the concert, Alexander Savine.

Participants were nearly as numerous as composers. Among them were Marie Broniarzyk, soprano; Elizabeth Hall, contralto; Leo Podolsky, pianist; Victor Charbulak, viola; Mildred Fitzpatrick, organist; the Slavic trio, consisting of Michel Wilkomirski, violin; Olda Jirousek, cello; and Jasna Bjankini, piano; and the Lyra Singing society under the direction of Frantisek Kubina.

These are without exception talented musicians, and the music they presented, ranging from the eighteenth to the present century, is of considerable value, if, as just stated, Szymanowski is the leading figure of today as Chopin was of the nineteenth century. It is promised that other programs of the same sort are to be given. They should be interesting.

The purposes of the Friends of Slavic Music, as outlined in the program, are to promote knowledge and appreciation of Slavic music, to sponsor appearances of young Slavic and young American artists, to utilize a scholarship fund in sending especially talented young Americans to various Slavic centers for study, and to foster greater amity between citizens of Slavic origin and their American friends of other ancestry. A speech regarding the series was made by Charles J. Vosicka, president of the society.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover was hostess at tea this afternoon to the Engineering Women's club and the Washington branch of the Women's auxiliary of the Association of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. Mrs. Hoover is a member of both organizations.

Accompanied by Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg, wife of the former secretary of state, Mrs. Hoover went to the exhibition of historic articles being shown to swell the funds for the purchase and restoration of Stratford, home of Gen. Robert E. Lee.

The French ambassador and Mme. Claudel gave a musical this evening, when the program was given by French artists and a buffet supper was served at small tables.

Col. and Mrs. Morris Ernest Locke gave a tea this afternoon to present the latter's daughter, Miss Mary Gibson, great granddaughter of the late Senator and Mrs. James McMillan of Detroit.

Friends Grow Weary of Girl Who Indulges in Many Little Lies

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Is there such a thing as a natural born liar?" Olive asks. "And if so, is the disease curable?"

What prompts the query is a clique of four girls, of which Olive is one, and all are about 25. They have been friends for the last 12 years. Proud of the long friendship, too, and anxious that it be maintained. Three of the group are now married and one of them is the person who inspires the quest for a cure for lying.

"We are all trying to break her of the habit," Olive tells. "Sometimes the lies are so silly. For instance, said girl's husband has been out of work for several months. Yet she will brag about him having a position paying fifty per week. Or, if she buys a dress, she triples the amount of its cost.

"Then, again, she will say: 'O, my family wants to give me five thousand, but I wouldn't take it under any circumstances!' And her folks are poor, really. The rest of us girls are wondering if we can't help her. Since she was a youngster she has exhibited this talent for exaggerating."

One could understand sympathetically why a wife would try to keep her courage up with a mythical income, although it would so poorly solve the unemployment problem for her. One can understand many of the white lies of which the human race is capable under duress of one sort or another. Nine times out of ten they're simply the poor, sagging human barking to keep up courage. No harm is intended. And no particular harm is done, except that it has the expansive quality of a vice if indulged too often.

Getting youngsters over and through a period during which their imaginations are a terrific strain on a truth-loving parent is one of the commonest problems of childhood. Plainly Olive's friend missed the chastening red, and the habit grew until it has become a marked social drawback.

There's always a reservation in our friendship for one with the lying habit. A distrust often out of proportion to the actual nature of the prevarication ensues. It's too bad, because otherwise these people may be most charming and good hearted. The cure, I should say, would be for some real friend to set the prevaricator right on the impression she lends.

Cloth and Seal Make New Winter Ensemble

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—If winter must come, then furs cannot be far behind. Though the furless coat may be charming in its simplicity, there is nothing so comforting as the warmth of a fur collar, or, for that matter anything so flattering. Stark simplicity may be all right for the young and fair, but a soft fur, framing the face, does a lot for the profile that is not so definite as it used to be.

It takes a creator who is essentially a furrier to produce the befurred ensemble which is just right. Such a furrier to produce the befurred ensemble shown in the accompanying sketch. It is in a pale champagne beige, in a soft broadcloth. The three-quarter coat, which is the most appropriate for the fur trimmed ensemble, is lavishly trimmed with seal. One of the most practical of furs, seal has assumed a new fashion importance this season. Seal makes the huge stand-up shawl collar which effectively frames the face, with the right hand side of the fur extending down the closing. It also makes part of the sleeve from wrist to well above the elbow. Like all well behaved coats this winter, it buttons, one button above and one below the narrow belt of seal which fastens into a beige covered buckle at the center front. Seal in V-points almost completely covers the bottom of the coat, starting from the hips.

OPERA SINGER JOINS GOOD FELLOWS IN CHEER CAMPAIGN

Ever since the Good Fellow call was issued ten days ago the Good Fellow headquarters at The Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, has been busy writing down the names of Good Fellows who want to carry a Christmas basket to a needy family the day before Christmas.

Yesterday a young woman known to the operatic world appeared at the Good Fellow counter and told John Gillespie, manager of the Public Service office, that she wanted to enroll as a Good Fellow. She was Miss Louise Bernhardt, a new member of the Chicago Civic opera this year, who is to appear in recital Sunday afternoon at the Civic theater.

"Your Good Fellow idea appeals to me as a charity that comes straight from the heart," the singer said. "Seeing that children have a real Christmas dinner and toys in times like these is really a splendid way of observing the holidays."

Miss Bernhardt, a messo contralto, was educated in New York and Boston. She was formerly with the American Opera company. In 1930 she was awarded the Walter W. Naumburg Musical foundation prize, the only woman singer ever to achieve that honor.

Ten families will be given Christmas baskets due to the thoughtfulness of W. F. Capron, who yesterday telephoned his order. Other Good Fellows responded, too, keeping staff members busy recording their names.

The time is passing quickly, readers. Before you know it Christmas will be just around the corner, and your good intention to play Good Fellow will have fallen by the wayside. There are thousands of children who hope to hear from Santa Claus this year. They believe that the traditional pack of toys will surely contain something for them. Let's don't disappoint them, Good Fellows.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

M. C.: FOR WHAT YOU CALL A "forward head" condition. I should recommend correct posture exercises and the practice of correct posture.

G. C.: COLD WATER MAY BE used on a dry skin as well as on any other type of skin and with equally good tonic effect. After the washup give the face a cold water rinse.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSE.

Separate blouses are a necessity in every smart woman's wardrobe, and this one, made of an eggshell satin crêpe is stunning when worn with a black velvet skirt. The hips are smoothly fitted and the neckline is youthful and becoming. For afternoons a blouse made of a white printed chiffon or georgette, with dots of metal embroidery would be lovely.

The pattern, 3,428, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 35 inch material with 3¼ yards of binding and ⅝ yard of ⅝ inch wide ribbon.

"Silk-stocking fit" in GALOSHES by HOOD . . is a success

Notice how the galoshes pictured above shape themselves to every contour of foot and ankle. Compare their flattering lines with the trim smartness of the shoe and stocking clad feet in the small picture. Here are galoshes that actually mold themselves to your foot and ankle with the smooth stretchableness of a silk stocking—HOOD GALOSHES!

"Silk-stocking fit" is exclusive with Hood—built into every Hood galosh by a special process. Three popular models are shown here: The new HOOD GAUNTLET (in the center)—an unbelievably light rubber galosh with featherweight wool lining and only one snap fastener. And the two famous HOOD RUBALOSHES—one with a talon slide, the other with a three-snap fastening. Ask to see them!

100,000 INDIAN PEASANTS SWEAR TO PAY NO RENT

All-India Congress Party Supports Action.

ALLAHABAD, India, Dec. 9.—[AP]—One hundred thousand peasants in 500 villages throughout this district took part yesterday in "no rent" demonstrations and swore a common oath to refuse payment of rent. The processions were superintended by members of the all-India Nationalist congress party.

The demonstrations appeared to be a sequel to a meeting at Lucknow on Sunday at which Jawaharlal Nehru resigned from the united provinces' congress committee authorization to launch a "no rent" campaign in the united provinces.

British Business Losing Out.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—A dark picture of the outlook for British controlled business in India was drawn today by Lord Inchcape, chairman of the Peninsular and Orient Steam Navigation company, in his annual address to its shareholders.

Lord Inchcape read a letter from his partner in Madras which reported that the all-India national congress had instituted a boycott against all Indian companies except those in which 51 per cent of the capital is held by Indians and 66 per cent of the directors are Indians.

Indians to Predominate.

Partners in these companies must not be interested in the import of foreign goods, and all new recruits to the staff, unless for special reasons, must be Indians, the congress was told to have decreed. It also stipulated, according to the letter, that all banking and insurance on shipping must be given to Indian companies, and no foreign materials shall be used in the business operations of a firm. These conditions, Lord Inchcape said, meant that British firms in India would be compelled to close up and that the British commercial community would be driven out of India.

Gandhi Visits Swiss Woman, 75.

VILLENEUVE, Switzerland, Dec. 9.—[AP]—Mahatma Gandhi, India's Nationalist leader, accompanied by Miss Madeline Slade, motored today to the shore of Le Segey and visited the 75 year old Swiss peasant woman who inspired Miss Slade for the simple life she led in India as his disciple. Gandhi studied the old woman's spinning wheel, on which she taught Miss Slade spinning and weaving, and inspected it with his own apparatus that he designed himself. He leaves this tomorrow for Geneva and will witness a pacifist meeting there.

REPORT NICHOLAS RENOUNCES TIES TO ROYAL FAMILY

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 9.—Prince Nicholas of Rumania was supposed to have handed a renunciation of his membership in the royal family to the minister of justice today in his determination to keep his commoner bride, Mme. Jana Lucia Deleti. Premier Jorga denied the report.

The declaration of renunciation was carried to be a copy of the document which King Carol, who opposed the prince's marriage, presented under dollar circumstances in January, 1925, when he was crown prince. It was thought, in view of the prince's denial, that King Carol was determined not to exclude his brother from the royal family, but wished him to think the matter over for six months or more, and would not consider the renunciation if it was received within that time.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Checking In

HOOSIERS TOLD HOOVER FAVORS CALUMET ROUTE

Delegation Calls on the President.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Support of federal aid for a connecting link between the Illinois waterway and Lake Michigan, via the Calumet river-Sag canal route, was promised an Indiana delegation today by President Hoover.

Representative Will R. Wood [Rep., Ind.] introduced a delegation from the Calumet sector, pleading for completion of the lakes to the gulf waterway. Assurance that the Calumet project was viewed sympathetically came shortly before Representative Frank R. Reid [Rep., Ill.] was named new president of the National Rivers and Harbors congress. That body urged appropriation of funds at a rate to permit intensive prosecution of river, harbor, and flood control projects and, if necessary, the issuance of bonds therefor.

Matter of Time for Funds.

According to Mr. Wood, the President said construction of the Calumet improvement was simply a matter of when funds would be available, but he made no promises as to when he would approve actual beginning of work which is expected to cost "40,000,000.

Representative William E. Hull [Rep., Ill.] advised the Indiana delegation that an effort would be made to include the Calumet project in a rivers and harbors bill if one is voted. He estimated that the government should bear $20,000,000 of the cost. The Indiana delegation said war department engineers had promised to recommend construction of the Calumet improvement.

Seventy delegates were in the Calumet group that called on the President at noon. Previously they had called on Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, Senator James E. Watson, and several Indiana congressmen.

Brown Gives Estimates.

Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, today advised congress that revised estimates set the cost of construction of a nine foot channel for the upper Mississippi river at 134 million dollars.

A year ago the war department estimated the upper Mississippi river improvement at approximately 100 millions. On the basis of the army's favorable recommendations last year congress authorized the entire upper Mississippi project, but stipulated that only $7,500,000 should be allocated by army engineers for construction work until congress voted a new authorization.

DEATH OF WOMAN IN LOOP BUS ACCIDENT STARTS SAFETY DRIVE

The death of Mrs. Irene Tepe, 863 Lakeside place, who was run over by a motor bus in the loop on Saturday, caused Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] to announce yesterday that he will make special efforts for the enforcement of an ordinance governing one man buses and street cars. According to the police report of the accident, Mrs. Tepe was dragged under the wheels of the bus when her hand was caught in the closing door.

The ordinance cited by Ald. Bowler prohibits the operator of such a vehicle from starting it until he has collected all fares and issued necessary transfers. The operator of the bus which killed Mrs. Tepe said he did not see her because of other passengers crowded in the front of the bus, where fares are collected.

"Such occurrences can be prevented by enforcement of the ordinance," Ald. Bowler said.

The measure, drawn by the committee on local transportation of which Ald. Bowler is chairman, was passed at a recent council meeting, but does not become effective until a week from today. It provides a fine of $5 to $200 for each violation.

FRED L. NAYLOR, 60, FORMER DRUG CO. EXECUTIVE, DEAD

Frederick L. Naylor, former vice president and treasurer of the Economical Drug company, died yesterday in his home, 1714 West 102d street, Beverly Hills. He was 60 years old and had been ill two weeks.

Mr. Naylor was born in Mason City, Ia., educated at Northwestern university, and was connected with the Illinois Central and Burlington railroads for twelve years before entering the drug business. He retired from that business five years ago to found the Naylor Pipe company, of which he was president at his death.

Surviving are his widow, Florence; two sons, Elmer M. Naylor of Chicago and Ralph E. Naylor of Columbus, O., and a daughter, Mrs. James A. Henderson of Oak Park. Funeral services will be held Friday or Saturday from the chapel at 4227 Cottage Grove avenue.

3 Killed, One Seriously Hurt as Train Hits Auto

Imlay City, Mich., Dec. 9.—[AP]—Three persons were killed and a fourth probably fatally injured last midnight when their automobile was struck by a Grand Trunk passenger train east of here. The dead are Frank Steple, 48; his wife, Minnie, 42; and Mrs. Anna Proctor, 53. Arthur Proctor, 55, husband of Anna, was reported near death at the Imlay City hospital.

Arnold Keller, Telegraph Worker, Dies on Train

Arnold Keller Jr., 55 years old, 405 Deerfield avenue, Deerfield, died of a heart attack yesterday on a St. Paul train on his way to work in the Western Union telegraph office at 163 Wacker drive. Mr. Keller had been employed by the company for thirty years.

HOTEL CHAIN IS PETITIONED INTO RECEIVERSHIP

Action Taken on Claim for $47,170.

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The Ambassador Hotel corporation, operators of the Ambassador hotels here, in Atlantic City and in Los Angeles, and majority stockholders in the company that operates the Alba hotel at Palm Beach, was petitioned into an equity receivership today.

The petition which resulted in the appointment of the Irving Trust company and Frank W. Kridel as receivers was made by the Harvey Brokerage Company, Inc., on a claim of $47,170.

Current Liabilities of $750,000.

Current liabilities of more than $750,000 were listed and the liquid assets listed amounted to more than $500,000. Items in the corporation's funded debt included first mortgages, held by banks, amounting to more than $17,500,000.

For the last several years, according to the petition, the corporation's receipts have been insufficient to meet operating expenses and fear was expressed that creditors' suits might be filed against the corporation.

The Ambassador Hotel corporation, according to the petition, was formed in Delaware in 1921 and has an authorized capitalization of 200,000 shares of common stock.

Funded Debt Includes $11,880,000.

The funded debt, the petition said, includes $11,880,000 in first mortgage bonds on the Ambassador hotels here and in Atlantic City.

The petition asserted that the company will be in default when the interest on its bonds becomes due next Monday. Since Oct. 31, last, the petition said, $12,720 in taxes in this city have become due and taxes of an amount not stated are about to become due in New Jersey.

Havana Hotel Closes.

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 9.—The Sevilla Blitmore hotel, one of the Blitmore chain and highly popular with American tourists, will not open for the coming winter season. This announcement was made today by Dr. Mario Lazo, attorney for the bondholders' committee. The bondholders plan to reopen the hotel for the 1932-1933 season.

OLD FRATERNITY SONG INSPIRES GIFT OF $50,000

Alling Will Names Sigma Chi.

All the property of the late Charles Alling, lawyer and former alderman, was left in trust to Hanover college at Hanover, Ind., and to his fraternity, Sigma Chi, in which he was active during his lifetime. This disposition of his $100,000 estate was revealed yesterday when his will was admitted to probate by Oscar Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner.

Prominent among the suggestions contained in the will was the request that the grand council of Sigma Chi place a portion of its bequest as prizes for a new fraternity song. Friends of Mr. Alling said that he had been greatly stirred by the song, "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," and had hoped that another equally popular song might be written for the fraternity.

Life Estate for Widow.

The will provides a life estate in the trust for Mrs. Jane Murdoch Alling, 2648 Lake View avenue, the widow. At her death the income is to be divided between Mr. Alling's brothers, Van Wagenen Alling of 124 Washington road, Lake Forest, and Albert C. Alling of New York City, and two nieces, Mrs. Charles H. Brown of Wilmette, and Mrs. Marjorie Lindley of Indianapolis.

After their deaths the estate will be divided between the fraternity and the college.

Family Prominent at College.

Relatives said yesterday that Mr. Alling's family had been connected with the college almost from the time it was founded in 1827. It is the oldest Presbyterian college west of the Alleghenys. In 1846 the Rev. Sylvester Scovel, Mr. Alling's maternal grandfather, became president. Mr. Alling graduated from the college in 1886.

Mr. Alling was alderman of the old Third ward, now the Second ward, in 1906 under the younger Carter H. Harrison.

MINE BUILDING BURNS.

Herrin, Ill., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Fire did $4,000 damage to the washhouse of the Roby Dick mine north of here this morning. The mine was idle but an agreement between the men and the company allowed part of a crew to mine coal for needy members of the local union.

Yes.. you can

Hectic days—crowded with activity . . . too much work—too much play . . . late hours—sleepless nights . . . and how they sap your nervous energy. Then your nerves rebel.

Few people escape — BUT YOU CAN. You don't have to give in to tense, tired nerves. Here's a delightful way to get relief. Drop a Dr. Miles' Effervescent NERVINE Tablet into a glass of water. Watch it bubble up like sparkling spring water—then drink it. In a few minutes your over-wrought nervous system is relieved. Tense nerves relax and nature soon re-coups your run-down energy. When you are irritable and all upset—when you feel you can't keep going, try Dr. Miles' Effervescent NERVINE Tablets. They make a sparkling drink—and they're harmless to take. [457]

ONTARIO TO PUT MORATORIUM ON FARM MORTGAGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 9.—With Ontario farmers fiercely resisting mortgage foreclosure sales on their farms, culminating yesterday in Thomas Stokes, Stamford township farmer, firing at a bailiff as he stood on the auction block and then killing himself, the Ontario government today announced a moratorium affecting farm properties. The legislation which Attorney General William Price says the Ontario legislature will be asked to pass will guarantee debt burdened farmers retention of their farms if they pay the year's interest to the mortgage holders. Urban dwellers will benefit to an extent, as yet unannounced.

$208,750 ADDED TO RELIEF FUND; PASS 9 MILLION

Contributions totaling $111,350 were added to the Joint Emergency Relief fund last night, making a total of $208,750 subscribed during the day. Yesterday's contributions brought the total to $9,144,122. The quota set to be raised in Cook county is $10,000,000.

The final trades, industries, and professions division held its final meeting at the Union League club. Charles S. Dewey, chairman, announced that the group had raised $6,398,825, or 116 per cent of its quota.

Among the pledges reported yesterday were the following:

Employes of the Museum of Science and Industry	$1,500
Employes of Winston & Co.	3,000
Autopoint company and employes	1,148
Jackson, Burkhalter, Jones & Hodgson, and Wolfort & Co., Inc.	7,500

The largest single contribution was $20,000, made jointly by Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell.

An aggregate of $406,491 was spent by the county for poor relief during the month of November it was announced yesterday by Joseph L. Moss, director of the bureau of public welfare. The figure is an increase of 40 per cent over the total of $363,616 spent during October. Milk, food, shoes, and coal were provided to 37,000 families, an increase of 3,600 over the preceding month.

CUBS GET GRIMES FOR WILSON AND TEACHOUT

BADGERS TO CUT SPORTS BUDGET NEXT SEASON

Take No Action on Thistlethwaite.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 9.—The athletic council of the University of Wisconsin tonight adopted a reduced budget for next year a few hours after the Wisconsin state senate had passed a resolution to investigate the high cost of Badger football. The budget was submitted by Athletic Director George Little.

Little's estimate for an athletic program for the fiscal year of July 1, 1932, to June 30, 1933, called for the expenditure of $89,825, which is $14,- short of the current athletic department budget. The council granted an appropriation of $100,000 for this expense, however.

No Action on Coach.

While it was understood that the council would consider the question of retaining or dismissing Glenn Thistlethwaite as head football coach, there was no announcement of action. The council will meet again tomorrow, at which time a decision is expected on the gridiron leader.

The following resolutions were passed:

That the budget for intercollegiate sport for the next fiscal year in the sum of estimated receipts of $150,000 is allotted as follows:

Field house obligation	$ 30,000
Contingent fund	20,000
Athletic program	100,000

That a salary schedule be established in accord with the salary plan of the university as a whole, with due regard for unavoidable Big Ten relationship.

That administration and coaching salaries be reduced to a minimum consistent with efficiency.

That consideration be given to the possibility of centralizing the business management of athletics in the office of the business manager of the university.

Some resolutions will be presented to the board of regents for approval.

Five Legislators on Committee.

A legislative committee of five members will be named for the investigation of Wisconsin football, Assemblyman W. W. Kres, Plymouth, introduced today, which was approved by the senate.

"I want to say that there are thousands and thousands of dollars wasted, not only in the athletic department, but in the university," Senator Henry Gettelman, Milwaukee, said. "Professors are not being paid to teach, they are being paid to mix in politics and pass laws," Senator Gettelman continued.

Senator Gettelman declared that Dr. Glenn Frank is getting a $16,000 salary and at the same time is receiving thousands of dollars in additional lectures and writings.

Chicagoan Seeks Aid.

Members of the legislature are asked to investigate," the senator continued. "People in my district don't have the time or the finances to make thousands of trips to the university to see what is going on inside the walls of Wisconsin."

Senator Gettelman, who failed in an attempt to bring about a charity football game between Marquette university and the University of Wisconsin backed the move for the investigation.

The athletic committee of the board of regents also attended the meeting of the athletic council.

Members of Thistlethwaite's inspection committee into the problem when they started in a Madison newspaper office this year would show a deficit of $23,000. This Director Little denied.

"Football receipts this year were approximately $50,000 less than in 1930. This doesn't mean, however, that there will be a deficit. It does mean, we must trim our operating costs," Little said.

Plan to Reduce Budget.

The total gross income of the football season just ended at Wisconsin was $180,340. Basketball also is a money maker. The gross receipts from Wisconsin basketball for the 1930-31 season were $36,600.

The expenses for the 1931-'32 fiscal year, which ends next June follow:

1931-1932.
Salaries (coaches, etc.)	$ 48,735
Equipment	24,135
Transportation and travel expenses	16,550
Insurance, awards, etc.	17,905
Total	$106,325

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Hack Wilson — pudgy, ripsnorting little Hack—no longer is a Cub. But Burleigh Grimes, that famous old devil man whose greatest recreation for years has been the whipping of the Cubs, will be out there wielding his famed spitter for the Wrigley cause, come next April.

The much advertised passing of Wilson from the Cubs transpired yesterday during a conference between President William Veeck of the Cubs and President Sam Breadon of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals. The Cards gave Grimes for Wilson with the Cubs throwing in pitcher Bud Teachout for good measure.

Cards' Offer a Surprise.

The Cubs picked Grimes from three players forwarded by the Cards in an offer Tuesday. The Cards hadn't previously asked to be dealt a hand in the game of bartering Wilson. The entrance of the world champions caused a wave of excitement, especially when it became known that Burleigh, co-hero with Hallahan in the 1931 world series, was included in the offer.

The other two players were Watkins and Orsatti, and in view of the fact that both had flopped in 1931 after great years in 1930, many friends expressed great wonderment why the Cubs were hesitating about their pick.

It is certain that Grimes will be a mainstay on the Cubs next season, barring accidents. It is not certain that Hack will be a Cardinal regular.

The reasons for Grimes' passing from club to club despite wonderful pitching records, for many years has been one of the most carefully guarded secrets of the National league.

Last year, despite the Cards' extensive pitching staff, and a late season illness which did not result from his 38 years, Burleigh won 17 games while losing nine. Five of his victories and none of the defeats resulted from his games against his long time "cousins," the Cubs.

Won 2 in World Series.

He won the third game of the world series last October and came back to pitch another masterpiece to win the seventh and deciding game.

During his 18 years as a major leaguer, Grimes has pitched for five clubs. After he has played with the Cubs, the Cincinnati Reds and the Philadelphia Phillies will be the only National league organizations that have not employed him.

His record includes nine years with Brooklyn, two hitches with Pittsburgh of two years each, a year with New York, a half year with Boston and a year and a half with the Cardinals.

During his years in the league Grimes has won 329 games while losing 189.

There is something ominous for Wilson in the salary phase of the big deal in which he was a part. The main reason given for the Cardinals' desire to get rid of Grimes' contract was that he was drawing $18,000, the highest figure on the world champions' pay roll.

Last year Wilson drew $37,500 as a Cub, yet the Cards are taking him on to get rid of a man who was getting $18,000. It does not take a mathematician to figure that Hack's salary is in for one of the most brutal carvings in the history of baseball employment.

Aside from the individual features of yesterday's transaction, the fact that the Cards and Cubs finally have reached a trading status opens up a new field of imagination for Cub fans.

Regardless of whether Wilson stays with the Cards, Bud Teachout, the other chattel in yesterday's swap, probably is destined for the minors.

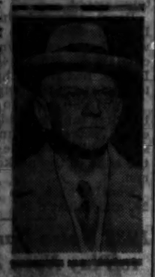
Young Tunney Uses No Mere 'Yow' Nor 'Ma' to Get Service

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 9.—I am sure the many friends of Gene Tunney will be interested to hear that his new son, Gene Lauder Tunney, is following the type of his father's side and is talking baby talk in Greek and Latin derivatives and almost entirely in polysyllables. Thus, instead of the Anglo-Saxon "silbooch," meaning, as I understand it, "Everything is pretty good with that right now," young Mr. Tunney prefers the more classical form, "silbositty" or its variant, "silbisitude."



WILLIAM PHELPS.

His alternative for the vulgar "wow," which has a number of meanings, is an obsolete form "yowos," from the Greek, of course, composed of the basic word "yow," meaning "what is the matter with the service around this joint?" and the suffix, "os," meaning "dammit." In some cases "yowos" takes the adjective and, hi-o, the preserver, the farmer takes a wife.

It's "Ma" Nor "Ma."

Again, shunning the ordinary, the young man has not been heard to utter the colloquial "ma," but a carefully enunciated "mater," and, in occasions, calling for the jubilant word "blah" he manifests the same tendency by yelling "breckety-ex-coax-coax," followed by nine sharp "rahs" and a final "Yale!" I have heard that the world "blah" and the word "rah" are from the same root.

All this information is strictly homegrown, but you may be sure it is better information than I could have obtained by sneaking a dictaphone under his bed, because in that case I would have had to stick to facts, which are always dull and uninteresting.

Tunney pere, or pater, though long familiar, not to say positively intimate, with the Latin and Greek forms of more or less adult speech, has been taken unaware, however. As a heavyweight champion he was always a steadfast non-baby-kisser and consequently was unfamiliar even with the crude native American forms of baby talk, much less with the more obscure expressions for which his son has evinced this remarkable preference.

Consults Prof. Phelps.

Consequently he turned in haste and in some alarm, to his friend, Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale, who said, "Bring him up to school and let him lecture on Shakespeare."

This must have been a joke because obviously this kid doesn't know enough about Shakespeare to lecture on the subject to a lot of Yales who pay good money for expert information. But there was a germ of an idea in what he said, at that, because most Yales raise further Yales following an interval after graduation, and why wouldn't it be a good plan to install a chair of baby talk to fit such Yales, for some of the most interesting duties and responsibilities of life?

It sounds rather silly, I will admit, but many of our universities nowadays are running glorified barber colleges to accommodate the intellectual limitations of their football players, known as the colleges of physical education, and it stands to reason that a country which has gone off the boom schedule of living cannot absorb so many thousands of gymnasium rubbers, prize fighters' seconds, wand-drill leaders, may-pole and daisy-chain experts, corn doctors and salve-and-arnica healers any more.

It's Up to Parents.

The future of the country lies with the parents, not with the barbers and triple-threat backs, and I have a sort of suspicion that if baby talk were put to scientific analysis it would be found to be an important study.

But, I don't care whether the idea is any good or not, I am pretty tired of football by now, especially the squawks from people signing themselves "Fair Play" and raising the devil because some substitute guard hasn't received enough publicity to guarantee him a $15,000 job as head coach in Warner's place, and it this is silly, how silly was that noted head coach in California who had one of his players arrested for a week on suspicion that he had sold out his alma mater's signals to the opposition?

Maybe Tunney's kid has a new idea. Edna Ferber got mad and made page one about the time her latest novel was coming out with a blast against the youth of the U. S. A. who were not developing any intellectual or political leadership.

Where Is Dividing Line?

But where does youth leave off and age begin? She thinks people of undergraduate age are youth. Who told her so? Tunney's son is more youthful by about twenty years and if youth is the thing, a brand new youth might make a good president. There is an opening for a good president. So Tunney for president.

Not Gene Tunney. He is too old; but Tunney's kid. And with a campaign slogan of "Silbisitude" meaning "silbooch" in the superlative degree. That is laying it on the line. All or nothing. You know where he stands. It has a ring of emphasis to it. The kid has opinions.

Tunney's kid for president then, on a platform of "Silbisitude or fight."

YALE RENAMES STEVENS GRID COACH FOR 1932

Walsh Reappointed; Booth to Be on Staff.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Mal Stevens, who brought to Yale this season its first Big Three championship in four years, was reappointed head football coach today by the Yale athletic board of control.

The appointment, which is for one year, will bring Stevens back in 1932 for his fifth consecutive year as head coach.

Benny Friedman, former Michigan passing ace, who served as a part time coach this year and as guest coach the year before, was not included in the appointments announced. Officials made no comment on this action.

Reappoint Adam Walsh.

The board also reappointed Adam Walsh, former Notre Dame star, as line coach, and Charles Comerford as end coach.

Albie Booth, captain of the 1931 eleven, who was taken to a sanitarium before the end of the season, was named a junior varsity coach in line with a Yale policy of having the retiring captain return as coach the following season.

The remainder of the football coaching staff was announced as follows: Junior varsity, Ducky Pond, Stanley Gill, Frank Marting; freshmen, Reginald D. Root, Bucky O'Connor, Stewart Scott, and Robert Hall.

Stevens assumed charge of the varsity squad in 1926, three years after his graduation from Yale, as one of the youngest head coaches in a major college. Although his first three teams were fairly successful, Yale's 3 to 0 victory over Harvard this season was the first against the Crimson during his four year regime. This victory and one over Princeton gave Stevens his first Big Three championship.

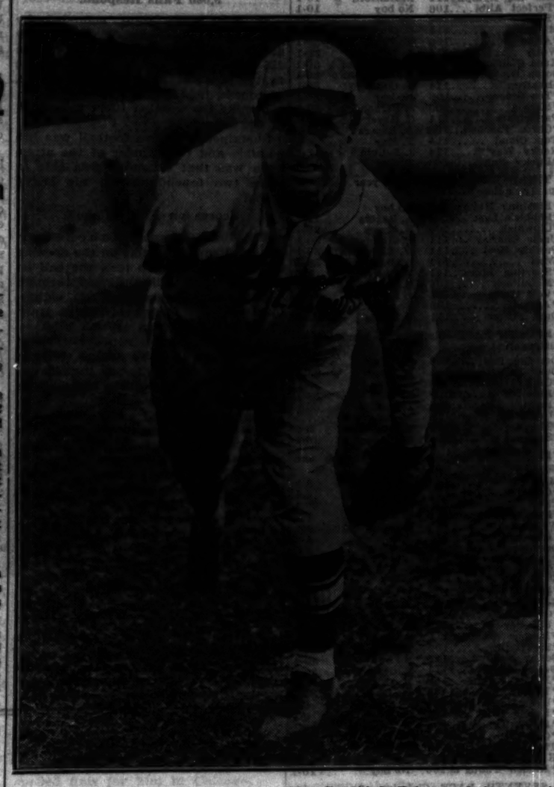
Stevens Star in 1923.

Stevens starred in the back field of the powerful 1923 Yale eleven. The next year, ineligible for varsity competition, he was named assistant varsity coach, a post he retained until he succeeded Tad Jones as head coach, under a three year contract. In private life, Stevens is a physician.

Walsh has been on the staff for three years, while Comerford has been coaching Yale ends since 1920.

Root, a junior varsity coach this year, will succeed C. S. Osburn as freshman coach. The latter was given a year's leave of absence.

Cubs Shuffle Cards—Find Ace



No more will the Cubs have to fear Burleigh Grimes, their nemesis for several years. He joined the north side roster yesterday in a trade with the Cards which involved Hack Wilson and Bud Teachout.

HACK IS 'TICKLED TO DEATH TO GET AWAY FROM CUBS'

Rejoices at Trade; Hits Hornsby System.

Hornsby's Reply

WHAT Hack Wilson thinks about the managerial policies of Rogers Hornsby, pilot of the Cubs, no longer is of interest to the Cubs' boss.

Commenting on Wilson's attack yesterday on his batting instructions, Hornsby said:

"I am not bothered about anything Wilson says, as he now is the property of another club. However, I will say that he was permitted to hit any kind of pitch except when the count was two and nothing and three and one. Instructions on such occasions is the prerogative of a manager. For the most part, Wilson was permitted to think for himself when he was at the plate."

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—"That's great. I am sure glad to get away from Chicago." So shouted Lewis R. [Hack] Wilson over the telephone today when informed that he had been traded to St. Louis. At his home in Martinsburg, W. Va., the erstwhile home run king of the Chicago Cubs was jubilant when told he had been exchanged for Burleigh Grimes.

"Why shouldn't I be tickled? The treatment I received in Chicago was terrible, especially from the officials of the club.

"And Make It Strong."

"You can say for me—and make it as strong as you like—that they took that bat right out of my hands in Chicago. How is a fellow going to live up to his reputation as a hitter if he is not allowed to hit? When I made a home run record in the National league, I was not under any big handicap at the plate as was the case last year.

"Manager Hornsby would not let me hit 'two and nothing' or 'three and one.' I had to stand up there and take them; yes, take a lot of sweet strikes I might have hammered out of the lot.

"The fans don't realize what I was up against when I played under the Hornsby system, and I don't think there is any harm in telling the truth about the matter. Moreover, you can say for me that I will be out there next year to show Hornsby and the others that they had been wrong."

ANOTHER PAGE FOR HACK

Hack Wilson's transfer to the roster of the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday marks another chapter in one of the most turbulent careers in the history of major league baseball.

Rejected by two big league clubs—the New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Pirates—Wilson rose to the heights among the greatest in the game. Then, through the medium of self-neglect, he plumbed the depths, experiencing his most disastrous year.

Following an altercation with newspaper men in Cincinnati on Sept. 5, in which Pat Malone participated and the reporters were slugged in the vestibule of the Cubs' special train, Wilson, who had been indefinitely suspended, was benched for the remainder of the season.

Like a Story Book.

The story of Lewis R. Wilson, the Elwood City, Pa., boy who made good in the big towns, might easily be the fictive creation of the most accomplished author, were it not based on facts.

Wilson started his career at the age of 18 years. He found a job as catcher for the Upland team of the Delaware County league, a small semi-pro circuit, financed by various industrial concerns. He was the best catcher in the league in 1920.

The next year, when Joseph A. Ward took over the Martinsburg, W. Va., team in the Blue Ridge league, his big need was a catcher. He signed two men, but they were untried, and to be on the safe side he also acquired Wilson. "Stouts," as Wilson

BIERMAN TO MINNESOTA.

BERNIE BIERMAN, one time Gopher and of late years successful coach at Tulane university, returns to Minnesota under favorable auspices. That is, he returns with the support of many alumni by whom he was advanced as a candidate when H. O. [Fritz] Crisler was made athletic director.

Bierman's choice as head coach also is approved by Crisler, who assumed the position in a temporary rôle and whose efforts in his dual duties of athletic director and coach were such he was in no sense demoted. Such conditions tend to harmony since Tad Wieman, line coach, once of Michigan, also is retained.

This yarn, however, is of Crisler rather than Bierman. A year ago last fall Tha Wake went to Minneapolis to report the Minnesota-Stanford game. The Gophers had just been swamped the week previous, 33 to 7, by Vanderbilt. Prevalent wagering was whether Stanford would win by more than 20 points. Alumni were asking questions in that hostile way alumni have of asking questions.

Under these discouraging conditions Crisler and Wieman rallied a willing and game Gopher squad until it held a superior Stanford eleven to a scoreless tie.

At that time Crisler already realized he could not satisfactorily perform the duties of athletic director and head coach with justice to both positions. We urged him to retire at the end of the season. His reply was characteristic of Crisler.

"I'd like to do that," he said, "and get started on my intra-mural program. But I don't expect to do so. We play Stanford at Palo Alto on Oct. 10 next fall. It would not be fair to a new coach to put him under that handicap. He might get off to a bad start. I'll stand the gaff myself. After that we'll see about a head coach."

That was exactly what happened with some variations. Minnesota lost to Stanford without great discredit and did better than generally expected in the conference season. Crisler's attitude in the whole matter was so unselfish and so sportsmanlike that we bring it up at this time. He is a high class fellow—one to whom fathers could intrust the moral and ethical welfare of their sons as well as their physical welfare. That's about the most sincere compliment The Wake can pay.

The Isle of Happiness.

I see in the distance across the sea
The shore of "Happiness" beckoning me.
Through poverty, illness, gloom, and despair,
Though my craft is besought with worry and care,
The faint row of hope in the human breast
Urges me on to do my best.

Through pain, misfortune, bad luck, and distress,
I still see the vision of "Happiness."
For my ship is "Courage," my oar is "Hope,"
As I meet the struggles with which I must cope.
My boat must be steady or go aground—
The sea of life is rough, I've found.

Should one lose his bearing—let obstacles press
Him off his course to "Happiness,"
He'd drown in the mood of discontent
And ne'er be repaid for the labor he spent.
Though the shore be dim and dark in the night,
Dig in the oar and stay in the fight.

Just beyond reach is "Happiness Isle,"
Always receding with each weary mile.
But you are the master—the ship is your own—
Guide its destiny though you are blown
Off of the course, you may bank in its smile
If you carry the vision of "Happiness Isle."

N. Y. U. EDITOR ASKS MEEHAN BE DISMISSED

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The New York university Daily News struck a blow today in favor of reform in football. The student publication carried an editorial, directed to the board of athletic control which meets Saturday to select a coach for the next season, demanding the removal of John F. [Chick] Meehan, the present coach.

Meehan, the editorial charges, stands for "big time football with all its attendant evils—recruiting of players, lavish entertainment of prospects, subsidized athletes, athletic scholarship funds, physical punishment for delinquents and general drafting of students into universities for the sole purpose of playing football."

The editorial continued: "We have no desire to make the New York university team a martyr to the cause of ethical athletics. We desire to be a leader, not a pioneer, in that field of reform."

London Pins Wilson at New York Coliseum

New York, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Jim Londos of Greece, claimant of the heavyweight wrestling championship, defended his title claims for the second time this week by throwing Ralph Wilson of Philadelphia in 23 minutes 46 seconds in the main bout at the Coliseum tonight. Londos won the fall with a half nelson and crotch hold.

Running of 1932 Derby to Precede the Preakness

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—For the first time since 1921, the Kentucky Derby, best known horse race in America, will be run in 1932 earlier than the Preakness, Maryland's famous special for three year olds. The Derby also is a three year old test, and around the two stakes, each of which is a $50,000 race, revolves much of the most intense interest on the turf each spring.

The Derby will be run on May 7 and the Preakness will be renewed on May 14. Matthias L. Daiger, secretary of the Maryland Jockey club, under whose auspices the Preakness is run, came up from Baltimore today in the interest of the Preakness and other races and said he had received word from Churchill Downs as to the date of the Derby.

ARMY-NAVY GAME TO BE BROADCAST OVER TWO CHAINS

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The Army-Navy football game next Saturday will be broadcast over the networks of the Columbia and National Broadcasting company chains, Maj. P. B. Fleming, Army graduate manager of athletics, announced today. More than 150 stations will participate.

A substantial sum was donated to the relief fund for the unemployed by a hat manufacturing concern in return for the privilege of sponsoring the broadcast. It will be the first time Army ever has permitted the use of advertising in connection with radio reports of its sports events. The two broadcasting companies have donated the use of their chains.

CREIGHTON FIVE HANDS TROJANS 25 TO 17 DEFEAT

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The University of Southern California basketball team, champion of the Pacific coast conference for the last two years, was defeated tonight, 25 to 17, by Creighton university.

Creighton led at the half, 11 to 5, and ran its lead to 14 to 5 at the start of the second half. Nemer, U. S. C. star, countered with three quick field goals and the Trojans trailed 14 to 11. Kiely, Creighton guard, staged a rally of his own at this point and dropped in two goals to give the Bluejays a lead they held to the finish.

Missouri Grid Team Names Kerby Captain

Columbia, Mo., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Kenneth Kerby of Kansas City, tackle on the University of Missouri football team, tonight was elected captain of the 1932 eleven. The Tigers open their schedule next fall at Evanston against Northwestern.

DOWNPOUR WINS THIRD IN A ROW AT NEW ORLEANS

Whips Sand Fiddler by a Neck.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Downpour, the Thunderstorm gelding which won two races on successive days last week, made it three in a row, when he won the Mississippi purse at Jefferson Park today. The 3-year-old was the fourth betting choice in a field of seven, and was off slowly.

At the end of the mile and a sixteenth he was a neck before Sand Fiddler. Durvel landed third, five lengths back of the second horse. The track still was heavy so that Downpour's time was as slow as 1:53 3-5.

Downpour was ridden by Willie Garner, who has been up in all four races at this course. Downpour's first Jefferson Park effort resulted in a second place. The gelding now has won five of 24 starts in 1931. He won only one race as a juvenile.

Meridianese Easy Winner.

Top weight of the field was 112 pounds and this impost was carried by both Downpour and Squeeze Play, the latter finishing a distant last.

The Meridian filly from Orphan Agnes, Meridianese, was an easy winner of the curtain raiser after Jockey Melvin Lewis had taken her to the front soon after reaching the stretch. She was the second choice, at 3 to 1, and had little trouble putting away John Speed, which had showed the way in the early part. Byaninch ran third with King Hidna, the favorite, bringing up a well beaten sixth.

Meridianese is on under 108 pounds and was scoring her fourth victory this year in 37 starts. She is a good middler and was favored by the footlers. She finished the six furlongs in 1:20.

30 to 1 Shot Wins.

A nose finish with a 30 to 1 shot on the Trout and made the second race a thriller. Calwick was the winner after a driving finish by Jockey J. Battista, which proved too much for Diodoro, piloted by Lewis, rider of Meridianese.

The payoff on Calwick was $62.60 for $2, or slightly better than 30 to 1. Diodoro was almost 6 to 1 to win, while the show was taken by Dark Simon, whose price, had he won, would have been close to 11 to 1. St. Jim, even money choice, was fifth.

De Paul Meets Trojan Five Tomorrow

The Trojans of Southern California will arrive in Chicago today for their basketball battle tomorrow night with De Paul university at the Loyola university gym. It will be the first contest of the season for the Blue Demons, who won seventeen of their twenty games last year.

Coach Sam Barry will depend on a tricky crisscross game. The Trojans are able to flash into a fast break or assume the deliberate ball control style. A pair of two year men will appear in the Southern California lineup. They are Capt. Jack Gardner, who will perform behind a protector to guard his broken nose, and Bill Pierce, 6 foot 1 inch center.

Included in the Trojan squad is a boy from West Aurora, Ill.—Clarence G. Anderson, letter winner last year, who plays guard.

Coach James Kelly is confident De Paul's defense will be in working order, but is a bit dubious as to the attack which hasn't been clicking so well in practice. The Demons lost their scoring combination of last year, Stix Powers and Johnny Ascher.

De Paul is relying on three veterans to carry it through. Capt. Joe O'Connor, guard, Tony Lauritis, shifted from forward to guard, and Heine Coan, forward, compose the trio.

Bill Sharp, a sophomore, is a likely starter at the other forward position, while Ellsworth Weston, tall center, is being favored at the pivot position.

ILLINI VARSITY BEATS FROSH IN FIRST GAME, 41-16

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—University of Illinois basketball team, playing its first regulation game, defeated the freshmen here today, 41-16. The starting five of the Kamp cousins, Bennett, Hellmich, and Kamp, worked together for more than a half.

Bob Kamp, smallest of the regulars, made nine points to lead the scoring, but he was followed closely by Hellmich, sophomore center, and Bennett, each of whom made eight points. Red Owen, regular guard, was not used because of an injured knee. Lineup:

Weather Man Wins Charity Grid Tourney

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Columbia defeated Princeton, 13 to 0, Pennsylvania and Cornell tied, 0 to 0, in the two charity football games played at Yankee stadium this afternoon in a cold, driving rain and on a slippery field. The judges, at the end of the Penn-Cornell tie, gave Cornell the decision by 279 points to 206.

Because of the condition of the field, the deciding game, which had been scheduled for the winners, was called off. The judges also dispensed with naming the best team, because comparisons, they said, would be unfair.

8,000 Fans Respond.

In the point total compiled by Judges Walter Okeson, W. R. Crowley and T. J. McCabe, Columbia was given 255 points and Princeton 139 in the first game. The Columbia 13 to 0 score, of course, held in that match.

Despite the weather there were 8,000 in the stands.

Sustained offensive football was impossible and the wonder of the afternoon was that Columbia was able to score two touchdowns in the heavy going.

Scores on First Kickoff.

The first Columbia touchdown against Princeton came on the opening kickoff, when Rivero took the ball on his sixteen yard line, darted through a cluster of Tigers, and ran eighty-four yards for the score. Ralph Hewitt kicked the extra point.

In the second period Hewitt sliced off Princton's right tackle to run twenty-four yards for a touchdown, but this time he couldn't make the extra point.

Penn and Cornell came out in the heaviest of the downpour, and never were close to scoring. Perina, Beall and Handleman did some remarkable kicking and even completed some passes, Cornell getting two and Penn one. Cornell had five first downs to three for Penn, however, and the Ithacans were the more often in Penn territory than vice versa.

Austin, Tex., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The athletic council of the University of Texas voted today to eliminate the Texas relays next spring on account of the Olympics on the Pacific coast.

Locke Takes Up Conservation Direction Here

BY BOB BECKER.

S. Barry Locke, former associate biologist of the U. S. biological survey and intermountain forest and range experiment station, an experienced outdoors man and nationally known authority on game management problems, has been appointed conservation director of the Isaak Walton league and is now in charge of the conservation work of the league here in the national headquarters office. Mr. Locke comes to Chicago from his field work at the Ogden, Utah, experiment station.

A graduate of the University of Maine, he has had 25 years of practical field experience in studying forestry problems and the development of game management programs in the U. S. forest and game fields of the United States. He is the author of numerous scientific works on fish and game.

Mr. Locke comes to the middle west to help develop game management programs at a time when trained leadership in this field is more necessary than at any time in the last decade.

It was announced today by M. K. Reckford, manager of the Walton organization, that Mr. Locke's first assignment on middle western game questions would take him to Ohio the end of the week to a joint conference of Ohio, Kentucky, and Indiana conservation departments to discuss a plan whereby hundreds of square miles of hilly, wild country in these states would be restocked with upland game birds.

Another project which this new outdoor authority may be assigned in the future involves the reforestation of denuded lands in southern Illinois.

Although enabling legislation has been passed by the Illinois legislature, so that the road is cleared for Uncle Sam to go ahead and purchase land for national forests in Illinois, little activity is being displayed by the forestry department in Washington to set up a system of Illinois forests.

Six Catholic Youth Fives Open Season Tonight

Six quintets in the West division of the Catholic Youth Basketball league will open their 1931-'32 schedule tonight at St. Agatha's gym, Douglas boulevard at Kedzie avenue. The schedule:

Blessed Sacrament vs. St. Vitus (lights and heavies).
Good Shepherd vs. St. Pius (heavies).

Clinkstock, Dusek Ready for Mat Bout

Promoter Doc Krone offers his first winter wrestling card in the Coliseum tomorrow night featuring ten grapplers.

The main bout principals will be Jim Clinkstock, the tallest wrestler in the game, and Rudy Dusek, the shortest of the heavyweights. They will go two falls out of three.

The winner is promised a match here in the near future against Jim Londos, recognized as world's champion in New York and several other states.

In the semi-windup Jim McMillen, former Illinois football star, meets Gino Garibaldi, the Italian, who recently threw McMillen for a four months' loss by breaking his collar bone in Toronto.

Earl McCready of Oklahoma meets Pat O'Shocker of Utah in one of the three supporting matches. Kola Kwariani faces Lou Plummer in another, and Dick Shikat wrestles Renato Gardini, Italian veteran, in the fifth match.

THREE MAROONS TO FACE RHODES EXAMS SATURDAY

Three University of Chicago athletes, who survived the preliminary elimination of Rhodes scholarship candidates last week, will meet the examining committees for the final selection Saturday.

Dale Letts, who finished a brilliant track career by setting a new record in the national collegiate half mile at Stagg field in June, and George Vander Hoef, captain of this year's Maroon fencing team, will appear before the midwest committee meeting at the Midway. Ewing Kolb, member of the championship Maroon gymnastic team for the last two years, who is one of two men nominated by the state of Arkansas, will appear before the southern committee meeting in New Orleans.

Twelve candidates, the survivors of an original group of more than seventy, and including two representatives from each of six midwestern states, will be interviewed on the Midway. Four of the twelve will be sent to Oxford for two years, with an optional third year to be spent at that or any other university, or in travel.

Hornets and Shamrocks Play for Lead

The Duluth Hornets will try to put themselves in a first place tie with the Shamrocks tonight in the last American league hockey game at the Stadium until Dec. 18.

The Hornets are notoriously free stick wielders on their home ice and treat visiting players to a rough game. Manager Johnny Mitchell is one of the most ambitious body checkers in the league, and his team, never notable for restraint, takes after him.

The Shamrocks will be well equipped to deal out compensating bumps to the Hornets. With Art Smith, late of Ottawa, on the defense line with Bouncer Taylor, they have the hardest checking pair in the league. A fine skater and shot, Smith specializes in crashing forwards and rushing defense men backward.

In the 10 meetings of this and last year between the two teams, the Shamrocks have been victorious but three times. One game ended in a tie. A defeat for the Shamrocks tonight ties them with the Hornets for the league leadership. A tie game affords Kansas City, playing the St. Louis Flyers, an opportunity to pass Duluth and catch Chicago.

Leading the Duluth attack is Laurie Scott, third high scorer of the league last year. Supporting Laurie on the first offensive line are Art Merrill and Gus Forslund.

Johnny Mitchell, the only playing boss in the American league, plays center on the second line with assistances from Gloomy Leonard and Red Stuart. Both Leonard and Stuart are new to the Duluth lineup. Leonard was with Minneapolis and Buffalo last year and Stuart comes to Duluth from Seattle of the Pacific Coast league.

PONZI AND LAURI TIE FOR FIFTH IN BILLIARD MEET

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia and Onofrio Lauri of Brooklyn moved into a tie for fifth place today with victories in the afternoon sessions of the world's pocket billiard championship tournament.

Ponzi defeated Spencer Livsey of Los Angeles, 125 to 35, in 14 innings, while Lauri set down Al Miller of Racine, Wis., 125 to 45, in 16 innings. Livsey had won three straight victories before dropping the game today.

Lauri got away to a 40 to 0 lead in the first inning of his match, but had eight scoreless innings. An easy shot, which left the ball hanging on the edge of the pocket, ended his high run.

Ponzi's high run was 56, Livsey's 25, and Miller's 15.

1932 Notre Dame Eleven to Play Navy at Cleveland

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Contract for a football game between Notre Dame and Navy at the Cleveland municipal stadium on Nov. 19, 1932, was signed today by George H. Bender, stadium manager, and Jesse Harper, Notre Dame athletic director.

TITLE HOPES TO FALL AND RISE IN STADIUM BOUTS

Light Heavyweight Tourney Opens Tomorrow.

The title hopes of five fighters will be thrown into the discard for some time at the end of tomorrow's five bouts at the Chicago Stadium, when ten light heavyweights open the National Boxing association's 175 pound championship tournament.

A loss means elimination forever to championship aspirations and the loser's last chance at the title for several months.

Billy Jones, Philadelphia veteran fighter, must remove Owen Flaherty from the picture to stay in the running; Dave Maier's path is blocked by Roy Williams; Mario Campi of Italy stands between Baxter Calmes and progress; Wild Willie Oster and Henry Ebbets are in each other's paths, while Clyde Chastain must defeat Seaman Humberto Curi if he is to remain here instead of returning to the Stribling in Georgia from whom he now takes orders. This situation is that of ten windup fighters on the same card, one with no preliminary matches.

To Name Winner Complete.

Gen. John V. Clinnin, N. B. A. chief, made the following statement yesterday:

"Each boxer's future hinges upon how he fares in this tournament. Those who are eliminated virtually are forced to start all over again. There is as much incentive to win in every bout as there will be in the finals. Another point that will make for fast fighting is the distance of eight rounds. We had to cut it from 10 because of the big entry list.

"The final victor will be recognized as world's champion in all territory controlled and affiliated with the National Boxing association and a championship belt will be presented to the winner by the N. B. A. There seems to be an impression that we are endeavoring to find a challenger for Maxie Rosenbloom, the dethroned champion. This is not true since we will determine the next champion in this tourney.

The Jones-Phelps fight seems to be attracting most interest. Jones who has been called another Sam Langford, meets an elusive cowboy in Phelps, who has a style that has proved troublesome to the best. Jones' followers who watched him work out yesterday at Brown's gym say, however, that Billy carries a punches to check Phelps' punching style.

Calmes Meets Campi.

When the drawings were announced and it was found that Baxter Calmes had been paired with Mario Campi, Calmes friends were jubilant. Word from the east, however, is that Mario is a puncher who can take it and that he may carry a surprise or two for Baxter.

Campi has had thirteen fights in this country, winning eight, drawing in one and losing four.

BADGERS NAME CAPTAIN SMITH MOST VALUABLE

Is a Leader with a Sense of Humor.

...ison, Wis., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—...rold F. Smith of Freeport, Ill., captain of the 1931 University of Wisconsin football team, was chosen the most valuable player in the Badger team by his teammates today. As a result he is Wisconsin's nominee for THE TRIBUNE'S trophy for the most valuable player in the Western conference.

HAROLD SMITH.

Capt. Smith, who has played three seasons at right tackle, is a senior in civil engineering and has earned his way through college working nights as a filling station attendant.

Smith has played under a handicap, but has missed very little time in three years. He came to Wisconsin with a weak knee due to a high school injury, and has been compelled to wear a heavy metal knee brace, which he was never without until the Chicago game this year. Other injuries have slowed him, but never kept him long idle. Last year he had a severely sprained wrist; this season he suffered a broken hand. But he was always ready to play as long as he had a leg to stand on.

Seldom Conspicuous.

Smith, who stands 6 feet in height and weighs 185 pounds, was aggressive driving into the heart of enemy plays and leading his men in attack. Yet because of the finished quality of his play, he was rarely conspicuous. Although not naturally a speedy runner and being by his position on the right side of the line compelled to block for a time on kicks, he was usually down field with the ends under punts. Once in tackling punts, he rarely missed. It was almost that a defensive man came through anywhere in his vicinity to get a play.

Although naturally of a quiet and retiring disposition, he developed qualities of leadership unexpected even by his teammates and was constantly rallying his men in every game. He also had a sense of humor which was a relief when the game was not going well.

Kabat Close Second.

While the vote was not announced, Coach Thistlethwaite stated that it was close between Smith and Gregory Kabat, Wisconsin's versatile lineman, who played guard, tackle, and at times roving center on defense this season, in addition to which he starred off for the Badgers, sometimes punted and kicked goals after touchdowns. Kabat, however, is a junior, and will have another shot at THE TRIBUNE'S most valuable player honor next year.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Intercollegiate football is on the spot again. Last year it was overemphasis. The year before it was scouting, probably the most innocuous of all the imaginary ailments connected with the game. Before that it was commercialism. A new note has been added this year—the danger to the lives of the players.

When this piece went to press there had been forty fatalities recorded in 1931 football. Four of them occurred in major institutions.

This admittedly is too high a price to pay for a nation's football pleasure. No game is worth while that takes the lives of forty young men in a season. But it seems premature to condemn football because of the unprecedented toll this year.

If gridiron injuries return to normal proportions next season, as they probably will, there will be some new attack on the game. Football, it seems, always is on the defensive.

There have been no recent changes in the rules that would tend to make the game more hazardous. On the contrary, revisions in the code have worked the other way. Clipping, a practice that resulted in many serious injuries, has been ruled out. So have pushing and piling on. The game has been opened up by the increasing popularity of the forward pass and shifts. The tendency has been away from mass plays.

Playing fields have been improved. Experts spend several months of the year preparing a turf that will provide sound footing.

There is much less physical strain in football today than when Walter Eckersall, Willie Heston and Wallie Steffen were Western conference standouts. Nearly every team is equipped with strong replacements. The moment a player is hurt or exhausted a fresh man takes his place. In some of the Big Ten games this season forty men were used by a single team. The physical burden is pretty well distributed.

It is deplorable but not necessarily shocking that young men should lose their lives in three months of football competition. The Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame, where they take their football straight, recently remarked that youth itself is a hazard which the generation of adults must recognize. He pointed out that in one year Notre Dame had lost as many lives in automobile accidents as through injuries in 40 years of football.

President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern has similar views on football in relation to student health and mortality.

Taking a stroll through the lobby of the Congress hotel, the baseball center of the country this week—

You meet up with Rogers Hornsby, who hopes next year to manage the world's champions.

"And what do you think about the Cubs' chances of reaching that goal?" a reporter asks.

"Well, now, I'll tell you," replies the leader of the Wrigley forces. "It's not going to be easy, but we have a chance. Something depends on the deals we can put across in this meeting. Mr. Wrigley's bank roll is wide open but nobody seems anxious to help us along.

"We must have two new hard hitting outfielders if we are going to finish ahead of the Cardinals, Giants and Robins. Cuyler is the only dependable man we have. Stephenson will help out with his hitting, but he can't hold up for more than 70 or 80 games. Barton is still on trial.

"Our infield looks pretty well set. I am counting heavily on Hack to make good at third base and Taylor ought to be a capable relief man for Grimm at first. We know they can field, but they have got to show me they can hit. Both boys hit well in the Pacific Coast league, but they stuff the averages out there and you never can be sure of a man's worth until you see him under fire in the majors. You can't win ball games with good fielders. You must have fellows who can sock the ball."

Hornsby is of the opinion that the home run hitter is passé in the National league. The new ball has ended his popularity, Rogers believes. He sees a tendency to return to speed and tighter defensive play.

"It may take us a couple of years to get together a championship combination, but when we do we will have one that will be up there for five or six," Hornsby concluded.

HARRISON TECH ALUMNI HONOR 1931 CHAMPIONS

More than 600 alumni gathered at the Auditorium hotel last night to honor the Harrison Technical High school football team, which captured the Chicago prep championship by defeating Mount Carmel, Catholic league title holder, last Saturday. Gold footballs were awarded to all members of the squad.

Speakers at the banquet included Mayor Anton J. Cermak, A. H. Pritzlaff, secretary of the Chicago Public High School league, Ald. Toman, and Principal Morse of Harrison. Athletic Director Father Urban and Coach Hodd Offsie of Mount Carmel also spoke.

Hack "Tickled to Death to Leave Cubs"

was called then, caught the opening game of the season on May 16, 1921.

In the sixth inning, after getting the first hit of the game, a triple, off the Chambersburg pitcher, Wilson attempted to come in from third with what later proved to be the winning run. He stumbled, but tried to keep his feet. Unable to do so, he fell headlong across the plate, safe. But he lay where he had fallen. His leg was broken.

This injury prevented him from returning behind the bat, where he now found it impossible to take the normal squatting position. He could hit, and subsequently he was placed in the outfield. Later he was sent to Portsmouth in the Virginia league. The New York Giants bought him from Portsmouth for $10,000 in 1928. He could have been obtained for railroad fare, his manager said.

After two and a half seasons with New York Wilson was sent to Toledo, a Giant farm, in the summer of 1925. Here the famous story of a secretary's neglect came to pass. The Giants forgot they had Wilson at Toledo until the Cubs, at the insistence of their new manager, Joe McCarthy, drafted him in the winter of 1925-'26. Wilson then began his rise and fall as a baseball idol.

Makes Good with Cubs.

His first year as a Cub in 1926 led to speculation as to how long he would be able to stand up under the wear and tear of major league competition. A short, pudgy individual bordering on 200 pounds most of the time, he had extremely small ankles which were a continual menace to his physical welfare.

But Hack responded immediately to the north side environment and finished the year with an average of .321, his best up to that time in the major leagues. This was not as remarkable, however, as his 21 home runs, which led the National league that season. He hit safely 170 times in 529 times at bat and drove in 109 runs.

The next season, he showed continued improvement, hitting 30 home runs to tie Cy Williams of the Phillies for league honors. His average dropped off three points, but he drove in 129 runs, and was the king pin in the Cubs' attack. His average dropped another five points in 1928.

Each year he seemed to be hitting the ball a little harder and in 1929 he dropped 39 drives out of National league parks. This total, however, was good only for fourth place among the league's home run hitters, Rogers Hornsby, in his first year as a Cub, hitting 40; Frederick of Brooklyn getting 42, and Chuck Klein of Philadelphia, setting a new all-time National league record with 43.

Wilson in 1930 blazed his name deep into ways detrimental to his play. He signed a contract for $37,500 last year, but never came near earning the money his efforts the previous year had thrown his way. He failed to hit and was benched. Later he was allowed to play, but he never completely exonerated himself with his employers and subsequently was benched again. He began sulking and then finally became involved in the Cincinnati incident which definitely spelled finis for him in Chicago.

His batting average dropped to .261 and he hit only 13 home runs. His usefulness as an outfielder had been greatly impaired by what club officials said was a lack of training and respect for the more righteous social pursuits.

HACK WILSON'S RECORD

The record of Hack Wilson's batting achievements during his ten years' career in baseball to date follows:

Bears May Stop Benny, but There Are Other Giants

The Bears are preparing to stop Benny Friedman in the final game of the National pro grid league Sunday afternoon at Wrigley field, but to beat the Giants they also must halt Red Cagle, Johnny Kitzmiller, Doug Wycoff and Sedbrook operating behind a line that includes Caywood, Campbell, Hein, Badgro, Artman and Flaherty.

That the visitors are much stronger since Friedman joined them the week of Nov. 15 is indicated by the showing of the team as compared to that earlier in the season.

Coach Ralph Jones, who has brought the Bears through a successful year despite many injured players, is planning a passing game to end the season with a victory.

Lake View, New Trier Break Even

Lake View and New Trier basketball teams broke even in their practice double header yesterday at New Trier. New Trier heavies won, 31 to 27, while Lake View lights triumphed, 20 to 19.

Lindblom heavies and lights won their first practice games of the season yesterday on their floor by handing Waller a double defeat. Stankus' six points in the final quarter gave Lindblom its first victory in four starts, 21 to 18, while the lights, led by Culligan, who scored half of his team's points, won, 22 to 19.

Tuley and Wendell Phillips split a double header yesterday at Tuley. Tuley captured the lightweight game, 22 to 14, and Phillips took the heavyweight tilt, 22 to 14.

Led by Schultz, who scored ten points, La Grange beat East Aurora last night, 37 to 22, on La Grange's floor. Ghee also starred for the winner with eight points.

Marshall and Englewood split a twin bill yesterday at Marshall, the former winning the heavyweight game, 37 to 21, and Englewood the lightweight contest, 26 to 25.

Schurz's heavyweight basketball team was the victim of the Central Y. M. C. A. Day school quintet, 33 to 32. Schurz evened the count by capturing the lightweight tilt, 54 to 4. The games were played at Schurz.

Nurmighan's basket in the last five seconds gave Leo's heavyweight basketeers a 19 to 17 victory over Calumet yesterday at Leo gym.

Tilden Beats Irish Tennis Player at Ann Arbor

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Bill Tilden defeated Albert Burke, Irish professional, in 17 out of 18 games played in three sets here tonight. Tilden won 6-0, 6-0, 6-1. The match drew 3,000.

American Loop Will Retain 1931 Baseball

The specifications of the 1932 American league ball will be the same as in 1931, the baloba decided yesterday. There had been some talk of adopting the National league ball.

The American league rule against ball players in uniform chatting with friends and admirers in the stands has been reaffirmed, emphasized and strengthened. The first time a ball player is caught saying hello to a pal the assessment will be $5, and if he does it again it will be $10. It is assumed that by that time he will become sufficient unfriendly to his neighbors.

The Boston Braves announced the purchase of Third Baseman Bill Knothe from the Seattle Indians. Knothe batted .322 last year and stole 38 bases.

While the unfriendliness rule seems a little harsh on first consideration, it has its virtues, mostly in re the gamblers who annoy players with questions about "how so and so warmed up." It will be tough on the Notre Dame boys who are wont to reminisce with Ed Walsh Jr. and Billy Sullivan Jr. at Comiskey park.

Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, said yesterday that he was going back to New York with the same roster he had when he left.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 42,000; sheep, 19,000.

A bear raid made by buyers on the hog market yesterday, for the most part, was unsuccessful, and sellers withstood the pressure until near the extreme close of the day when the trade commenced to sag and some grades revealed a loss of fully 10c. The extreme tip and general average prices for the whole day were unchanged at $4.35 and $4.25, respectively.

More hogs sold at $4.25 and $4.30 than at any other prices, but right before the close of trading almost 5,000 head were dumped at $4.15@4.20. Underweights and pigs have been accumulating and some good grades of 140 lb averages were available as low as $3.75, with medium to good light pigs at $3.25@3.50. There is not much optimism heard in the hog market these days, but it is generally conceded by leaders in the trade that prices are not likely to go much, if any, lower.

No Change in Futures.

No change was noted in the hog futures market yesterday. December contracts were bid $4.20 and all January hogs carried bids of $4.50. March mediums were offered at $4.50 and light weights for that month were bid $5.20.

The liquidation of plain quality cattle continued yesterday and swelled the Chicago total to 14,000, the largest for Wednesday this year. There were signs of abatement in the market-ward movement at some of the outside centers, however, and some in the trade have expressed hopes that the country may load lightly for the next few days in an attempt to stop the break in prices. The rank and file of cattle dropped 25@50c more in value yesterday, only a few of "show" type getting much action, except at the maximum cut in price.

Highly finished steers and yearlings were scarce, and premiums were paid out for anything grading prime. One shipment of 1,285 lb steers sold to Swift at $12.25, the extreme top of the market. Armour buyers went up to $12.90 for fancy yearlings averaging 980 lbs, highest in more than a week for that weight.

Undertone Is Strong.

Yesterday's increase in sheep receipts put the lamb market to a test and buying late uncovered a strong undertone, despite the break in prices. Concessions were granted by the selling side soon after the start and the scaleward movement was rapid at the 10@25c reduction. Local packers took on most of the good grades of slaughter lambs at $6.00, while natives to city butchers topped at $6.15. The trade has been handling record supplies for this time of year. The total for the first half of this week at the seven leading markets at 204,000 shows an increase of 17,000, compared with a week ago, and is 25 per cent above the three year average for the three days.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Spot contraction of qualified buying caused further advances in coffee prices today. Gains of centsper cent closed 6 to 11 points higher. CHICAGO BANKS TAKE STAR ROLE IN CREDIT POOL

Make About Third of Loans Granted.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The National Credit corporation, the $500,000,000 banking pool formed two weeks ago to make loans to solvent banks hampered by "frozen" assets, has made loans aggregating between $2,500,000 and $10,000,000, according to data obtained in Chicago yesterday. In addition, the corporation has pending applications for loans aggregating $3,000,000 or $15,000,000.

About one-third of all loans made thus far have been granted to banks in Illinois and Iowa. These loans, which aggregate around $3,000,000, have been temporarily financed by the big Chicago banks, although later they may be transferred to the National Credit corporation. Sixteen banks have been aided and in several cases emergency action was taken by the Chicago banks without waiting for approval of loans by the national headquarters in New York. The Chicago group still has pending applications for loans totaling nearly $3,000,000.

Do More than Share.

From this summary it will be seen that the Chicago banks have done considerably more than their share in relieving bank difficulties. The plan of the National Credit corporation was to set up local organizations in the twelve federal reserve districts. These district groups were either to act as units or to form subsidiary state groups, as they deemed best. These groups were to receive subscriptions to the national pool and also receive and approve applications for loans, which then would be forwarded for final approval by the national headquarters.

Iowa Banks Join.

The Chicago federal reserve district initially was divided into five state groups, representing Illinois [including Chicago], Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, and Indiana. Two weeks ago the Iowa banks asked to be included in the Illinois group. Thus, the Chicago banks, with minor assistance from downstate Illinois and Iowa banks, have made their loans in Illinois and Iowa.

It will be seen that loans made in the states in the Chicago federal reserve district have formed a considerable portion of all loans made throughout the country. In other words, the other eleven federal reserve districts have not kept pace despite some criticism emanating from Washington that the banks in the Chicago district were not doing their part. Chicago bankers point to the data to refute such accusations.

Chicago Subscription.

Furthermore, the Chicago banks subscribed more than $30,000,000 to the national pool and have actually loaned about 10 per cent and have loans calling for nearly another 10 per cent "in work." But the national pool, as a whole, has loaned or has loans pending of only about 5 per cent of its $500,000,000 total pledged subscriptions.

The small amount of loans thus far made was attributed by Chicago bankers principally to the beneficial psychological effect that formation of the pool has had on both bankers and bank depositors. Another factor is that the pool began making loans less than a month ago, as several weeks were required for organization work. While this work was going on, bank failures waned somewhat and deposits that had been withdrawn for hoarding began trickling back. It was not that numerous applications for loans that had been filed when the National Credit corporation was first announced were later withdrawn as the crisis subsided.

Chicago Title & Trust Co. Declares Extra Dividend

The board of directors of Chicago Title and Trust company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $4 per share, also an extra dividend of $3 per share, payable Jan. 5, to stockholders of record, Dec. 31. The board of directors of the Drovers' National bank voted an extra dividend of 2 per cent in addition to its regular quarterly of 2½ per cent. The Drovers Trust and Savings bank voted an extra of 4 per cent and a regular quarterly of 3 per cent.

Bendix Stock Dips Sharply in Trade Here

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Stocks went through another series of reducing exercises, on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Selling pressure increased considerably in all classes of securities and values at the close of the day were a fraction to three points below previous closing quotations.

A sharp break in Bendix Aviation stock was the feature of the trading here. Transactions in the issue swelled to 21,500 shares as compared with only 2,100 shares Tuesday and price concessions were being made by the sellers throughout the day. The issue brought only 15¾ at midday, which was a decline of 3 points from the previous day's price. As the day closed the issue recovered only a fraction of its early loss.

Support Oils.

The aggressive sponsorship which the stock has enjoyed in recent weeks was not so much in evidence yesterday. The attempts to attract a speculative following in the stock recently have been rendered difficult by the general market conditions and it is believed that the supporting group yesterday was unwilling to take more stock at the higher price. The withdrawal of support attracted short sellers and the stock was under heavy pressure throughout the day.

Other motor accessory shares were slightly lower, but did not come in for the same amount of selling as Bendix. Utility stocks were carried down sharply in the early trading, but came back smartly in the late dealings and finished the day with only moderate losses.

Maytag Preferred Sale.

One transaction in Maytag preferred stock involving 10,000 shares was completed during the day. The quoted price was 5, which represents a considerable decline from its previous price. The issue has not been traded in here previously, but was dealt in on the big board.

Parties in the transaction are not known. It was the second transaction involving several thousand shares which has been made in the last week here. Several days ago 46,000 shares of Pines Winterfront were transferred in one trade. The common supposition was that the transactions in Pines and Maytag were cross trades made for the purpose of establishing tax losses.

SUES SHERIDAN TRUST & SAVINGS BANK DIRECTORS

Charges that fraudulent statements were made by the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank prior to its closing on June 5 were contained in a suit against the directors filed yesterday by Rose Brown, 5639 Wayne avenue, who declared she had $9,000 on deposit. She asks that the directors be held responsible because they knew, according to her statement, that instead of being solvent on March 25, as claimed in a published statement of the bank's financial condition, its liabilities exceeded its assets by more than $3,000,000.

An allegation in the bill, which was filed by the law firm of Jacobson, Merrick, Nierman & Silbert, is that on April 18, 1931, the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank borrowed $1,700,000 from the Foreman National bank, pledging collateral in the amount of $2,500,000. In order to "conceal from the state auditor, the stockholders and depositors" this transaction the assets were not delivered to the Foreman bank at the time, the bill charges, but were kept at the Sheridan Trust bank until both banks were closed and then were turned over to the Foreman bank's successor.

N. Y. CENTRAL OMITS DIVIDEND AFTER 60 YEARS

Two Other Roads Cut Payments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 9.—The first omission in more than sixty years in the dividend on the capital stock of the New York Central railroad was announced today, when the board decided to pass the $1 quarterly disbursement due at this time. Two other railroads announced reductions in dividend rates.

F. E. WILLIAMSON.

In omitting the quarterly dividend the New York Central directors declared they were changing from quarterly to semi-annual payments, but they made no declaration for the latter. The quarterly dividend would have been payable Feb. 1. The semi-annual dividend, if declared, would be payable May 1.

The New York Central has paid dividends consecutively since 1870. It paid $8 from 1926 through 1930 and it paid a quarterly dividend of $2, or at the $8 rate, on Feb. 2 of this year. This rate was cut to $1.50 each on May 1 and Aug. 1 and to $1 on Nov. 1. The total disbursement this year was, therefore, $6.

The dividends paid by the road since its organization made a total of about $660,000,000.

Big Drop in Income.

The road had a net deficit of $144,913 in the first quarter of the year and its net income in the nine months was $4,742,663, against $31,926,457 in the corresponding period last year.

The chief stockholder of the New York Central is the Union Pacific railroad through the Oregon Short Line, with holdings of 367,152 shares, according to the last compilation.

Estimates of earnings for the current year have been revised and it is believed that Central will not be able to show much more than $1.20 a share earned on the capital stock. Earnings for 1930 were equal to $7.21 a share, compared with $16.70 in 1929, $10.86 in 1928 and $13.90 in 1927.

Wall street was not wholly unprepared for such action by the New York Central. It was widely predicted that the board, governed by the unsatisfactory earnings reported for the current year, would favor omission of the dividend rate until conditions improve. The unfavorable action of New Haven and several other leading carriers yesterday prepared the trading fraternity for Central's decision.

Shares Work Lower.

Marketwise, shares of the road in the last week or more had been discounting any possible omission at this time. Following the announcement today the stock sold off slightly to a new low of 24¾, compared with the previous close of 27½, and with the high price of 132¾ for the current year.

Reports, which could not be confirmed, were heard recently in connection with the application made to the interstate commerce commission for authority to issue $100,000,000 in bonds that bankers for Central had stipulated the dividend be omitted. This, coupled with the drastic decline in net income, was believed to have exerted an influence in the decision.

F. E. Williamson, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, today was formally elected president, director, and member of the executive

EYE RELATIONS OF MIDDLE WEST AND SUBSIDIARIES

Trade Commission Is Told of Transactions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—The financial relations of the Middle West Utilities company, largest member of the Insull family of public utilities, with two of its important subsidiary holding companies came under the scrutiny here today of the federal trade commission which is examining various Insull companies as part of its general inquiry into the scope of holding company operations.

Detailed reports of the financial structures of the Northwest Utilities company and the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company were placed in the commission's records and testimony by federal investigators who examined the books of these companies was taken.

Transfer of Stocks.

Frank Buckingham, one of the examiners, told of the transactions by which Middle West acquired Northwest and of the transfers back and forth of stocks of both companies. He revealed that securities issued by the latter company as part payment for securities received afterward became available for sale "at whatever acceptable price might be offered."

Northwest resorted to what was apparently "only a financing expedient" when it issued 18,000 shares of preferred stock which it gave as part payment for stocks of three Wisconsin utilities which it purchased from Middle West, Buckingham testified. This was done, he said, "to show that par value of the preferred stock had been received in compliance with legal requirements."

Bought and Sold Again.

The same stock was later reacquired and again sold to Middle West at prices ranging from $80 to $85 per share and the excess of the amount received by Northwest over the amount paid for the stock, approximately $500,000, was credited to an account called "profit on sales of securities," the examiner stated.

Middle West also received $2,000,000 of $100 par value common stock in transactions with Northwest which it set up on its books at no value, Buckingham testified, but later at a meeting of Middle West directors it was decided to set up this stock on the books at $25 per share.

Melbourne C. Steele, examiner, who examined the accounts of the Mississippi Valley firm, told of the company's various investments in public utility properties. The examiner listed the North American Light and Power company, the American Central Utilities company, New England Industries, Inc., Peabody Coal company and Corporation Securities company of Chicago as the most important of the Mississippi company's investments, which totaled more than $35,000,000 a year ago.

CLEARING HOUSE PUTS CRIMP IN GAMBLING ON BANK FIGURES

Another crimp was put in the nation-wide "bank clearings pool" gambling racket yesterday by the Chicago Clearing House association. It announced that daily figures of Chicago bank clearings will be discontinued and that the figures will be given only to reputable publications at the end of each week.

"It has come to our attention that the Chicago figures are being used by gambling operators scattered over the county," an official explained. "We have even had crooks offer our employes as high as $2,000 a week to give them advance information. Then these pool operators could hold out the winning ticket and trim the suckers.

"One anonymous telephone caller even threatened to bomb our offices unless he was given advance information. Other persons have sought the figures in order to beat the pools. Of course, none of them knew that the figures are based on the 10:30 clearings and so nobody can know them earlier."

MONEY AND EXCHANGE

Money rates are quoted by Chicago banks as follows: Customers' commercial loans, 4½@5½ per cent; collateral loans, 4½@5½ per cent; brokers' loans, 4½ per cent; commercial paper, 3½@4½ per cent; bankers' acceptances, 30-60-90 days, 3@2½ per cent; 120 days, 3½@3 per cent; 150-180 days, 3½@3½ per cent. Chicago bank clearings yesterday were $41,400,000, compared with $62,700,000 a week ago, and $64,400,000 a year ago.

Meet Challenge of Motor Transport, Rail Man Advises

BY SCRUTATOR.

Freely admitting that what he suggests may be regarded as traffic heresy, John R. Turney, vice president in charge of traffic of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway lines, proposes that instead of trying to curb other forms of transportation the railroads should improve their own methods to meet the competitors' challenge.

"In order that they may do this he proposes liberating the roads from some of the regulative restrictions under which they now labor. He contends that governmental interference, functioning according to "false economic theories," has been the principal cause of the troubles now besetting the railroads.

Raps Defeatist Views.

"The defeatist," Mr. Turney said in a recent address at Tulsa, "would concede that the motor truck offers a better mode of transportation than the railroad, and that the latter's only hope of salvation lies in persuading the people to tax or legislate their more efficient competitor out of existence.

"The demand is an echo of that heard when the cotton spindle met the spinning wheel, and again when the railroad challenged the stage coach and steamboat. It is an attitude of cowardice which will fail in this generation even as it failed in those. If and to the extent that the motor truck is a better or cheaper transportation instrumentality, it will and should supersede the train."

He states that during the last century the railroad has surrendered its parcel traffic to each succeeding competitor which has arisen to challenge it. First to express companies and then to parcel post and freight forwarding concerns which use the railroads' own facilities to give better service than the railroads themselves could give.

Evils Grow Up.

"The progeny of this century of inertia are inept containers, wasteful packaging, incomplete carriage, inflexible schedules, interminable delays, wasteful practices, nonbearable rates, and an unintelligent classification," Mr. Turney says.

His proposed remedies include some already being tried and others that are brand new. He would coordinate the operations of trucks and railroads so that the other terminal expense of the former and the more economical line haul of the latter could both be taken advantage of.

Mr. Turney not only would divorce less than carload transportation from carload operation, and inaugurate limited package freight trains operating on passenger schedule, but he proposes divorcing less than carload rates from carload rates, putting the former in not more than two classes and in zones as large as those of parcel post. Furthermore, he would reduce rates on high rated commodities to the level of truck rates.

Roads Must Rely on Selves.

Such a step, he argues, from reducing the carrier's revenue, by increasing the load per car and reducing the ratio of tare to net load, would actually increase net earnings.

"To meet the situation, the railroad must rely upon itself," said Mr. Turney. "If it is futile to ask that the red tape which is throttling our progress be removed, it is more than hopeless to expect congress to rescue us by paternal legislation, or shippers to patronize a poorer or more costly service merely because of our need for the business.

"We have the most efficient and economical carrier in the world, and all that is necessary for it to render a service incomparably better and cheaper than any competitor is for those of us who use it to adapt it and ourselves to modern progress. Only by this means can we hope to retrieve our lost traffic."

The trucks, he asserts, have been able to take high grade traffic away from the railroads largely because, in many cases, the rail rates are higher than they would be if constructed solely upon a cost basis.

Discourages Traffic.

"The railroad less than carload classification," he says, "comprises 700 pages of unintelligible jargon which no layman understands and about which no two experts can agree. It is a modern Doomsday book. It discourages less than carload traffic by its lack of intelligence, its illogical ratings, and its illiberal packing requirements.

An overdose of regulation, he contends, has brought the railroads into their present unfortunate situation.

"The present is an opportune time to revise our entire scheme of regulation," says Mr. Turney.

"Today the authority of management largely resides in governmental bureaus on the one hand, while on the other hand complete responsibility is borne by the debarred railroad executives."

Remington Rand.

I would be pleased to have any available information on Remington Rand as concerns the investor. I thank you.—J. M. J.

Remington Rand, Inc., was incorporated in 1927 to consolidate a group of companies engaged in the various divisions of the office equipment business.

Its major policy has been to sell direct to the consumer. It maintains a world-wide selling organization.

The policy of maintaining direct sales contact makes difficult the reduction of expense on the selling force without affecting these contacts. The company has, therefore, concentrated its economy program in the manufacturing division.

A business of this type is sensitive to general business conditions. Sales for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1931, were $47,399,000, against $64,181,000 for the preceding fiscal year. Net income was $1,411,000, or 11 cents per common share, against net of $6,041,000, or $3.51 per common share for the March 31, 1930, fiscal year. Net for the 1929 year was $2,928,000.

Sales for the six months to Sept. 30, 1931, were $17,062,000 and net loss was $1,545,000. For the corresponding 1930 period sales were $24,536,000 and net income was $1,113,000, or 36 cents per common share.

On Sept. 14, 1931, a leading statistical agency stated economies effected would total about $3,000,000 a year on the present rate of business. The full effect of these was not felt until November, 1931.

On Sept. 30, 1931, current assets were $28,244,000 and current liabilities were $2,119,000. Working capital was $26,125,000, against $28,720,000 on March 31, 1931, and $31,589,000 on March 31, 1930.

Funded debt totaled $20,239,000. There were outstanding 158,021 shares of first preferred [par $100], 18,554 shares of second preferred [par $100], and 1,299,179 shares of no par common.

No dividends have been paid on the common since Jan. 2, 1931.

German International Loan.

I would be glad to be informed as to whether the "German Internal Loan 5½s of 1965" are payable in American money. What is the meaning of the word "internal" used in this connection?—A. A. C.

Both interest and principal of German government gold 5½ per cent international loan, due 1965, American series, are payable in United States gold coin.

This is not an internal issue. The word "internal" used in connection with government issues means that the bonds were sold within the country of issuance.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 9.—Government taxation proposals and budget deficits weighed like a ton of lead on the speculative market today. A long list of stocks of varied descriptions dropped to new low levels for the bear market on losses of from a fraction to 5 or 6 points.

United States Steel common sank to a new minimum of 48⅛ on heavy selling and railroad shares were slaughtered without mercy. Automobile, tobacco, radio, and communication stocks had to pay the freight on Secretary Mellon's projects for special taxes and the price declines of some of them were considerable. Mining and oil shares stood up better than some other groups against the rout, but none of them escaped without a drubbing.

Much of the selling was of a professional nature and the volume was heavier in some directions than it has been in weeks. The total turnover on the day was around 2,300,000 shares.

Rail Shares Suffer.

Railroad shares suffered not only from the government's financial program but particularly from the omission of the New York Central dividend due at this time and from unfavorable estimates on the earnings of other roads. The wage scale situation also remains a serious factor in the case of the carriers.

News that the Illinois Central had ordered a 10 per cent slash in the wages of its officers and nonunion employes and was setting about for a cut in the pay of its union workers was followed by a drop of 30 points on the first sale of the road's preferred stock.

U. S. Steel at New Low.

United States Steel at its new low today was selling at the meanest price since 1915 when it sold at 38, and was under the equivalent of its 1920 low of 70 for the first time in the two year decline. The ease with which the old line leader gave away in the face of renewed liquidation gave rise to fresh speculation regarding the possibility of a further reduction in its dividend when the directors meet next month. Steel trade summaries of the week showed a further decline in operations.

Auburn Auto again provided its quota of color to the proceedings by taking a dip of some 8 points, part of which it was able to recover before the close.

Eastman Off 4 Points.

A long list of industrial leaders was driven down to new bear market lows under a selling barrage from the bear camp. American Can broke to 59¾, and Eastman Kodak took a tumble of more than 4 points to register a new bottom at 84½.

In the public utilities department, American Telephone gave up nearly 3 points, and People's Gas sacrificed another 2 points of its rating. Heavy volume developed in American Radiator, Bendix, and numerous other stocks at lower prices.

A number of large blocks of trading favorites appeared on the tape in the course of the day, one in General Motors totaling 13,700 shares.

American Telephone Net for 10 Months Is Higher

American Telephone and Telegraph company yesterday reported for October net operating income of $2,570,551, compared with $2,821,346 for the corresponding month last year, and gross of $8,952,385, against $9,803,118.

For the first ten months of this year, net operating income showed an increase, amounting to $28,234,240, as against $27,747,253 for the like 1930 period. Gross totaled $91,909,851, against $95,868,329.

FOR EACH OF THE FIRST ELEVEN months of 1931 more shares of United States Electric Light and Power Shares (USELPS) were purchased than in the same 1930 months. November purchases were 115.85% greater than for November 1930. A USELPS purchase represents an interest in companies serving more than 200 of our largest cities with electricity.

WHEAT PRICES DROP 2 CENTS ON STEADY SELLING

Outside Influences Make Traders Cautious.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation developed in wheat yesterday after having shown considerable steadiness at the start. Houses with eastern connections sold in a most persistent manner with the action of the stock market the dominating influence, and finally stop loss orders were uncovered which carried prices off around 2½c from Tuesday's high and the close was at the bottom with net losses of 2½@2¾c. December being 82⅛@82¾c; March, 85c; May, 84⅛@84⅝c, and July, 82⅛@82½c.

There is little disposition on the part of the general trade to take a decided stand on either side of the wheat market owing to the conflicting influences, many of which under normal conditions have little or no bearing in determining the trend of prices. Pay wheat at the low point yesterday was off 18¾c from the high of Nov. 9, but was still 5¾c above the price figure on Oct. 5. During the same period U. S. Steel has dropped around 14 points from the low established on Oct. 5. The resistance shown by the grain markets in general to the debacle in stocks is regarded as indicating that the former have been well liquidated.

Mills Buy Wheat Early.

Houses that usually act for mills were good buyers of wheat futures on the local market early, and tended to offset the weakness in stocks for a time, but when the buying ceased prices dropped rapidly with the break backed by support from holders of mills and short covering. Relative steadiness in Winnipeg and Liverpool was also a factor. The Canadian market closed 1¼@1⅝c lower with December 57⅝c in Canadian currency which was quoted at 14½ per cent discount, while Liverpool lost ⅛@⅜c to go by with December at 52⅛c, based on sterling at $3.39.

Scattered showers were reported in parts of Argentina with temperatures at 100 and over at numerous points on Sunday, while the forecast was for thundershowers and cooler. Rather favorable reports are coming from the northern sections of that country as to damage by frost. Buenos Aires was 4c higher to ½c lower at the last, the former on December, which was at 41¾c, or 1⅝c under the primary delivery.

Raises Estimate Again.

Broomhall has again revised his estimate on world's import requirements of wheat and makes them 718,000,000 bu, showing 48,000,000 bu over the figures given out about a week ago, and compares with 784,000,000 bu actually taken during the 1930-31 season. His figures expected countries can spare 1,018,000,000 bu, of which the United States is given 181,360,000 bu.

Corn Closes Lower.

Corn was firm early but eased later with the wheat and the stock market and closed ¾@1¼c lower with December at 35¼@35⅝c; March, 33@33⅛c; May, 37⅜@40c, and July, 41¼@41⅝c. Scale order buying and short covering checked the decline, May being taken rather freely under 40c on scaling orders. Shipping demand was slow and country offerings light.

Liquidation was on in oats toward the last and the finish was 1¼@1⅝c net lower with December, 23¾c; May, 25@25⅛c, and July, 24⅝c. Rye developed independent weakness and closed 2⅛@2⅜c lower with December, 45⅜c; May, 43⅝@43⅞c, and July, 41½c.

NEW LOW ON BUTTER

Weather broke sharply on the Chicago butter market Tuesday, and prices declined 1½ a new low record of 24¾c at the close. January and February, 25c, both new low records, Saturday's closing prices. Trade was unsettled, with prices nominal, by mid-January opening. Receipts, 1,041,300 lbs.; shipments, 1,580,000 lbs. Cheese, 1,041,300 lbs. Delivery on Chicago Mercantile Exchange contracts, 1,580,000 lbs. Prices unchanged. Eggs, 1,041,300 lbs. Delivery on Chicago Mercantile Exchange contracts, 1,580,000 lbs. Prices unchanged.

WEAKNESS IN LARD

Hogs sold in a moderate way yesterday in the weakness in stocks, grain and provisions. A little covering by shorts was in evidence, but prices were 5@10c lower. Receipts were 30,000 lbs of lard and 50,000 lbs of bacon. Cash trade to all appearances was light. Export reports in the west were quiet for a week and a poor one, but the demand was large. Prices follow:
